Dear Steve:

I am again inquiring if you are interested in speaking with me before your discharge. If I travel to Monroe, will you please visit with me?

I am sorry about the death of your son Michael. I don't know if you want to discuss his death, but knowing you as I do, I suspect you have things to say about the loss of Josh and your grandsons. There remains a question of how the FBI treated you after those events. Of course, everyone still wonders where Susan is.

I realize you may not be able to or may not want to discuss the allegations raised against you at your trial. I can forgo those discussions, if you require it. But let's please talk about other things.

If you wish to speak, I can try to schedule something with prison staff that does not require you to expend the visiting hours you have to see family. I can address that issue with the staff.

I await word from you.

Sincerely,

The Salt Lake Tribune
