I haven't been ignoring your emails I [REDACTED] in Susan's ward for going on 7 years now. I don't recall exactly when we first met but I was [REDACTED] and had talked with her and Josh on several occasions personally. I visited their home on several times also. She had confided in me that their were problems in her marriage. I suspected Josh has/had some mental illness and asked her several times if she felt that Josh could harm her. She did not. These conversations took place 2 to 3 years ago. He withheld money from her so she had to ride her bike back and forth to work. She asked for help from the church for food because he wouldn't give her grocery money [REDACTED] and told me that Josh refused to go with her to couselling. The only person I have told these things to is now yourself and our bishop. Every conversation I has with Josh was very lengthy and hard to get out of. He usually only talked about his basement remodling or his work. As I have already stated these conversations did occur quite some time ago. I don't have any current information. Feel free to contact me if you need to, I just wish I had more helpful information.

Thanks,
