Not sure what happened but am sadly disappointed that you've not responded or put me back on the group. I'm mortified to think that someone might have considered my quietness as was one of the trolls who were being so nasty. Not my style at all.
I've been very concerned, like you, and hoped to keep up on the status of things.
I've stopped checking to see if I was readdded. But, best of luck to you for your efforts in trying to help Susan Powell. Have a good day.

am supposed to pick 12 women and who I think might participate. I think that if this group of women were ever to be in a room together, there is nothing that would be impossible. I hope I chose the right twelve. May my hugs, love, gestures and communications remind you how special you are. Please send this back to me..Remember to make a wish before you read the quotation. That's all you have to do. There is nothing attached. Just send this to twelve women and let me know what happens on the fourth day. Try not to break this, please. Did you make a wish yet? If you don't make a wish, it won't come true.. This is your last chance to make a wish!.....Quotation:'May today there be peace within. May you trust that you are exactly where you are meant to be. May you not forget the infinite possibilities that are born of faith in yourself and others.. May you use the gifts that you have received, pass on the love that has been given to you. May you be content with yourself just the way you are.. Let this knowledge settle into your bones, and allow your soul the freedom to sing, dance, praise and love. It is there for each and every one of us..'Now, send this to 12 women (or more) (u can copy & paste) within the next 5 minutes.. And remember to send this back. I count as 1.... you'll see why 0

Hello. I've been on the group for a few weeks now and have only posted once when I asked if you were a friend of Susan's when I was just trying to figure out who was who. I've been reading the board several times a day and this afternoon, I'm not in the group anymore. Is there a reason or are there technical difficulties? I've kept very quiet on the group, but have been fascinated by the thoughts of everyone. I'm also quite suprised at the drama. This whole situation is about a beautiful young mother and I can't believe that people have gotten off the matter at hand over things that are so non-related. I hope that my quietness has not been a problem either. If I need to speak more, please let me know. Susan and her family have been in my every prayer. Thank you.

if there was someone with a mustard yellow wood hauling ford truck 70s model, they should be a suspect. If the owner wears a brown cowboy hat, brown leather

Hello Fellow Graduates,

Below is some information about a candlelight vigil for Susan Powell (Cox) that will be held in Puyallup on Sunday evening. I'm sure her family would appreciate as many of us as possible being there.

[REDACTED]
Candlelight Vigil for Susan Powell

Friends and family of Susan Powell will host a candlelight vigil for Susan at 7 PM on Sunday, December 20, 2009. The vigil will be held at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Ridgecrest Building, located at 12407 Military Rd East, Puyallup, WA 98374.

We invite everyone to join us and request that those in attendance bring a candle or two to light in Susan's behalf. We will be meeting outdoors so we encourage you to dress warmly.

On behalf of the Cox Family, thank you for all your good wishes, prayers and notes of hope and support. 0

First.. my prayer for Susan... I pray justice comes and that your children are safe from harm.

I pray justice comes to the men who take away beautiful angles due to jealousy. I pray Susan did not suffer in the hands of the one who proposed that they loved you. God knows the truth and I pray God leads the investigators to a swift arrest and they can bring you home to your family.

To investigators... please talk to Susan's co-workers. They have voiced on blogs that Susan told them many things about leaving Josh and that she disliked his family. Her co-workers know who did this. Susan did not like the in-laws. Funny how we have never seen them on the press videos. They know. I am so sad to see the friends stand by evil - due to their strong faith. It is like having there eyes shut to the reality of this. They have blinders on and use God as a shield from the truth. So disturbing.

Talk to the co-workers of Susan's - please. They are the key to getting justice for Susan. She would want that. For her children. 0

Dear Class of 2000,

As many of you may already know, one of our classmates, Susan Cox (now Susan Powell) has been missing since Sunday. She lives in Utah with her husband and two young boys, and has not been heard from in the past 5 days.

There is a Facebook group with information regarding efforts to find her. You can find a link to the group on my page, and I will post a link on the Reunion page as well.

Obviously, many of us are far from Utah and can't help in the search effort. But we can lend our support and prayers to her family, and perhaps help in other ways with donations, or simply spreading the word.

I feel like I have to tell Josh 5:30 every day so he will be on time. If I am trying to get to a class at 6:30 I need to be out the door at 6:00 so when he calls me at 6:02 to tell me he is running late that dosen't fly with me. In my eyes he should have already been almost there rather than across town stuck behind an accident. The girls are here only 4 days at most if that and their mom is here by 6:00 even if she is trying to get the girl in their gear to go. As for [REDACTED] I can leave him with another family member but my girls would rather not deal with my clients much less Josh. My best suggestion is that Josh might want to work on his time management and be accountable for his actions.

You are a good wife, you are always trying to arrange things to meet his demands. That's great! My intention is not to make you have to jump through more hoops. I just need him to be aware that when I say 6:00 I mean 6:00, and that is not a call telling me whatever his excuse is for the day. I will be holding him to the late policy. I know how money talks with him and if that is what it takes then I'm ok with it even if I treat you to lunch on it. It just so happened that I had people waiting on me last night and I was 25 minutes late. We missed getting what we needed to pick up because it closed before we got there. If I have kids arriving at 6:30 and not being picked up until after 6:00 then I can't get my business taken care of.

I think you can just give Josh the just of how I feel but I'm not sure it will sink in... You are just the unlucky brunt of all my frustration. It would be nice if he could see that the world doesn't always accommodate him. He just might have to do two days worth of running instead of one as I often have to do.

Thanks for letting me vent. I have never been one for not telling other how I really feel. Sorry.

Oh ya the Policy book say it's $5.00 for the first min. and a second $5.00 for the 15 minute mark and then another $5.00 at the next 15 min mark. so if he is 16 min late that would cost him $10.00 per child at the hour I start calling emergency contacts and if I can't get them it's DCFS.

Josh is the one who tells me that I should stick to my policies so I am sticking to my policies. 0

oh boy, do you want me to let him read this word for word? that may not be a good thing. i still choose you over him. you are more reliable and obviously more accommodating. i think he meant you were "changing the rules" as far as suddenly, to him, without warning, you wanted the boys picked up at 5:30 instead of 6 like usual. obviously you are not a taxi and he's trying to abuse your constant kindness and bending the rules (like getting up earlier etc) he's still trying to make things work with one car as far as, in his world, if he picks up the kids, he loses 45 minutes of time in order to "run errands" and then he claims the places start closing at 5 and 6. i'm glad you've charged us a late fee. was it $10 only or per kid? did you tell him that yet? i've asked him a couple of times over the last year, like what would we do if you actually said no more-get another car? drop them off at 7:30am and pick them up at 5 something like normal people??? i keep offering to change my schedule, or even aim for a 6am until 2:30 shift. (i don't think i have seniority for that shift yet) obviously i'd have my own vehicle at that point. we have that motorcycle/lawn ornament. i keep saying he needs to fix that up or get us another vehicle or something. i hate to seem him taking you for granted just because i'm used to him taking me for granted...he's sooo stuck on the idea that we are only paying 3 days of daycare and saving money b/c of not a second car payment but something has to give and it sounds like he's broken the last straw a couple of times. i'm disgusted with him for last night. i thought you had left the boys with someone in the fam (b/c i thought you also had the girls staying their usual and Logan?) and he called me 5 min after 6 to say he was stuck behind an accident. well how convenient, get yourself clear across town (i'm guessing) and then 10 minutes before you need to be on your doorstep, decide to head back and then blame it on an accident-(still guessing, no clue if the accident thing was true or not) it took me that long to get a hold of someone to pick me up and then waiting for them...i think our counseling session next Tues needs to focus on not sabotaging the only good thing right now (daycare/you) because of his issues. that plus his snotty attitude whenever he's been talking to his dad or brother. whatever, let me know, have a good thanksgiving! we'll see you Monday. 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] 20:56:12 24Nov09

Sorry,

I get heated when I am being disrespected. Josh may be able to treat you like that, but I will not put up with him sabotaging me and my time like that. If he wants to talk about changing the rules, you can remind him that I first agreed to keep the boys until he got off from work and he was going to be riding his bike or carpooling and he changed the game plan. I have been bending over backward to accommodate him. I also get up early to open the door to him in the morning. My hours don't start until 7:00 am, check the policy book. For future reference he will need to contact me before 6:00 to tell me he is going to be late, and he will be charged the late fee if he calls at 6:00. I deserve to be compensated for my inconvenience. This has become a daily habit for him and it needs to change. My family deserves to have their home and mom back at 6:00pm. If he had contacted me earlier I may have been able to get someone to take them up for a service fee. I am running a child care not a taxi service. I have 7 other clients and they don't ever treat me like this. Please let him know and if he is unhappy with this he has my blessing to make arrangements for the boys. I doubt if anyone would be as accommodating or put up with his lack of respect.

The boy could have gone with him to do his running. You take them with you all the time, It's called being a parent.

P.S. I love you and the boys! 0

[REDACTED]

josh says he wasn't aware ahead of time and will be picking up at the usual for today-he'll be prepared for next week for your training right? he says you are changing the rules in the middle of the game, and i pointed out-if i had my own vehicle, i could get them and it wouldn't be a problem. that you can't pack all the kids to bring them to me b/c you are past your school run and could miss other parents. sometimes i seriously hate him. My dear friends and supporters,

It has been a while since I updated everyone on the progress of my manuscript. It has been in the publishers for over a month now, and has passed a thorough in-house review. It has been sent out among professionals, many of whom are therapists, to verify the validity of it. If most of the reviews come back positive, then it will go to the budget committee and if it passes, a contract will be offered.

The editor that I have been working with is very excited about the manuscript and has high hopes for it. If everything goes well, we should know within the next couple of months if the manuscript will be published.

The publisher was very impressed to see the number of people who have lent their support to getting this manuscript published. I am asking all of you to please send invitations to all your facebook friends to also join this group so that our numbers can continue to increase. If everyone just invited one person, we would have 1000 more to add to our numbers. If you invited ALL the people in your Facebook friends list, our numbers will increase exponentially! Please, please help me in this endeavor. If you have joined this group, I hope it is because you believe in the message my book has to offer. Please support me in telling those you know so that I can get the support I need to prove to publishers that there is a need for this book.

Please help me shatter the silence that the stigma of mental illness has created and join your voice with mine in declaring to the world that we are here and we will no longer be silenced!

Thanks so much for your unfailing support!

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 23:40:33 20Oct09

Hello Class of 2000,

I am happy to announce that we are beginning the process of planning our 10 year reunion. We have engaged Reunions Unlimited, a reunion company in Olympia, to help us plan everthing, publicize, absorb costs etc.

From now on, the best source of information will be their website, [REDACTED]. The company and the reunion committee will use that website to post information about the reunion as more information becomes available.

The first thing everyone needs to do is RSVP. Even if you are not positive that you will be able to attend (there is no exact date set yet), please go to the website and RSVP anyway. We get credit for everyone that RSVP's early, which keeps the cost of the reunion down, which makes it possible for more people to attend.

The other thing everyone can do is PLEASE pass this information on to everyone you can think of in our class. We have a pretty good Facebook group here, but many of you are probably friends with classmates who have not joined the group yet and will not get this email. Use Facebook, Myspace, Craigslist, other email, letters, phone calls, smoke signals, whatever, but please send everyone to the website so we can start the process of finding everyone and publicizing the reunion.

If you have questions you can contact me or you can contact Reunions Unlimited. Please go the website and RSVP, and get the word out to everyone else. I look forward to seeing everyone next year!

He got called into office yesterday and next thing I knew he was at his desk putting on his jacket and said to me, " I just got fired". In those 15 seconds or so is when he told me it was about being unprofessional on a call. He was already written up the week prior for being unprofessional with Susan. He didn't get to say goodbye or gather his belongings. "Have whatever you want off my desk," he said as both and walked him out. What's ironic was right when I walked into work, (yesterday) he was telling me how he had recently applied with Morgan Stanley and was in talks with his buddy who currently works for Goldman... The writing was on the wall, like you said, no big shocker. He was definitely upset, I could tell as he left! 0

oh now that you say that, i remember he said he told a client something about the rates will improve "when so and so gets their head out of their-hey anyways" and he repeated it. (the "hey" sounded a bit too similar to a**) josh and i were like, you didn't actually say that did you? and he said it was a really old man, that he laughed a lot and it made his day. for some crazy reason everyone seems to think i've got the inside scoop on being escorted out and i keep telling everyone i don't know anything. that's kind of funny that THAT is what pushed them over the edge.

been saying how he needs to get a haircut so he can go look for a job. i don't know why everyone was so surprised. it was very clear he wasn't happy here. i was just trying to figure out who was waiting on who...did escort him out, did he get to say goodbye or anything? 0

Oh yeah, I forgot about the parking lot stroll conversation we were having. Sorry to make you feel bad for it! I wasn't meaning to do that. I'm usually the one that suggests stupid things that get taken the wrong way, so it's good to see that I'm not the only one that does that. Nah, my boss probably didn't think that anything was going on between us, unless he saw me stroking your leg in the break room that one day, then seeing you take off your sweater :) Though you're right, rumors would have spread pretty fast if anyone did see us walking around the parking lot and you were in tight pants. ha ha ha. I probably wouldn't mind that rumor, though, since you're really gorgeous and all. (I'm not flirting, just paying a compliment) I wonder who is having twin girls? Is it a girl that works there, or is it the wife of someone that works there?

As for my g-pa, he had just turned 89, so he had a pretty full life. It seems like the entire family is going down for the funeral, so it's going to be a pretty full house. There's 4 of his kids, and I think about 21 grandkids and who knows how many great-grand kids. He was my last grandparent. My wife still has 2 grandparents still alive. Remember when we were writing about pack rats? Well he was definitely one of them. It is going to take a LONG LONG time to go through all of his stuff.

I'm sure there will be many fun treasures to find.

I'll be looking forward to a BBQ. I really miss seeing all of my friends at work. Especially the people that became really good friends, like you. 0

no, i think it was about starting the rumor that i was pregnant actually. and you make me feel so bad for being so stupid as suggesting a stroll in a parking lot with that guy. apparently my explanation for the garage b/c it was shaded and i didn't want to sit was naively taken the wrong way. i hope your boss doesn't think something was going on with us? that would be crazy! no parking lot or parked cars excursions for us! ha, ha, now THAT would have been some rumor! now that you are gone, i can tell you, i know somebody who is having twin girls (and i'm so jealous)

sorry about your grandfather, that sucks. josh and i used to live in a retirement facility as live in managers and we were always checking on our residents for that reason...i hope he's a better man than your silly father in law, and that he lived a good life and was ready. my gparents are somewhere in their 70's (i think late) and i don't even want to think about that happening. i had to tell my mom her father had died when i was about 10 or 11-she was adopted and had already lost what she knew as her mother. kept crying and saying, "I'm an orphan" i'm not much of a look in the casket person but i wonder if it'll be different with my close family. i'll be praying for you. good to hear you haven't shut conference out of your lives. we had it on while we were building the deck. i PROMISE a bbq, (it may be in the freezing cold) but we CAN do it. my husband actually really likes to have people over and conversation but lately we've been busy and/or everyone else seems to flake out.

anyways, have a safe trip and keep praying! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 07:04:23 05Oct09

Hey thank a million, Susan! Sorry it took me so long to respond to you. It was a crazy weekend. My grandpa died sometime on friday or saturday (they found him saturday night) and now we have to prepare to go down to southern California for the funeral this weekend.

And as for the guy upstairs, I've been praying to him quite a bit. I've been praying a lot for the past few months trying to get through a lot of stuff, and it definitely has helped a lot. I still haven't gotten around to continue reading that book, though. Maybe once a few things start settling down.

I'm glad you were able to work on the deck this weekend. We had conference on a little bit over the weekend, too. You have to let me know when your deck is completed so we can come over for a BBQ. I can't remember where our work email conversation left off, otherwise I'd pick up from there :) Was it something about that guy who felt your butt? Or maybe we have exhausted that topic. Hmmmm, was it about hair removal? 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 06:59:20 02Oct09

Well, I did get fired for the referral thing. I was so caught up with not hitting the referrals that I put a few referrals in that they said was not 'legit'. (even though I had been putting in those same type of refferals for the past year without any problems)

I have no idea what I'm going to do next. Just apply for anything and everything I guess. I'm still in shock. I don't think we'll be ordering any MK, though. Gotta keep a hold of every dollar we have. Sorry.

I haven't read any more of the book. I've just been spending my time visiting websites looking for jobs. Sorry I haven't called. I've found it's been pretty hard to talk to my friends without getting choked up. I might have to get a hair service done, maybe a trim or something so I look good for any interviews I might have. Take care. 0 you aren't getting off that easy! why the heck did that happen? you said you made your quota just the day before! and you were chatting like it wasn't a problem about an hour before i saw you being escorted away. are they trying to make an example out of you or something? and dare i ask, what are you going to do next? they are building a winco on 56w, almost 35s if that is of interest for either of you.

and i'm sure everything is up in the air right now but i was still planning on doing a mk order this month, if you still want stuff, i thought i would just take 40% off of the bill so i can make my $200 wholesale easier-(b/c there is still shipping and delivery and costs to have it on my credit/debit-so i figure that can be the 10%) so let me know and did you manage to read anymore? or are you straight on to job hunting? i'm still in shock. i'm glad i made the last couple of weeks fun for you. this is why i love FB, you don't have to loose your friends b/c of a job.

oh and i might need 2 separate phone #s to enter you and your wife into the $1000 drawing so make sure i have that by tomorrow, i think it's due by monday and you have to mail paper things in.

i'm home, call me. and i still owe some hair services to you two! [REDACTED]

I am sorry that it has been so long since I have updated everyone. For those of you who don't know, I had a contract with a publisher but negotiations went awry and my agent told me not to sign so we lost the contract. We are currently looking for another publisher but the process is long and trying. I have been debating on whether or not to self publish but it is expensive and I can't do it alone. If any of you have ideas, please let me know. Also, please invite ALL your Facebook friends to join this group so we can prove to publishers that people are interested and that this book really does need to be published. Thanks for all your help and support. You are all incredible to join me on this journey of growth and discovery. Together we can make it happen. Have a great day!!

I'm still trying to figure out the hostess thing myself. It's brand new and I don't know how to enter people in it. I'll get it figured out.

As far as adding a new team member, once you log on to [REDACTED], you put the mouse over the Business Tools part, go to online agreements, create a new agreement, then send an E-mail Link. Let me know if you have more questions about that. 0

Hey Susan, good job getting 4 people to P&P! That's awesome! Even cooler that you want to do a party! hehehe. I would be happy to help out. If you want I can show you what I do when I set up and I can teach the class, just not at my house. :) It stresses me out too much. Pretty sure next Friday will work. You will need your box of stuff to get it set up. In fact I'll send you a list of things needed for a class just so you can refer to it in the future.

Glad to hear you want to come clean with Josh. But technically you ARE helping me. Your success is my success. :) You'll have to let me know how that goes. 0 with YOU helping me, not on the regular days that the center offers. i got 4 women to show up, one actually took the white paper home, i still have to call her today. my daycare lady says i should do a faces evening with her 4 daughters and friends (one of them is just starting up Avon, so we figure we can get her to try our product, and get her to a P&P by the 24th-just to compare against Avon, and i will have met my goal of 5 for the frost ring. my daycare lady, ██████████, can't do Saturday nights and i don't think her daughters can do a Tues night-can we do it with your guidance and at her house, or your house or maybe even mine if i can kick josh out? awesome! yes i remember you telling me that [REDACTED] lost her job and needed something outdoors-b/c i remember wondering what she could do as a female, in UT/during the winter-that would allow her outdoor time-i worry about some things already coming out flaky with her but oh well. good to know if she has a job right now.

i have to say, it's really frustrating that the general motto of people i keep coming in contact with is "provide for me" even if there is no spouse, no job etc. everyone can't assume that their perfect job will fall in their lap-or rely solely on self employed income-like selling something ([REDACTED]) [REDACTED] and then just sit on their thumbs when they have no income. we have definitely moved away from the one working parent lifestyle (still a few blessed, like you i realize) but it's like people are in utter denial that they might actually have to work the non perfect-non dream job...this particular rant isn't directed at you or anyone you know...just what i've been experiencing lately.

Hey. Left a message on your cell phone last night. We're heading out of town today to camp in Idaho all weekend so I needed to let you know about this before I left.

I was visit-taught last night and that reminded me to finally contact our two ladies. I texted [REDACTED] and she called me back because she was on her way to...her new job! Yes, she is now working at [REDACTED]). She isn't getting a huge salary but it's better than no job at all. She did some training and started Wednesday of this week working.

Didn't she tell us that she wanted something outdoors because of migraines or something? I asked her about that she said "you must have me mixed up with someone else. I never said that." So I am way confused about that. I'm absolutely positive she told me she gets sick and headachey indoors and needed something outside.

Anyway, I asked her when we could visit and she said she'd have to let us know because she is working part-time and never knows what her schedule will be. She might have 8 hours a week or it could be as much as 40. They are being flexible about her needing to be there for her kids.

Then I called [REDACTED]. Her husband answered and I actually got to talk to her. She said she's being induced on Tuesday. I had forgotten that she'd planned an inducement all along. She said she has babysitting all worked out and doesn't need anything. I begged her to call us if we could help in any way. I guess the RS will need to bring in meals starting Wednesday, possibly? I forgot to ask which hospital but we should probably know that, too. She said she is comfortable and feels good and is fine. Obviously we can't really visit her right now so we just need to keep checking up on the situation, I guess.

That's it! Have a good weekend,

Hey Susan, Yeah, we'd be happy to help out, and I know my kids would love to play with some little kids..they are pretty cute with the little ones. (probably becuae they feel like big brother or sister) :) I was chatting to [REDACTED] about when we could hook up, [REDACTED] could actually work around Josh's schedule and hed be happy to give him a hand :) [REDACTED] is so so SO good with that kind of stuff. He's finished quite alot of basements. So just let us know what will work for Josh and then [REDACTED] and I and the kids can come over and hang with ya! Let me know what you think okay? 0

[REDACTED]

oh! i didn't even know that [REDACTED] had a companion! funny. yeah, you should come over, see [REDACTED] in his natural habitat. and i've seen your beautiful home, you should see mine. i'm off wed/thurs but you work now so i'm not sure when we could connect. [REDACTED] was wearing the yellow polo shirt to church and the yellow long sleeve shirt last night. he suddenly came down with the fever-weird. and he loves the light blue jacket and wanted to wear it immediately but i told him it was too hot (b/c it was) i can always take your hand me downs.

i guess your husband is interested in chatting with josh and i suggested if he did it through service then my husband would be more willing to listen/spend the time. the hardest challenge is i work saturdays so josh can't really multi task any work with the kids. i was thinking it'd be awesome if you played with the kids (and your kids) at either house, and let the men do their work.

we have a deck to be built so we can get the wood out of our garage and park inside again.-kind of vital-we put the kids in the car at 6:30 in the morning and it's getting colder each day, plus there is often lag time and i hate having them out in the driveway all exposed.

and we have an unfinished basement, about half of it has dry wall hung already. for all of josh's projects he basically needs a second set of hands to help hold things, hand him tools etc...(it's usually me helping him) anyways, your husband and i kind of got cut short last night. but i wanted to tell you/him. josh gave [REDACTED] a blessing last night. and he's never stopped wearing his garments. that's encouraging, i think the general feeling is [REDACTED] and everyone else at church has no clue how to interact with josh and assume he hates the church and i guess it's not that really, its just that its not conveinant for him to attend it or be encouraging to me and the boys etc...and obviously, very weak faith at the moment...so i get off at 5:30 and my home computer is broken, so i wouldn't see fb or email until friday-but my cell is

i confirmed with my teenager to be at my house at 8:30 (appointment at 9 and i've already got the paperwork filled out)

i talked to a member in our ward last saturday (rocked josh's world, i didn't get home until almost 9pm, he had to make dinner-and not use a vehicle...) and this guy literally had divorced his wife, remarried her and got sealed to his fam in the temple. he sees a lot of himself in josh as far as religion, so he was helping me with that male perspective and coaching me.

yeah we did our trip to WA back in feb, broke, poor, no more vacation left. haven't even done our taxes yet, 0% credit card due in nov...josh just always says the classic, "we need to catch up on our finances" and mean while, we keep living life and not catching up.

i'm nervous, i think we have a female counselor and aside from agreeing to finally doing it, he hasn't said a word. my bottom line is this or divorce but i don't want to sound that harsh and i'm pretty sure he is just in a defensive mode...i gotta go talk to you tomorrow 0

by [REDACTED] @ 16:27:01 31Aug09

Its a crazy day when your kids start going to school. We have both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] in full-time this year.

Good luck with counselling. I will pray for you guys. If you ever need to talk, please, please give me call. A supportive sounding board has been really helpful for me when I am going through stuff and so I offer that to you too.

My guess is you aren't coming into town for the fair?? We will always miss that when you guys aren't here. :-( 0

[REDACTED] (my baby) is starting preschool with the 3 yr olds even though he is not quite 3 yet. and josh and i are starting [REDACTED] -this time it WILL work or else. and i just started a book, "[REDACTED]" that is giving me a slap in the face so far, and i'm only in chapter 2 0

o.k. so we'll just stick to the 9-11 class. And I'll get him a ride back to the babysitter's home. His class starts in 4 days:-) Tues, Sept. 1st. 0

[REDACTED] @ 13:51:12 28Aug09

i think i'd rather keep him in the morning class, or else my weekdays (wed/thurs) which i cherish, would both involve preschool and we wouldn't be able to do anything fun-which really sucks when i work Saturdays all day and i just discovered i can take my kids to the zoo during the week...plus trying to schedule dentist/dr etc appointments [REDACTED] unless you wanted to make your 3 yr olds meet mon/wed like [REDACTED] but i'm sure that's a ridiculous question. ps. which week are you starting school??? 0

[REDACTED] @ 12:38:02 28Aug09

Hey, here is another option. I (or someone you know and approve) will pick him up for the 11:30 class and I will take him back to the babysitters after 1:30. I am needing more kids in the 11:30 class, it is a hard one to fill.

Let me know.

Thanks,

[REDACTED] @ 07:54:16 28Aug09

ok, let me know if you need a spare booster seat. i believe he is heavy enough that we could leave a booster seat with that person. and good news, he's a lot closer to

potty trained! but i won't guarantee accident free yet...and does he start Tues the 1st or 8th??? 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 07:14:08 26Aug09

I wouldn't have a stranger drop him off. I'll ask someone we both know. I would but my next class starts at 11:30 and parents will not always be on time picking kids up at 11:00 and the 11:30 class might drop their kids off a little early. 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 14:40:06 24Aug09

but should i be worried about some stranger dropping off my kid with or without a car seat? would it be a regular person or anything consistent for [REDACTED] and my daycare lady? 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 12:30:31 24Aug09

9:15 is fine. I can't drop him off, but we can find him a ride. I have a lot of kids that live close by. 0

[REDACTED]

i couldn't remember the exact time but i thought you said a 9:30 vs noon start times? My daycare says that she's already taking kids to school at [REDACTED] at 9 so she is willing to drop [REDACTED] off at about 9:15 if you could just take him back to daycare afterwards, this would normally be on Tuesday. i'm off on Thursdays so i can take him both ways on those days.

i hope that makes sense, and thanks again!

and 2 each of 4r $13.32 and 4n $13.32 (and later exchanged the 4n for 3g) = [REDACTED]

and i split the cost of foils and bleach between you/your ma and my daycare lady since you/your mom and her are really the only people needing blonde...

foils your half 5.49

bleach your half 8.40

plus half the tax $2.50

puts it to 25.37 and you paid 11.00=$14.37

I don't know if you relayed to your mom or either of you have forgotten so i thought i should remind you. and ps, wow! on the possible home schooling, that would take a lot of drama out and maybe you could just do a photography or dance class to get the socialization stuff. and how is your dad?? 0

(when i didn't know about them, and she had just barely left, we had some in depth emails about how shocked we were with her not running back to TX for her kids and such...)and i thought i told him that they ended up getting married (so if i did, is he in denial or what?) i'm half tempted to talk to [REDACTED] about our little incident but i won't. (i'm still shocked i told you-but i'm not his judge of [REDACTED] and neither are you and now you can help me with how not to think about that and help me to change my interactions so i'm not encouraging more of that with him.) but now that i think about it, i think she was mentioning how clingy he was when she had already moved on from him...geez i'm so naive on some things i guess! and i haven't forgotten i owe for [REDACTED] gift, she owes me for a bunch of hair stuff so i was thinking it would come from that-and now i've spent so much more money. i actually gave my gift card to my husband with an apology sentence via email.

John came home from work Thursday with news that the husband owner of his company (owned by a husband and wife) had an affair with a neighbor. 11:15, so i figure they can play at the cooler temp, less children 10 am, and be done by the time they pass out lunch. (this way there should hopefully be more swings available and less children b/c i find it hard to let them run and play when i'm constantly unsure of where they are b/c too many kids to tell apart to keep track of your own. ps, bring food for yourself, they don't want to catch you snacking off of the kids meal or bring $3 and buy your own-if you stay until about 12:45, they usually let the kids have seconds... (not that i plan to be there that long tomorrow-but for future reference...)

so by the "oh" i'm assuming you meant the 15th? i could possibly try, i don't know if your director even wants someone wishy washy like me. possibly play wednesday by ear as far as josh/the deck is concerned...do you have your 5 people yet? 0

you know i'm always there if food is involved! and yes, park sounds great. may not be to the park in time-and may be just leaving for camping, i'm just trying to find a better time to go 0

i'm at work, i'm not even supposed to access fb, email etc...but they just don't have the technology to catch you unless someone you don't like is over your shoulder...and i'm ashamed to say, the crappy computer i have access to at home is soooo old and slow that i literally log into fb, walk away, click profile, walk away...b/c it takes so long to load. josh is still the usual as far as high tech computer whatever that i don't have a log in for. (even if i did, the computer is downstairs in the only finished room that i don't frequent except at night for my treadmill/House or NCIS viewings...)

we are building a new deck, he's full time salary at his job, spent big bucks on a lifetime vacations wholesale deal (NOT a timeshare) so we've been busy and he always has an excuse or something with a higher priority whenever i mention the crappy computer, unfinished basement, unfinished yard etc...but at least i'm a good lookin' now brainwashed to have low expectations-nagging wife...

anyways, how are you? it seems like as soon as [REDACTED] heard i was considering divorce that she was my friend again but since my divine and constant answer seems to be-stay it will work out eventually, i think i've lost her friendship for good. i wish we could get our spouses to get over themselves so we could all hang out. if i can tolerate josh's evil dad, surely our spouses could let us all be friends. i know josh misses you. you were one of the few people he could relax and actually have fun with. it seems like he's purposely so busy to try to fill the void of nobody really being his friend.

anyways, sorry so long and not exactly an im/how are you guys? still working? what's [REDACTED] up to? i know she's working again but what? i assume you guys are still trying for another- (i think we will be too-and i'm hoping it won't take long, i'm feeling my age.)

fb-chat with you soon! 0

Yes $ 40 more and I do think it would be worth it. Based on the changed to met Josh, car poll issues he gets 6 free hours a week. So $40.00 is a steal. 0

[REDACTED] @ 07:18:32 14Jul09

yeah, he immediately said, "don't cut your hours" i'm not sure that i can get another week day in for work-i could try. you are charging 140 a week for 2 kids, 3 days a week so would it be 180 for 2 kids 4 days??? that might be worth it if i can keep my 40 hr week and get saturdays off... 0

[REDACTED] @ 16:54:43 13Jul09

Your so funny and Yes I am flaming red. Maybe you can pick up another day during the week and have saturdays off, That way I make more money and you get a day of family time and project hand holding. ;) 0

[REDACTED] @ 16:32:15 13Jul09

ps, you are soo red!!!! i'd never lose you! you better not have cancer or suddenly decide to move or something! seriously, if i had to pick my job and your daycare to keep vs josh...i just might go with the first... 0

[REDACTED] @ 16:29:30 13Jul09

that's the problem, i wonder if i can just eliminate my saturdays so i can have family time/project time but keep the daycare position...i'm sure nothing will change, and i'm sure josh's bottom line is to not cut my paycheck. i'm also fairly confident that they wouldn't let me tweak my schedule significant enough to matter either. are your other people current or even trying yet? i also don't want to cut you out of your regular paying clientel and i'd only do it if i could know i could keep the spots...so i don't think anything will change, maybe just daydreaming, wishing i could be home sat and sun for the fam fun and the house project hand holding 0

[REDACTED] @ 16:21:04 13Jul09

You can always chose. I will just advertise and fill the spots. I gotta make a living. 0

[REDACTED] @ 15:48:15 13Jul09

so if you are looking, josh is picking up the boys w/o me today. (my coworker is having her baby at home and i'm going to visit) so i'm getting a diff ride home-later

and my work is offering wierd part time shifts temporarily for the summer. and more rare, graveyard shifts. i'm wondering if i could change my hours/days or not take them to daycare at all, but i don't want to hurt your paycheck and i want to obviously keep the spot. i haven't had a chance to talk with josh about this... 0

wow . . . thank you so much for the update. I've been trying to text [REDACTED] on her old cell phone with no success obviously. How in the heck did you get ahold of her?? Glad you did. Sounds about right of when I last spoke with her and mom filling in the last tid bits of actually divorcing [REDACTED]. That's too bad [REDACTED] got ahold of her debit/card. I must say not at all surprised. I sure hope she gets all her kids back. What a difficult time this must be for her. I'm keeping busy with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. If one is asleep the other is awake:) I think I've had about 2 to 3 hrs of sleep a night. A little dilerious. Good things [REDACTED] has the sugar free vanilla lattes to keep me going:) So I tried calling you the other night. It was 8 or 9 p.m. my time. I'll be home or my cell is [REDACTED]. Thank you again for the info on [REDACTED]. I've been thinking about her a lot lately. Texting is grand. Not sure if you have it on your phone, but you should get it. [REDACTED] and I seem to keep in contact that way along with our weekend telephone calls:) I'll try giving [REDACTED] a call tomorrow. Kiss and hugs to [REDACTED] 0

i let her tell me on her own, she truly sounded happy. she said she is divorcing [REDACTED], living with girlfriend's and her guy friend [REDACTED] y (she specified that [REDACTED] thinks she's with him but he's just a friend)-helped her get a cell phone. she says he bought the phone and she pays the monthly bil. she says obviously don't tell/give [REDACTED] she said she didn't think she had your # anymore so to call her so she'll have it again.

she says she hasn't seen [REDACTED] for 1 wk b/c she has a restraining order on [REDACTED] and he won't get out of the house/mobile home. and hasn't lived at her home for 2 wks. she goes to court this monday. that mom and dad said to "let the judge kick [REDACTED] out" and she/her lawyer think the judge will at least take temporary custody away from [REDACTED] and she hopes they arrest [REDACTED] over his warrants. that if the judge doesn't kick him out, he'll have to be out in another 2 wks anyways.

she did the usual, "████ got her a dog and then told dad that █████ got it" █████ used her bank card and since then, she's changed the pin...she wants to get her hair highlighted (asking if i'd be in WA anytime soon) and that she hasn't "retained/worked out a payment schedule" for her lawyer yet, but he'll also help her get █████ anyways, she didn't mention █████ specifically. and when i was trying to think of people that could highlight her hair (mentioned can't be █████ only cuts hair...) that she "doesn't want to have anything to do with people in the church. i guess we immediate family aren't included in that? so i don't know if she is at all keeping in contact with █████ or not but she wanted you to have her # and i told her i'd get it to you-have a good night. hug/kiss █████ and █████ for me! 0 you are so awesome! Thank you for the Welcome back note!!!

I to have mixed emotions about her. I really do hope the best for her but I am glad that I dont have to be around her any more she made me feel unsure of myself because she was always questioning what I told her. We will have to talk about it when you come in tomorrow..... 0 you should have seen her strutting around, getting hugs from █████ and like, chatting with everyone all day, it was weird and awkward (to me) to see her there. she had a tank top on and jeans and sitting on people's desks...there was a lot of confusion on if she was really let go b/c she was here so long.

i have mixed emotions about her, i've talked personal/spiritually with her and as a loving observer, (sort of how a bishop or what you might imagine Jesus would look at us as...) and i get so frustrated with the choices she seems to make so i'm kind of glad she's gone, but hope she'll be alright (but who can't be if you can still live with mom and dad?) anyways, i'm trying to be Christlike but i'm frustrated b/c i don't think she's figured out which side she wants to be on and sitting on the fence is not an option. (like you and me got off the fence and trying to do the right thing...) this is why i don't think i could ever be a bishop, or in my case, a RS president-good thing i'm only the secretary. anyways, since i never have time to talk to you (wink at your daughter for me) and since i know i could never write this in work email....anyways, have a nice day, see you soon! 0

Hello everyone!!

Two nights ago, I received a phone call from an Editor who couldn't stop raving about my manuscript. She said that the manuscript has to go through one more editor before it is okayed for publication, but she said that she was not going to let the publishing company pass my book by. It is not quite official, yet, but I was told that I would receive an official phone call in a few more days. She is looking for it to be released next March!

Thanks so much to all of you for your help and support. If you haven't yet invited your friends, please, please please send invitations to all your Facebook friends so I can show the publishers that I can continue to gain support before the release date. Also, this group is almost to 1000 people which means I won't be able to send group messages anymore, so keep visiting this site for updates or follow me on Twitter if you want to stay updated on publication. Thanks again for everything. You guys are the greatest!!

Thats not fair!! You deserve a night to yourself!! What movie did you watch? We blessed [REDACTED] on Sunday, my dad did at his church, there was alot of family and just old friends from my parents ward, it was nice. She is having twins? A boy and a girl?

That is crazy!! 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 21:03:20 03May09

so i was right, they showed up right in the middle of my movie. and to boot, it wasn't that good either-just like the pizza, looks like my solo girl's night was a flop, what a loser i am! anyways, what's up? why are you greatful for a supportive fam? and can you believe, one of my "friends" (but i don't really know how i know her) just announced she's having boy and girl twins. that pisses me off!!!! not FAIR!!! 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 22:21:36 28Apr09

Hello Rogers High School Class of 2000 Graduates,

As those of you who did well in math have already figured out, it has been nine years since we all graduated from high school. Which means, next year will be our 10-year reunion. We are starting to plan the reunion now to make sure that we have the first choice of venues, caterers, etc.

The first thing we need to do is form a reunion committee. We probably need about 10 people that would like to help plan the activities, communicate with planners, make menu decisions, etc. So, if you are interested in being on the committee please let me know. It should not be a huge time commitment, especially since we are starting early, and it will be a great chance to get involved and help make sure we have a great reunion.

I hope you all are doing well and I look forward to seeing everyone in about a year!

[REDACTED]

P.S. Whether you would like to be on the committee or not, please start contacting friends from our class and letting them know about the reunion. The more people we all are in touch with, the better the turnout will be. 0

i hope its swimming for fun and not exercise, you realize you have the perfect hair, bod etc. most girls probably hate you for your good fortune. i probably would have 10 yrs ago...but i know you, so i don't. yeah check your voicemail. i ended up home at 6:30 and josh is off doing his thing, poor communication on his part, so i ended up starting to walk and my daycare lady picked me up and took me and the boys home so she wouldn't have to wait any longer. i told josh he shouldn't have the car if he can't be responsible enough to pick up wife and kids and finished with, 'i'm so disgusted-i'm hanging up, i don't even want to talk to you" (after i had finished yelling at him) 0

we are supposedly going to the garden store tonight, so josh can ask questions about how to prune our cherry tree and maybe pick up some products. but [REDACTED] is also coming over to pick up our tax papers, (yes, Josh is the KING of procrastination) as well. so i don't know when we'll be home. and our neighbor's dog takes our dirty diapers away so it's probably not wise to just leave it if we aren't there...but i think he wants to be quick at the store and actually be doing the work in the backyard, so how about i'll call you if it looks like there's an opportunity to drop by, i just DON'T want to deal with him on this. or else i could pick it up wed or thurs. althought [REDACTED] has to be put to sleep for more dental work wed am and josh is coming to that...is that a spastic enogh answer for you? 0 has my order come yet? after all that worry, i cleaned out my drawers and found a spare moisturizer-nice eh? (ms canadian) but i'm just about gone now on the indulge soothing eye gel, i'd say a necessity for every working mother. me ma treated me to some eye colors, you'd be so proud, i'm all smoky! but nowhere to go...and josh is coming home late tonight, he actually joked and said that i'd need to send my boyfriend home by 9, ha ha, i played along. if you see this on friday, answer me on my work email, i really don't need to go to hotmail and facebook at work, (apparently a "write up" able offense,) now that i have access here. i'd be taking all those quizzes too but my computer is pretty slow, low priority right now, we just had to replace our brakes, renew our car, still haven't seen the bill on my orthotics... 0

Today is our 8 yr anniversary. In my soul/heart I know that josh and I will stay married. He's putting forth efforts to change when I push him and even, when I don't. he's even read a tiny bit of [REDACTED] but is already claiming the guy who wrote it is wrong... [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I'm annoyed b/c I want to have that third pregnancy. Notice I didn't say 3rd child, b/c I'm still holding out that I'll have twins...and I don't want to wait much longer b/c I don't want a huge gap in ages and I don't want to keep yo-yo-ing with my weight so I want one more pregnancy (which I feel I've already been told by the Lord-just one more pregnancy) and then I want to be done. But I'm frustrated b/c I feel like I'm being selfish to put off another just b/c I don't have the perfect marriage yet, but I know overall, it's good, it'll work, and may take another 10 yrs to get josh closer to where we were when we were married. You know, actually goes to church, willingly and with a good attitude participates in scripture reading/family home evenings, prayer etc. we are getting a bit better as far as affection goes, but unfortunately its only in the bedroom, he's still too afraid to ever kiss/hug me or hold hands so that's still annoying...

oh well, thanks for listening! hope [REDACTED] bday was good!

let's do the acne gel treatment, $7, indulge soothing eye gel $15, and the NEW age fighting moisturizer with sunscreen for $22 (not the day solution for $30 to clarify) which would total $44 before tax so i get the mini microderm set as gift.

if you happen to see this in time, let me know the total and i can take the cash out on an atm before i leave today at 5:30pm and bring it tomorrow at church. i don't think josh or the boys are going to be there tomorrow. kid at daycare has strep and they were both coughing and/or fever last night... 0

I went through my lip-samples and here's what I have. so far... whipped berries, frosted rose, toffee, raisinberry and shell. I'm going to look and see if I have a melon sorbet lipgloss. you might like that one. I don't think the frosted rose is grandma-ish. :) I just sold 3 of them recently so it's fairly popular. Maybe you could grab them when you take [REDACTED]? Or I could run them over to you. Just let me know what time. 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 12:09:20 21Mar09

or shell or maybe a gloss?? i love the look of sweet nectar on my fingers, and not as much on my lips (more color pigmentation) shiny and slightly orange... 0

[REDACTED]

well then i might as well throw in the indulge eye mask i'm running low on as well..i'm liking the lipsticks, sweet nectar, whipped berries for evening time, and i tried frosted rose that night but its too boring and grandma-y i wonder if i could try toffee or raisinberry or garnet frost-what do you think 0

████████████████████ @ 11:05:00 20Mar09

The total would be $30.99 for the gel and moisturizer. You would wash your face like normal, then apply the gel, then the moisturizer. It says to apply 1 to 3 times daily, starting with once a day since it dries your skin a bit. Obviously you put it JUST on the pimple not your whole face.

Since it IS a new quarter, there are new gifts with purchase. Spend at least $40 and you get a mini microderm abrasion. I don't think the new look books are out yet but there are a few other limited edition offers. 0

i can put the gel on underneath the mineral foundation? (i assume) that plus the timewise moisturizer will get me through short term.what's that total?
(unless there is some min purchase deal going on) and i just figure ██████████ will have the cavities and ██████████ will need the braces, unless he tries to blame me for that too. but i know both he and i had braces, and my teeth stayed straighter than his and i have had way less cavities so neener josh! you are right husband's are funny. 0

████████████████████ @ 10:40:27 20Mar09

The gel is for applying on the actual zits themselves and the toner is more of a preventative measure. Does that make sense?

Yes you ARE just that cool! :)

Josh is silly. I brush so much better than ██████████ but my family just seems to have weak teeth and ██████████ is the opposite. I'm hoping ██████████ gets the ██████████ as far as teeth go. 0

which one is meant to zap actual zits? b/c i need the timewise moisturizer too.

and yes, i'm just that cool of a person, if only the rest of the world realized that! j/k.

yeah josh tried to say it was my brushing skills that brought on the cavaties and the only reason ██████████ doesn't have them too is b/c he's too young. i very quickly pointed out all of his cavaties at age 16 and it could be more about hereditary....and suggested he be the sole toothbrusher.... 0

████████████████████ @ 10:27:33 20Mar09

The toner is only $13 and the acne gel is $7.00. If you wanted both the total after tax is $35.26. So since you already paid $10 then it is obviously 25.26. So it's up to you what you want to get.

Dang kids and their cavities! ;) Those orthodics have to be frustrating, but I'm glad you plan to take care of yourself. Oh and my other sister- she still hasn't told me why she was so upset that day. Totally unrelated to anything or anyone at the MK thing. I just thought it was funny how my OTHER sister and my mom both brought you up when we weren't even really talking about the event or anything. 0

[REDACTED]

thanks for the compliments, i'm beautiful inside and out? every girl needs to hear that. (its my friendly hairdresser personality) i had fun hangin out with them and felt bad that the one sister left. like it was my fault if i sounded too friendly or something for her but oh well.

i've got to put down at least $200 towards 2 of the 4 cavities [REDACTED] has, plus upto $500 for my orthotics in this next month and still a descent list of stuff i'd like to get but hoping i could put off for a month if possible or at least once i see how much the orthotics end up costing. do you want me to just put $35 worth of order in? ($10 cash you have and $25 from my gift card as far as josh is concerned?) 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 09:52:29 20Mar09

Hey Susan how are ya? My order came with the blemish control toner 3 and the acne treatment gel. So later when I was talking to my mom she's like, so how do you know that girl...Susan? I like her.

Then later I was talking to my sister and she said practically the same thing. haha I just thought it was funny. They thought you were really friendly. and pretty.

i was physically exhausted (and emotionally) after last night. so did david change his schedule to fit you and school in better? what's your school schedule like?, we need to get together one of these nights, it doesn't seem like they will ever offer ot here again, kind of depressing. and don't worry, my lips are sealed 0

yeah we need to talk, and i know its not easy to get out-when you love him, and i'm not saying to run, just create distance so he will persue you, it's that whole, you have the milk so why buy the cow? he really needs to commit and blow off mom/dad. my husband hasn't even done that with his pervert father. and we will be married 8 yrs next month. you have enough to worry about in life, not to add on a roller coaster relationship. i know its hard if you love him, that's the point. its even harder to walk away if you love him, harder to stay single if you do leave. comfortable is what's keeping my sister (the white trash one, not the 2nd marriage one) from leaving her physically, verbally and financially abusive husband...she's comfortable in her crappy job, home and marriage 0

Did you read the second one? I know what you're thinking about getting out. It's not that easy...I love him. I think things are different. They felt different last night and this morning. I don't want to be on my own. I am terrified if I do, our relationship will move backwards and I don't want that. I love living over there. I really do want him. You know how I like a challenge. I'm not letting his Momma win. He's a good influence on me getting done with school. He does want to get married eventually, have kids, etc., he's in grad school, [REDACTED] loves him. I can't explain it but I am drawn to guys that make me work. I can not stand when it's easy...I get tired and walk away. That was all of my previous relationships (but one) and marriage #1. I know this is going to freak you out but I think I do want to marry him. I know, I know. But I really do love him. 0

first, before i even read your other message, get out. don't stay in his place, don't let his mom and dad always have the influence on his relationships. IF HE REALLY LOVES YOU HE WILL PERSUE YOU. actions speak louder than words. my friend's sister literally moved out of state to chase her boyfriend, they married, the day of marriage her entire family was saying "its not too late" and she was thinking, "well i already got everyone here and the party going..." and during her honeymoon she was thinking "what have i done?" and you guessed it, porn, spousal rape, 2 boys and him bi polar and in denial and able to smoke screen his symptoms occasionally. and now (after i think 7 yrs marriage total ) it took 2 yrs to divorce him. i don't want you to jump into a relationship when YOUR divorce isn't final and if there are ANY red flags (you've listed a BUNCH) then don't stay. he'll decide who he loves more, mommy or you. that's what my sister did to her second husband, said, "i'm not dealing with this crap" and walked away, notice i said second /current and happy husband. (jewish by the way) the one thing i got from counseling was an indication of the future would be his past actions. if he's at ALL talking with other girls WHILE you are living with him, doesn't bear well in my book. remember i've put together that my husband had a live in girlfriend that was giving out their phone# other people last night isn't true. But, I was reading his email and he has one from some girl named [REDACTED]. This is interesting, the subject says "Our chat". The message proceeds to say, "Thanks [REDACTED] but I am seldom online and prefer email. How are you?"

[REDACTED]

What the heck is this? So, obviously he is talking/messaging or something someone else now? What am I supposed to do?

I have never felt more sick in my entire life.

I feel like his mom is ruining our relationship and I do want to be with him and I am in love with him. I do honestly believe that before his mom intervined last Monday, things were perfect. How do I fix this? I really do think that he does want to be with me and that I do believe him when he says that he loves me. I think it's the mom that is reeking havoc on our relationship. I don't think that me moving out is the answer. If I do, how am I supposed to trust him? How am I supposed to trust him now? I'm living with him and he is talking to another girl.

My mom says not to bring up the email because then he will get mad that I am reading his email, but what I am supposed to do? Ignore it? I contemplated writing her back from his email. But I decided that wasn't probably in my best interest.

I don't know what to do. Please help me fix this.

I love you bestie. 0

([REDACTED] parking lot) i'm sure [REDACTED] has a clue about where i'm talking about. or we could go together if we can ever coordinate a schedule but you need a [REDACTED], i could pass on my "prof" card if you want....

everyone at work has been asking me about you. All worried about you, hoping you retest and can get rehired and asking me to tell you that...you haven't sold me on the "base + commission" concept yet. i'd worry that the base is too low or that your license would expire before you ever get rehired, the rule is your 7 license is good for 2 years without being employed by a broker (that's why I had about a year and a half off with fidelity before I rehired at WF) personally, I'd push for the call center atmosphere, hrs, and guaranteed pay in this crappy economy...and then if you can come back, you could even carpool and get [REDACTED] shift!

by the way, i'm a total heifer now, at LEAST 4 lbs gained if you take out the 3 lbs water weight that i seem to usually fluctuate...i'd love to get those dvds back and ([REDACTED] misses you too) and [REDACTED] said he was totally going to razz you about the [REDACTED] I guess it got real air time according to him... unfortunately I'm still branded the loud one and these silly boys think I'm going to tell all about their lives expect I don't, I only talk about mine and I even pointed out to him that I kept my mouth shut about you two and then when I got back, [REDACTED] was saying "everyone knows...." (except she didn't think [REDACTED] mgrs/leads know) so its still semi secret I guess? don't worry, i'm not advertising.

But again, everyone wants you to come back [REDACTED] the mgr sitting next to me, [REDACTED] exact words were, "i'd hire her back in a heartbeat") all telling me specifically to let you know to re test and re apply, again I think you have a 2 yr window to take advantage of, I personally NEVER want to take that test again! give me child birth, no drugs first!

And we need to see [REDACTED] (if you haven't seen them yet)

Oh yeah, if you are interested, I know a car guy, he goes to auction, looks for what you tell him and then you only pay an extra $500 or something from what he paid at auction, I don't know how cheap you want to go or if you already have your eye on something else... he goes for blue book and usually new or like new/barely used....we got a 2 yr old Malibu like new for only 10k a couple years back from him and he's willing to check under the hood of any other dealer's car before you buy etc tell [REDACTED] hi, and that he speaks too softly...but its sweet oh yeah, another funny, apparently everyone was under the belief that you and [REDACTED] had something going on despite him being married and i told ([REDACTED]) that you and i would be duking it out if he every became single... ha ha, just kidding [REDACTED] if you are reading this.

give [REDACTED] a pat for me and if you ever feel like NOT missing your boys, come to my house, about 7pm, when they are screaming, crying b/c they are hungry and don't want to eat what i made, i almost called you last night so you could hear the chaos...

and still, be cautious!!!! i'd worry about signing lease and such, you have to be suspicious and not so quick to believe everything (for example, he apologizes and then talks to his parent...) (or claims its his cousin-good but what proof?) my sister's 1st told his girlfriends that the pics of him and my sister/his wife was really his little sister....don't get burned on this, help him to understand your perspective that he keeps changing his mind based on a parent he spoke with or if he's been with you. that's what my husband is like when he's with his dad. and trust me, if i had known before i married him, would have changed things!

and yes, we all want you back (i think carter gets tired of only complaining about me) although unfortunately, i don't know where you'd sit. there are no empty desks anywhere!

Hey girl,

So here is the update. [REDACTED] is telling me how truly sorry he is for saying the whole dating other people thing last night and only wants to be with me. He wants me to live here. And I sort of hinted around with the girl email and didn't tell him that I knew about it. It was his cousin. Oops.

So, that's good...that it wasn't really someone.

I'm studying my series 63 material so that I can retest. I would LOVE to come back to [REDACTED] asap.

Talk to you soon.

Love ya. 0

I propose our house. I think we should have enough space for everyone. Personally, I think I would prefer no kids just so we can have some adult time which we rarely get with any of you. We can play some games, eat goodies and just chat.

It depends what night everyone has available. I think we have this Friday available, Saturday is Valentine's which is probably off-limits. But I think next weekend should be available as well if Josh and Susan are still around. Chime in and we'll settle on a date/time. You can call me as well. [REDACTED] you don't have to plan anything.

we decide when enough people get there. we've only done it twice before, the first time, [REDACTED] and shopping at [REDACTED] just before the mall closed. the second time, [REDACTED] we ate $5 pizza and pop and talked and had a spontaneous run to [REDACTED] to eat pie (we were in a cornfield previously) and back to her house, talked and home by 11 ish midnight...

unless you actually want to do some type of potluck, i was thinking it'd be fun to hit [REDACTED] or [REDACTED] OR something, OR maybe rent a movie, dollar theatre or in someone's inventory (i have "get smart" and i'd love to watch it again and again) or mani/pedis and talking and i'll bring my stuff...(remember, licensed cosmetologist...)

But anyway, Thank you so much for thinking of us. Ya, I'll give her any MK stuff she wants if she'd rather have that than cash. I think I kept a little leather jacket out of her pile of clothes. heh heh. distracted. ANyway, let her know we would love to get them from her if she hasn't changed her mind yet. maybe we can put the money we have been trying to save for a washer towards a new bed so we aren't both aching every day. that would be so exciting! wow, sounds fun for john, i won't say anything. did you record the 2 hr episode of 24? isn't another one on tonight? i guess i won't ask if we can come over this tues to watch it maybe wednesday??? i'll give it to you if i don't make it to the post office by wednesday 0

I could mail it I guess on Wednesday. Today and tomorrow I won't have time...I am CRAZY busy today getting tons of things ready for 1) Cub Scouts 2) b-day tomorrow and 3) our homeschool co-op, which is starting up again tomorrow after a nice long holiday break. I'm teaching two classes this time, one with and one with Anyway, I have a thousand things to do today to get ready for all that. Tomorrow morning we'll only have till 12 to finish everything, then leave for the co-op after a quick lunch. I've arranged to have take my kids home from the co-op and spend the night so and I can have a surprise birthday date. I'm taking him to dinner and a movie. Don't spill the beans ! :)

I just barely thought of this plan late last night, and luckily is fine with it and has time this week. I didn't think she would when it was so last minute.

So I have to pack all their overnight stuff and food contributions to take to the co-op tomorrow as well. And I've got several presents to finish for, have to go shopping as soon as the mail gets here (I'm waiting for a package from with a couple of birthday things...I hope it gets here today!!), make a cake, etc. 0

Oh, and by the way, the post office is open till 6 on weekdays. Not sure if that helps you or not. 0

@ 09:50:17 05Jan09

I was very surprised to see him. said he came last week, too (that was the week I didn't have dry clothes yet so I missed sacrament meeting). He was in Primary for a while, not sure how long...we were in there during opening exercises for talk, and he was sitting in the back with us to keep an eye on, the new Sunbeam. Not sure when he left. We invited him to go to Sunday School with us but he said no.

Did like Primary?

What were you planning to talk to him about? 0

@ 09:50:15 05Jan09

remember the sewing project i borrowed your fabric for and helped me cut out a pattern. its my sis's husband's latest patent/self made rich man endeavor and they want it mailed and i can't get to the post office 0

and i told him it's about us but i want to do it when the kids are napping and he's not glued to a computer or computer book. (which he was at the moment) then i got the kids in the car and had noticed he had gone back to the bedroom so something told me to go back in. so i asked him, "are you coming with us? " and he said, "yeah i guess" so i don't know if he did just b/c he was scared of what i wanted to talk about. i guess he hit the grocery store after sacramento and i'm guessing holed himself up in an empty room the rest of the time. but yes, at least he went, i fasted/prayed for him to give me some hope by coming to church. then i took a nap with [REDACTED] and didn't end up talking with him. then i did dinner, the kids etc while he was on the phone with his sister and on the computer so we didn't talk after the kids were in bed b/c it was sooo late. then late at night i was trying to fall asleep to the byu channel and he came in, changed it and woke me up and got me all angry and then i didn't want to talk b/c we were fighting. 0

any chance i could get you to run this silly sewing project to the post office in one of those flat rate envelopes ( i checked, walmart doesn't sell them) my sister's husband really wants it and josh always has the car and the post office is closed by the time we pick up the kids... ) she'll reimburse the costs 0

Hi girls, I just wanted to remind you about the clothing trade off tomorrow at 3:00. You are more than welcome to come just to visit and hang out. You don't HAVE to have anything to do with the clothes. That's what Dawn is doing. You can bring your kids if you would like to. Not much left around here to break. :) If you want to come but are afraid you won't know anyone since only 4 ppl are coming you can bring a friend. It really doesn't matter who shows up. Anyway, Hope you all had a good New Year celebration and I look forward to seeing you tomorrow! 0

yeah, apparently someone else referred to her as [REDACTED] and her husband (who answered the phone) very quickly corrected it as [REDACTED] which always stuck in my mind, and every doc i look at has her as IE.

i'll get back to you on my order. and we ended up doing [REDACTED] party this wed so we could have done the girl's night tonight/saturday if it weren't such late notice, but i don't know if [REDACTED] back in town yet so it works better for next week still.

things lots better on the homefront for me. still not ready to commit to a third child but overall, seeing improvements! (fyi-b/c i know you care) 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 11:16:24 02Jan09

I will call [REDACTED]. I'm glad I saw how you spelled her name. I always thought it was with a Y.

Here is the link so you can see what the gift with purchase is.

[REDACTED]

Microderm should only be used once a week. Some people use it twice a week but it's pretty hard on your skin. Just make sure you use the second step to bring your skins ph balance back to normal. You should get 36 uses out of the scrub. I have two classes so far this month. One is Sister Gandy. :) So I will be putting an order in around the 12th probably. If customers need things pronto I just buy them from other consultants though. Hope that's helpful. I'm looking forward to the girls night thing. So you have the B-day party thing tomorrow you have to do? Thats too bad.

One more thing, I LOVE youe profile picture. Your boys are so cute like that! I can just see you trying to talk through your teeth, [REDACTED], look at the camera!" I like posed pictures but sometimes I like those kind even better. :) [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

by the way [REDACTED] is planning on going to the clothing exchange and i gave her the clothes, but i can't remember what time i told her so you may want to call her hm [REDACTED] or i have her cell but i don't know how public she wants her cell to be.

and i just might be interested with the gift w purchase, depending on the gift, i'm about half way on the night solution, even less on the cleanser and about less than half on the eye primer and make up remover and i've decided i work enough to justify these purchases no matter what!!!! (so i better get around to ordering them)

plus, how often do they recommend using the micro derm abrasion kit? 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 21:37:08 30Dec08

wow that's sad about your friend.

I don't feel sorry for you having yourr "girls".

No specials on skin care right now. Those are rare. Except for the gift with purchase but I don't think that is what you were referring to. 0

[REDACTED]

i'll drop of the clothes before saturday, i think others would enjoy them especially before i would be able to get there. if you think everyone will be gone by 6:30, i was trying to coordinate josh's sis/fam coming over on Saturday as bday party apparently only wed or sat would work for them which is the only reason why i wouldn't come sat-but i don't know for sure on that

i've got my magazine, but is there any complimentary if you spend x you get free...i don't really want to do make up, just the skin care 0

[REDACTED] @ 09:54:19 30Dec08

I put it at 6:30 originally, but the whole reason I am having it this Saturday is so my sister in [REDACTED] can come but she can't if it's later. I was thinking people can come over anytime and see what's available but it starts at 3:00PM. I always forget you work Saturdays. Sorry about that. And who has fat clothes smaller than a size 10?!

As for [REDACTED] I want to get rid of some of the older makeup even though it's perfectly good. They just have new packaging now and the eyeshadow changed to mineral. So I can give you 20% off if I have anything your interested in that's in my inventory.

oh ya and I'm glad you told [REDACTED] about it. Anyone is welcome. 0

[REDACTED]

i think [REDACTED] hansen could be interested in the clothes exchange, i'll talk to her about it if you don't mind. a girl from my work gave me her "fat clothes" they are size small, 6-8 etc and some very cute shoes that i could never wear but i'll be contributing those to the pile. do you want me to drop them off before saturday? i guess i read the time wrong. it starts at 6:30pm? plus i need to order mary kay, any good deals? 0 well [REDACTED] it depends on the day that you ask me. i think i'm staying married but i don't know if josh will be that guy in the celestial kingdom with me anymore. he's got work to do and an attitude adjustment.

if you keep in touch with [REDACTED] anymore these days...i just bore my heart out to him about josh and I and you have my permission to get his opinion. (and share this with [REDACTED]) currently, i'm paying tithing and being discreet about it to him (since he's so against it), feeling nervous/uneasy about trying to read scriptures with the boys in front of him and want to try to get him to read scriptures and say prayers with me (he hasn't come to church in about 3 yrs) but afraid to ask. and really dreading all the unknowns in our future.

sorry you asked aren't you? j/k i know you care. if you want to call josh just to say hi and stuff-and feel him out, his [REDACTED] still works and his email is [REDACTED]

The episode is still there, not to worry about that. It's all saved on his hard drive. We just can't get to it right now because his computer is half-installed.

As for whether you guys come over or not, that's up to you--if you want to, fine. If you'd rather have a date alone, fine. [REDACTED] is a really good movie at the dollar theatre...or, at least, it was a couple of weeks ago. Not sure if it's still there. I loved the book and thought the movie was excellent.

[REDACTED] will probably be working on his computer, regardless. 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 06:41:11 23Dec08

Hi my friend,

[REDACTED] was up till midnight last night, trying to get his computer working. He decided that [REDACTED] was messing up everything so he was trying to re-install his old operating system and couldn't get it to work yet.

So he told me last night as he was enumerating in frustration all the problems it was having (and I was so tired, and trying to stay awake enough to mumble "uh-huh" at the appropriate times) that there's no way we can watch 24 on it tonight, because it isn't even working yet. And 24 is stored on that computer.

I'm really sorry. Will you be able to contact [REDACTED] and let her know? I would say for sure that we could do it next week, since he has the whole week off and will have plenty of time to get his computer working.

He's pretty mad about it not working, and griping and complaining about how he needs a new computer. At any rate, it isn't working right now but hopefully it will be fine in a few days.

I'm sorry! I know you were looking forward to it.

I hope you have a good day in spite of us and our computer issues. :)

Love,

If you want to spend the time and hand stitch that would be great, but it's not necessary.

The closest [REDACTED]. You can send me whatever pics you want . . . I 'm just happy to be getting some. Don't worry about Mom she's just sore because she likes having current family pics of all of us kids so she can show them off when people come over:) You'll have to tell me how it works at [REDACTED]. Do I just go to the photo area and it will be under your name, my name and they will be paid for? Thank you. Merry Christmas!!! 0 wasn't sure if [REDACTED] still wanted the time spent on sewing that thing before mailing. i could real easy like hand stitch together but i don't really want to bug my friend to use her valuable time doing it nicely and my efforts will definately show that i'm an amatuer. so let me know on that.

and let me know the probably address or zip code for the closest [REDACTED] to you and i'll have the pictures ready for you to pick up already paid for at that [REDACTED]. there will most likely be a pic of the boys together and maybe one with me and the boys but josh wasn't there for the photo op so i'm not sure how offended you'd be that he may not be in it. mom totally went off on me that it wasn't a "family" photo. but don't you remember the time that we took ones without dad? we still had 'em framed and stuff. or i could send 4 individuals... 0

yeah, take your pick, hide it from extended family or have a husband like mine. i like the 3 answers God gives, yes, not yet, and i have something better...i can only imagine what its like to hide the going to church thing. but when she was talking to me, she gave me the impression that she would call you right back and nail down a time for thurs. don't give up on her! ergh though. remember how lucky/blessed you are especially in this area. yeah she's almost mom's age and just had knee surgery but if we can get our schedules together (i've got a 4 day weekend and i'm sure she does too) then she can help me. don't ask how i'm doing, i'm still torn about josh, its not good enough to just be the person i want to be, i want the priesthood holder back that i married 0

that's fine. Just keep us posted. [REDACTED] is a little anxious. So I'm confused, the girl you're thinking of had surgery on the 19th? How are you doing? 0 talked to that friend who suggested someone even better, explained to her what you wanted, starting today i'm working 6 days straight, but she'll help me and she just had another knee surgery on the 19th, but she usually has a busy schedule (i'm hoping it slowed for her recovery, give me until dec 4? 0

sorry i had a whole msg and hit one wrong key and it's gone.
shorter version. doing good, i decided i need to live my religion to its fullest including tithing and a priesthood holder that i married and josh has to work on that. i paid tithe and he hasn't noticed/said anything yet. he said he'd start trying to go to church. (although i know he didn't last week b/c i was working and i'm sure he had a lame excuse for that. but i work this sunday starting at noon so i figure i'll have the kids ready and expect him to come. )

i called [REDACTED] my hometeacher, to coordinate a couple guys to help him hang dry wall this saturday and meg wade to watch the kids, so he's feeling the need to work on the basement again which is good. i spent $150 on groceries and i'm sure he at least blinked and i didn't watch to care...very empowering to start spending money you earn on things you deserve/need. i also enjoy that in my eyes, it's straighten up or move out and he gets to choose.

house clean when i came home last night, but kids had late nap/lunch so at 7:30 i was scrapping together dinner that they didn't really eat. he hasn't noticed that i paid tithing yet, but it doesn't look like the check hit the acct yet...we'll see. he did take them to the park according to . shouldn't be, but disappointed that he didn't take them to church. said to have them ready next week before i go to work and assume he has no more excuses, but how pathetic if he can't get the kids ready on his own accord? meanwhile, we are planning on going to eachother's work christmas parties as if nothing is wrong... 0

How have things gone the last couple of days? 0

yeah, except i woudn't want to abandon the kids at the house, but it really does seem like he would just get mad and yell at me and try to guilt, manipulate and control...boy do i regret 2 things...wishing i married a spiritually strong guy (so i wouldn't have to be-so i had to be strong) and feeling left out that i didn't have a pioneer heritage (not realizing that i would have to become my own pioneer..)

19:52:02 14Nov08

EXACTLY. You are not. You are strong and you can do it!!!! Imagine a shield of light and truth around you and let his threats bounce right off. I'm here for you and, more importantly, Heavenly Father is on your side! No one is stronger than that.

Remember, we are always here if you need us, even in the middle of the night. 0

i'm glad i'm doing the overtime, gives him time to see what its like as a single parent, (and me time to think) during the ugliest part of the argument where i was saying, he's changed, not trying, maybe it should be over, he told me HE would guarantee that I wouldn't get the house and kids and when my shocked response was, "oh really?" he said, "well yeah, it'd be 50/50 and you are right, obviously he didn't do anything the first time he agreed and then changed his mind on me paying tithing. what would he do this time? take all the money? then i do just move my paycheck and it's in my favor during a divorce hearing if i have records showing he closed out a joint acct. i can't live my life in fear that he'll take the kids and run b/c he can always do that. kind of ironic, he sort of implies that church is for weak minds that need to be ruled by fear and yet what is he doing to me now? trying to rule me with fear! but i'm not a weak mind! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 19:06:56 14Nov08

Time will tell if he's really serious or not. But he's a master manipulator at this point and seems to be capable of "promising" things that he knows will make you stop and consider and possibly not do it.

Stay strong!!!! I keep thinking of a conference talk a couple of years ago called "Stand in holy places" or something. I think it was the April conference after the tsunamis. It's really good. Really, what's the worst he can do if you say "I'm paying my tithing, never stopping again, and that's final"?

I wish you didn't have to work so much. I hope the overtime hours/ days go by quickly! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 18:38:15 14Nov08

now THAT's a response! thanks, you are right about paying full tithing. i still even after leaving the temple, feel confused about moving my paycheck to my acct, i can pay it in the joint acct and you are right, he can choose me/family/what used to be his beliefs- over money. it really does worry me that its another of his false promises jsut to manipulate me. i'm expecting him to go to church but i don't want to tell him or have [REDACTED] or anyone encourage him b/c i'm sure he'll assume i was behind it all. i want to see if he's sincere, i'll be missing the next 2 sundays, and if he can't go on his own, i guess that's my answer and strengthens my argument that he'll never change and doesn't realize my priorities. i'm taking everyone's advice into consideration these days...thanks 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 18:24:15 14Nov08

Hi my dear friend,
Thanks for the update. I was wondering. I'm praying for you!!!

Please understand that as I say this, I am NOT telling you what to do. This is just my opinion, but it's my very strong opinion, and I hope you won't take offense.

I think compromising on tithing is a terrible mistake. When we receive revelation we have a choice--act on it, or don't act on it. If we do act on it, we receive more and more inspiration and Heavenly Father gives us his Spirit more and more abundantly to help and direct and comfort us. If we choose not to follow it, even if it's for a little while, then he doesn't give us as much.

I think that Josh has ruined any trust you used to have for him, and that he has absolutely NO say, whatsoever, in what you do with YOUR OWN money. I was really sorry to hear that you'd put your paycheck back in the joint account and given some of that control back to him. If it were me, I would transfer it back to my account IMMEDIATELY and not let any bribes, pleas, false promises, or threats move me to ever, EVER put it back until huge, many-months-or-years changes have occurred and he has truly changed his life and attitude.

I know I am not in your situation and don't live your life, so I can't possibly know how terribly hard and sad and scary it is, but please, PLEASE trust in that revelation you received and follow it. Don't let doubts creep in. You told me you got your answer and it was to NOT compromise on tithing or any aspect of living your religion.

That money is yours, 100%. In a normal family relationship the money is shared but in this case, you have every right to take control of your own finances. As much as he kicks and screams and threatens and tries to manipulate and convince you (with potentially false promises), don't give in. Put your foot down and refuse to be moved from your stand.

Trust in that inspiration and follow it, no matter the cost. Heavenly Father will support you and not leave you alone as you follow his counsel. I would say to Josh, if it were me, "the money is separate. We'll divide up the bills and each pay half, and beyond that, neither of us gets a say in the other's earnings." If he hates that, then too bad. He hasn't earned anything more in a really long time. If he wants your trust and respect back, he'll have to work really hard for a long time to earn it. He needs to realize that YOU are more important than money. Until he starts really, really putting you first, and thinking unselfishly about your needs and desires and feelings and forgetting about the money, then he should have ZERO say on what goes on with your paycheck. After all, he makes even more than you do!!

I love you and am praying for you. 0

sorry for the cut and paste, this is the response i sent to what would have been my father in law if i ever married that jerk ex boyfriend, he's a very old family friend that really seems to be on the same page as me as far as marriage/divorce/regrets etc....

i wrote him a 3 page letter that was definitely written with divine inspiration. outlining how the gosple was central to our dating/proposal/engagement and marriage and how he gradually turned away and how he treats me like a roommate, dictating how i spend my money i earn and non job working time. and how he's alienated us from all family,friends,neighbors since he is too involved with polictics, and worrying and ignores any cues that his audience is not interested in his topic. and how he belittles me for believing in a higher being, having faith, and wanting to pay tithing and live my religion to its fullest (that was the answer in the temple) and then i left everything up to him saying i wouldn't compromise anymore and i don't expect him to have overnight changes but i want religion to be a positive topic in my family without him trying to take away our children's free agency to choose (he is always trying to force his opinions on everyone else and the only way to get through to him is relate it to money or his boys...)

so we had a 2 hr screaming fight last night. i got him to see some of my perspectives and he said he might be willing to start going to church. (i gave him your example of faith/tithing/real estate) along with other good examples but it really seems like he's digging in his heels on not paying tithing. his words are, "if i'm saving money by not having a cell phone, we carpool everywhere or do without so we are saving on a second car and you (me/susan) make bread from scratch and we are very tight on our groceries...then you can't just waste all that savings on paying tithing" and yes i've tried the argument that your hand has to be open on holding your money to allow you to receive anymore of it" and you have to put one foot in the dark sometimes to start seeing the light...

oddly, i'm working overtime this sunday and i had to do a shift swap next sunday so i kind of want/expect him to go to church without me...when we were driving to work this morning i was telling him about the new schedule (we move to 11) and how our oldest likes to visit certain people during sacrament etc...i'm wondering if i should compromise with not paying tithing for a little bit on the "gradual" concept of him going back to church.

in the very heated part of the argument, i would say, "then maybe you should move out, maybe this is over, you don't seem to want to change and always blame me for our problems" (like i complained about the cheap/lame bday present he gave me and he felt like he had gone out of his way for me...and that's why he's not affectionate to me, and i said i'd give him some credit for that since i didn't know he came back late from lunch to buy my present and since it wasn't on a list he felt like it was an extra-but this excuse still doesn't explain the last 4 years...)

i'ts fine what you tell my dad, i just find it funny that i've NEVER seem him use facebook and yet he tells you what he thinks, i've kind of left my parents in the dark since about a week or so before i went to the temple so i'm surprised he seemed pretty accurate w/o getting the feedback from me.

i agree, everyone says they see how happy i was (like [REDACTED] says, i was fun before i got married) and how happy i was after my girls' night (my whole attitude was- screw josh, i deserve it! i am worth it!) and then to fall back into the stress of not knowing etc and worrying about how he'll react and the fact that everyone else seems to know this marriage is possibly doomed (because of his decision to change from what i married) or at least in severe trouble and yet my husband thinks we just need to spend more family time together..(SERIOUSLY are guys THAT clueless?? ?).he does little things like try to keep the house clean so i feel like he's trying on little things but not major, life altering decisions like the gospel. he has the nerve to call me a "religious freak" for wanting to pay tithing and go to church (you know, stuff he used to do with me) interesting that you say you married on the rebound. i had met him after having my "heart broke by a non lds guy" (total jerk, i don't think my parents/sisters even to this day know about him-it i know he wasn't even close to being the one but i figured, 'innocent mormon boys' can't break my heart) and in walts this church going, temple endowed guy...saying all the right things. especially with your son, i think i get into more trouble with the lds type vs when i date more casual with non members. if he can't handle the tithing i pay. i'm sure we'll be divorcing. and he holds on to his money too much. and i want a righteous priesthood example in my home for my boys so i can be happy like how others say they see lacking.

i remember [REDACTED] telling me how she one time had to pull over while driving and say, "Lord, i can't take this, i leave it up to you" and that advice has stuck with me so i guess i saw one of her rare shinning moments. and maybe married my husband during one of his, if i can't get him back to that. and i can accept that now.

and you may not remember saying as much to me, but i remember your influence, you had [REDACTED] scared um crapless a lot of the time. i wish i could flip a switch and influence him for the positive and not have done the back and forth relationship, i still feel partly to blame about that. i still dream about him and think/worry about him but i'm sure he just sees me as "judgemental like my mother" as he and now my husband, put it. oh well, maybe your experience and me dating those results, and then making the same mistakes in my own marriage and then all the help from everyone that i'm getting will help me to pull out sooner.

i'll keep in touch 0

Hi. So here are my thoughts. I know that I don't have all the answers but I have lots of age and sagely advice due to my own screw up. First of all my family, including my cousin who is more like a sister to me, never liked [REDACTED]. They tolerated her because they thought I was in love and they wanted me to be happy. I was in love at first but I married her on the rebound. Yep, the rebound. I was still very much in love with my high school sweetheart even though she dumped me after I went on my mission. I had it coming because I wasn't a very good boyfriend. I had things to deal with but with that said I married someone who everyone said was a bad match. Yep you're right, you did what you did for your reasons and that happens. I'll get to the point. [REDACTED] was flakey years before we moved up here and she was very hot and cold about church. She used fortune tellers, numerology, and really believes that God is an alien and we are part of His experiment. That's just the beginning. So [REDACTED] told me once, "As Bishop and Elders Quorum President we do not advocate divorce. With that said, [REDACTED] you need to protect your children's spiritual welfare before it's too late." I didn't listen because it was too painful. I just went inactive and tried to keep peace. It didn't work. Satan wasn't happy until he made sure that we as adults shredded each other and affected the kids in the process. So daughter-in-law, this husband needs to "fish or cut bait." As a mother, God has given you the biggest responsibility any human can ever have. Your son's spiritual, physical, and emotional well being. As a father, and priesthood holder, if he doesn't get his act together he is going to have to answer to God why he chose to be a bad example of what a Priesthood holder should be, and it won't be pretty. I know, I am still begging for forgiveness for not being better with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. You CANNOT and SHOULD NOT think he will change unless he wants to change. The thought of losing his family because he refuses to put you and God first over all the other petty bull sh*# isn't enough for him to change and I mean in the next few months then he has lost the privilege to be a priesthood leader in his family. It took [REDACTED] former husband losing her and fighting for ½ custody of [REDACTED] to get him to pull his head out. He's still very worldly but thank goodness [REDACTED] has his mother's love of the Lord to get him past that. When the actions of one spouse chase away the Spirit of God from the home, and not just now and then, you know that those things will affect your future priesthood holder's view of how they should treat the responsibility of the priesthood and their future wife. Having one car, no cell phones, and other nice things is just the way things go now and then. I am driving my dad's 1990 truck and that is our only car. We have cell phones for work. We pay our tithing because we know if we didn't we would have any of that. God has promised He will repay us if we give Him just 10% of what is His anyway, back to Him. He cannot lie. If he did He would cease to be God. So tell what the hell his name is to test God. He cannot lie! Wealth won't always come after the first tithing payment and he'll need to show God he is sincere. Susan, you are a good woman, mother, and daughter of our Father in Heaven. Those sons have been entrusted to you for a reason. Follow what the Lord has told you and will continue to tell you. If the marriage works, good. If the marriage doesn't, then it's sad but let those boys have a positive, spiritual, influence. Okay, I am done preaching. I think that's more words I have said to you since I've known you. [REDACTED] and I love you so take care. P.S. I haven't said a word to your dad about my thoughts on this, and I won't because it's between us. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 14:02:20
17Nov08

wow, i totally agree, the big question is whether or not me putting my foot down will make him change. i agree, i want the priesthood in my home and since the 2 most perfect guys are taken already ([REDACTED] then i'll have to assume the Lord will send me someone else. (and if i could have any luck, that the divorce won't be disasterous but amicable) but seriously though, i did get a weird and peaceful feeling about the 2 single men i interacted with in the temple, one especially on the escalator. i think the Lord was telling me there are other righteous men out there for me if my husband chooses to not be. we'll see, i'm waiting his reactions 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
@ 10:57:19 17Nov08

Many years ago, I found myself stuck with a husband who seemed soooo different than the one I married. We had a small son together, and because my husband's parents had been divorced and remarried 3 times (seriously - not to each other, tho) and because my own parents divorced after 23 years of the seemingly "perfect" marriage, I was hellbent that I wasn't getting divorced no matter what. I had lots of friends try to tell me to leave and of course, I wasn't willing to hear it.

I decided that when it hurt my son more for me to STAY than to GO, I was outta there. I reached that threshold and other than not having my son with me all of the time, have never regretted it for a minute.

Remember that you've chosen to be with this person eternally. The success of that marriage is dependent on both of you. You can't change somebody else, only what you're willing to do and settle for. If you want your kids to grow up in the gospel, they have to have a role model. If you want them to grow up knowing the right way to treat a wife, they have to have somebody who shows them how.

You've gone to the temple. Listen to the answers you receive there and give yourself 100% to fulfilling what the Lord asks of you. If it still isn't working, and you know you've done all you can, then it's in the Lord's hands.

I am so thankful that my son has had [REDACTED] as an example of what a Priesthood holder should be. Getting a divorce isn't easy but in the end, your most important job here was raising healthy children. Do what helps you best get that done.

And not all boys are icky! :) 0

yeah i decided i'm not compromising anymore on tithing. it'll be scary to see what he does, or if he just argues when he finds out but i'm finding out more and more that family/friends were seeing the red flags long before i did and of course i wish they would have said something! of course i realize i would never take back having my boys and the trials i've experienced so far have made me so much stronger and i should really thank the jerk i married for putting me through them

i can just hope for the best outcome and move forward with or without him and pray for my kids to not be misdirected by him and i'll be a good example for them and try to be happy for myself. ( i wonder if your kids will ever realize the hell you were going through...i'd hate to have my kids look down on me for staying in the marriage to continue his parents' divorce issues-and i realize hindsight is 20/20 so i wouldn't judge but this major decision that every troubled marriage has to make is becoming more understandable...)

you two are lucky you have each other, i'm sure i'll be so much happier looking back on these days...i agree [REDACTED] sounds like your true perfect other half...keep up the efforts and maybe she won't realize that she married beneath herself??? hee, hee, i can still joke through all this right? 0

so we had a 2 hr screaming fight last night. i got him to see some of my perspectives and he said he might be willing to start going to church. (i gave him your example of faith/tithing/real estate) along with other good examples but it really seems like he's digging in his heels on not paying tithing. his words are, "if i'm saving money by not having a cell phone, we carpool everywhere or do without so we are saving on a second car and you (me/susan) make bread from scratch and we are very tight on our groceries...then you can't just waste all that savings on paying tithing" and yes i've tried the argument that your hand has to be open on holding your money to allow you to receive anymore of it" and you have to put one foot in the dark sometimes to start seeing the light...

oddly, i'm working overtime this sunday and i had to do a shift swap next sunday so i kind of want/expect him to go to church without me...when we were driving to work this morning i was telling him about the new schedule (we move to 11) and how our oldest likes to visit certain people during sacrament etc...i'm wondering if i should compromise with not paying tithing for a little bit on the "gradual" concept of him going back to church.

our problems" (like i complained about the cheap/lame bday present he gave me and he felt like he had gone out of his way for me...and that's why he's not affectionate to me, and i said i'd give him some credit for that since i didn't know he came back late from lunch to buy my present and since it wasn't on a list he felt like it was an extra-but this excuse still doesn't explain the last 4 years...)

so yeah, sorry so long but tell me what you think!!! 0

that would be helpful. but seriously, i can already anticipate his arguments/logic (or lack of) etc... and i DON'T want to be frank anymore!! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 12:59:58 17Nov08

hahaha so can I call you frank? that sucks. Ok ya you can save but if its important to you then he should understand. I bet you are waiting for him to pull his face off and reveal that he is really an Alien from Planet Golop. 0

[REDACTED]

i agree on everything!!! yes he's coming to the christmas party, yes we should hang out and yes i am paying tithing (he hasn't discovered yet) and his very convincing argument is "if we are saving money from no second car/ cell phone/ groceries etc that i don't have the right to take all those savings and 'throw it away' on tithing" and yes, he's been basically ruling me with fear, intimidation, control and always manages to convince me in the moment to the point that i second guess EVERYTHING that i thought i knew about myself/beliefs/traditions etc. it's like i'm finally realizing i'm being brainwashed and just starting to pull the little cords off (you know, like frankenstein-how funny that i'm comparing myself to a scary huge green guy) 0

So what can I say Amber told me a little about your going ons with your Husband. My heart breaks for you. Ok that made me sound like I have a rainbow shirt on. But ya I feel you should hold your hand up to your Husband and say "this is my Pimp hand dont make me use it." Im glad [REDACTED] can be there to talk to you about problems because SHE HAS SOME BIG ONES. I will give you some pointers as for what to do granted we have never hung out but im better than most im SMART. Here is a list of what i would say if i were in your shoes.

1- on Tithing. Say to him I wish to Tithe for the fact its what I believe in and if you loved me you would understand, that, thats what makes me happy. If he says he does not believe in it tell him your not going to look down on him for his beliefs, so he should not look down on you for yours.

So are you both going to the Christmas party? you guys should it would be fun.

Also we should all get together one of these years 0

Here are my questions:

What hospital did you give birth at?

Where you induced, if so, what drugs were used to induce you pitocin and (cervidil or cytotec )?

How long were your labors before the doctor insisted you have a epiduril or you wanted it?

Did the doctor use fetal monitoring the whole time? Did any conclusions come from the info. From the monitor (like a c- section or induction or scare that the heart rate was dipping).

Did they let you eat little snacks to keep your energy up and your emotional state stable?

Were you able to move around during the labor or did you have restrictions like an IV that immobilized your position and activity?

Did the doctors allow you to take as much time as you wanted during the labor?

Sorry its a lot, but I am very curious

Lots of love,

Nope, they are not too high at all. You've lived with years of misery and it's time to end the misery, either by him changing his tune and really trying to discover love and all that again, or by leaving. Remember, "men are that they might have joy." Heavenly Father wants you to be happy!! 0

thanks, i really want a crystal clear answer, just this once in my lifetime. i can already guess what other trials i'll deal with but give me an answer, in my time, in my words...just this once. i just bought $75 worth of iodine (it has a years + shelf life) and i think i might buy another bra online if i can find a cheaper price, now that i know the style i like. i just spend it and he asks after the fact, how i paid for it and i tell him, . very empowering, if he doesn't want me involved, i'll just spend what i need/want to and he can deal with it. an old family friend is getting married this weekend and i was looking at their engagement pics, how depressing, i know it's not meant to be like that forever, but it has to be better than this, you still love ..this just isn't fair and i'm a whiner with apparently too high of expectations 0

I'll ask him tonight.

can [REDACTED] take josh to work this wednesday only??? i have my dentist appointment at 7am in WJ which means josh would be to work early by at least a 1/2 hr or so, and the rude and selfish husband that i have expects me to cancel/reschedule which i WON'T do b/c i know its too late and i was planning on spending all day in the temple after the dentist. so if john could take him to work, i can still pick josh up.

i've read this book [REDACTED] about drawing boundaries and not being an enabler or passive/agreeable or even creating a crisis (applicable to me would be writing a letter stating, "we are roommates, not married, why don't you move out for 6 months and see if you want to work on a happy marriage after that...") and i am going to do some deep searching at the temple. i'm envisioning a session, an hour in the celestial room jotting down impressions etc until i feel confident about a game plan. i am becoming more free with the money i earn, spend $100 on my girl's night (not that i'll do that every time) and i'm going to buy vitamins/iodine online (the iodine seems to make him more rational/normal and we have ran out...) and i'm moving $25/paycheck back into my own acct and outright lying if he asks me. i'm still very torn about whether or not to pay tithing and push that argument...so anyways, yeah, sorry about that but let me know about wednesday [REDACTED]

thanks i've read your response about 10 times so far today, i'm going to the temple next week on the 12th. i really appreciate you sharing your experiences and advise, i remember observing as a teenager mainly through [REDACTED] eyes obviously and to this day, still wondering. it's good to know that even our Heavenly Father lost 1/3 of his children, i dread losing my 2 sweet boys like how you feel, but at least we are sealed and we have the promise that a righteous spouse/children will be with us. that's why i'm at least grateful that this is occurring earlier in the marriage so maybe it won't affect my kids as much whether or not their dad falls away and hopefully comes back. or mom remarries a true example and then i'd just pray that their good experiences with mom would outweigh the negative influence of their dad. my husband's dad was rm, temple marriage and now totally anti-mormon, as in he's even traveled to ut (before we lived here) to attend an "anti mormon general conference" so i've always feared that aspect. i'm always ok with the LONG response. my parents are just gung-ho ready to help pay for a divorce attorney etc and everyone thinks its so easy to leave and magically start from scratch. so far my inspiration in affect has been to stay and specific words to say to him, but i'm not satisfied until i get my concrete answer next week. I've already specified that i want HIS timeframe to match mine at least this time. i fear everyone will be disappointed in me if i stay. thanks you're family to me and i appreciate your thoughts and feel free to give me [REDACTED] input...Susan 0

To be honest....that is the path my kids mother started to go down and I let it go because I didn't want to break up the family. I started to change my values and make exceptions so we would get along but in the end I wound up inactive and the kids followed their mother's teaching of "you don't have to go to a church to love the Lord." Now none of them go and have taken the "easy road." I have a friend who did the same thing you are talking about then one day he made a big mistake and wound up in jail (DUI). His wife gave him an ultimatum go to church with me and the kids or find a new place to live. He now works with [REDACTED] and me in the temple. There iss no easy solution to the situation you are in. The one thing you MUST do is never give up your values and stop going to church! It is that important. Pray that the Lord will soften his heart. Pray for strength to do every thing you need to do to keep your temple reccomend. [REDACTED] can testify, and me too, about paying tithing. We are in Real Estate and went 7 months without a pay check. We have always paid our tithing and some how some way we had money for food, gas, bills, and not much else. Now we are staying busy and the bills are getting paid. At some point you may have to issue the straighten up and fly right or else speech if you want you and your childdren to have the Gospel in your life. Trust me when I say I ache everyday knowing that all 4 kids are totally inactive. I blew it. You are right, go to the temple and ask the Lord and don't leave until you get an answer. Take thought out solutions and questions and I testify He will answer. Take care. Sorry for the LONG response. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

define "if its not celestial..." right now he's stating we/i can't pay tithing until we are "Millionaires" and when i asked if he wants to baptize our [REDACTED] (he'll be 4 in [REDACTED]) and if he wants to be with us in the celestial kingdom he said, "yeah but i don't think you have to go to church or pay tithing for that..." i know, i know, i'm locking myself in the temple for a day and fasting and praying but still, what do you DO with that??? 0

ok well I decided not to mention it to [REDACTED] so it can just be the 3 of us. That will

Doesn't matter to me. We should figure out where we're going though so we can figure out transportation. I wouldn't mind driving but the middle seat belt in the back is broken. If I took out the babyseat I would have 3 seatbelts total for passengers. Or we can just stick to the 3 of us. 0

sorry guys, still voting for [REDACTED] i still respect those willing to go to war for our country b/c i definitely don't want to send my boys there. If you research BOTH parties from a neutral standpoint, you might realize that [REDACTED] isn't going to just yank out the military but wants them in pakistan were the terrorists are supposed to be hiding, (while this whole time we've been in afganistan, fighting for oil rights, i mean the people there...) but you are family and i love you all anyways! 0

no, he was procrastinating and we wanted to eat cake so there were some left over peanut butter sandwiches that the boys had, he ate some bean/chili i had made from the night before and i had cake and later, after the boys were in bed, a salad. although after church i put the kids down for a nap and left for a mtg at 1 (it got over in 45 min) and then went straight to a friend's house to give her a pink blanket i crocheted and ended up talking until 5pm so i enjoyed some me time and he was dealing with the kids wondering were i was,(ha ha-sucks don't it?) and then we loaded up and went to his sisters for dinner (his mom bought me a robe-this makes 4 total and i hardly use them) and he bought 2 dvds from the church distribution magazine/catalog, that's it! cheap white board and the dvds probably cost a buck each! i actually asked him why he likes to torment me by acting like its not important and dragging things out-HUGE let down. so when i have my girl's night and shopping and stuff i'm going to tell him it's b/c he never did anything for me/bday and he's always spending money on his bike or more tools etc and i'm the one working overtime! 0

wow girl, that was quite a response. So did you end up going out for dinner last night?? I don't know what it is with your facebook page, but my computer always freezes so I can't look at anything or comment on your page, kind of sad. oh well. I sure hope you enjoyed some cake:) 0

my daycare lady informed josh to bake a cake, have the kids in bed, draw me a bath with candles etc. so what i came home to (i had to shift swap, work thurs noon-10:30pm and fri off) a disaster of kitchen/floors/counters etc dirty clothes and toys strewn about the house and at LEAST, the kids in bed. he was watching bits of SNL (the political funnies) and he suggested i frost the cake he had made (hence the disaster zone) i ended up cleaning the kitchen/house and going to bed at midnight and the next morning he had frosted the cake. we had a church carnival thing and when we came home, i demanded my presents.

He gave me a white out board to write in a calendar with pretty purple background but the lining was white discolored to yellow in parts, plastic. which he immediately noticed and said he would fix (yeah right-another project he'll never get to) and as he was handing it to [REDACTED] to give to me and was using the disclaimer, "you better not complain b/c i spent money on this!" i ended up giving him a $25 gift card to [REDACTED] that i earned from work and said he can use it for the house and stuff, saying "Happy Birthday, from mommy to daddy and the house" give a gift on your birthday... so i'm wondering if i should do tit for tat and give him a white board "to do" list or something lame like that for Christmas.

he's given me chocolate, stuffed animals, a glass vase with fake flowers arrangement, a peridot necklace for Christmas 2006, (i know it must have been on clearance/cheap-who buys that unless you have an august birthstone) and my birthday last year, chandeliers for the kitchen/dining room and now the whiteboard. he's spending $40 here, $100 something there to pimp out his bike so he can ride in the dark and then had me bike to work on my bday b/c i didn't start til noon and then he wouldn't have to bike in the dark and i'd pick up the van from him and drop off the bike. make sense? i think the cake mix/frosting cost the same as my actual present. lame, it doesn't look like he considered the price range, thought that counts or anything, like it was a bin of clearance next to the check out stand. wow, i'm bitter. i didn't end up buying the icecream cake b/c i came home to the one he made (and the huge mess from it, hello? does he know me at all???) but this is definitely not over. i'm doing a girls night and i just might start demanding i do multiple girl's night/month to spend some money that he doesn't seem capable of. maybe a shopping trip, dinner etc. it seems like he only penny pinches on groceries and presents for me! ugh!

anyways, thanks for letting me complain. so i'm trying really hard not to be enticed by overtime and coming home to spend time with my boys. i also just got a new calling, Relief Society Secretary, which means possibly weekly meetings and stuff on sundays and me trying to find time to straighten out the lists/paperwork and its been busy at work b/c everyone is stupid, paranoid, and making the phone lines busy and the market to go crazy.

curious, still a [REDACTED] fan? anyways, love you! miss you all! hope you can relax and get pregnant. maybe you two should try the candles/bath tub thing... oh well. when josh bought the cake/frosting there was pink and i asked, "oh! is this for when i have a baby girl?" still feel like i'm dreaming in that aspect but i am starting to play my cards and get my way so i'm not so celebrate anymore at least. bye now 0

sorry again for my spastic husband, this dvd borrowing is an argument that needs to be fought. (and i WILL win!) you guys are too nice and he's too irrational for him to treat you guys this way. like [REDACTED] said, look at the track record... i never watched an entire episode of [REDACTED] but i believe you. anyways, after i got off the phone with you i was talking to my mom and she said that my dad was very proud i was doing a girl's night to make josh take care of the kids, so lets still do it, but not sure when, i guess maybe later in the month, on a thurs night so we can accomodate [REDACTED] young womens and the fact that i work fri/sat until 5:30 if that works for you? Thurs Oct 23rd or 30th??? lets do a dinner where we don't have to worry about accomodating husbands and fussy children while waiting on a menu. does that sound good? like [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED] something like that? again, sorry that i've so tormented over accomodating someone so selfish (josh) it angers me that it makes me appear so selfish. or it may be better to do a friday night b/c i'm the only one that has to get up the next morning and if i have left overs that helps and then josh can't whine that he had to deal with the kids since he wouldn't be working. so yeah, Fri 24th? (not Haloween) sound good? 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 20:21:29 08Oct08
so I'm guessing we don't get to borrow them. You could tell Josh, if we break it we buy it? Or...don't bother. He gets a little too paranoid. Have you ever seen [REDACTED] [REDACTED] He is Dale to the tee. Watch an episode and you'll see it. I can't remember when we said we'd go out. COuld you remind me? 0

[REDACTED] 10:32:12 06Oct08

wow, sorry about that, mentioned to josh about the [REDACTED] dvds and he just flipped. all worried to lend them out, says he doesn't have the program to burn copies... still whining about the clothes until i finally told him that my mom who purchased some, and his sis said, "here do you want these? or else i'm giving them to DI" ( which is why i don't mend letting you guys get use out of them) like i want to store clothes for his younger siblings who are nowhere near marriage or dating?? ? and my family is too far for the bother of shipping....so he wants to return all your movies immediatley (I didn't want to leave them on a doorstep) and unless we can get someone to burn a dvd [REDACTED] ? but don't involve [REDACTED]) he says the boys still watch them and then got all paranoid about copyrights and if the govt found out....ergh! but anyways, left a msg with [REDACTED] on facebook about the girl's night 0

thanks, still alive, things were getting better and we are actually talking but now he's all paranoid doomsday and swinging way, way, way irrational! and i guess i'm planning an intervention for this Wednesday night. but i gave him ultimatum of divorce or i pay tithing and he didn't take it so i think he still loves me and we just need to build trust in each other again (he called me an embezzler for moving my paycheck to my acct, can't embezzle the money you make yourself...) i know, control freak. and now we need to learn how to be a couple and not just parents and working all the time. but he's so out there he wants a cow and a pig in our not bought brand new freezer before the end of the week and 10-20k towards solar panels by the end of the year b/c everyone will lose their jobs/homes/will to live blah blah blah but anyways, i'm off wed/thurs so i probably won't check back until Fri, thanks for the prayers, i still need them! 0

yeah its not marriage counseling, just me going, only gone twice so far, the second time my dad happened to be in town so i had him talk to her too. i'm kind of wondering if she's helping me or just a sounding board that i pay instead of asking family/friends/relatives without the joy of a dedicated hour but with the hassel of paying/worrying about a babysitter and transportation. (one car, not biking to work anymore too cold)

so i've moved my paycheck to my indv bank acct a wk ago fri and he hasn't noticed yet, i also moved 1k of 7k which i fear he might be finally discovering today. i'm working until 9pm MT tonight. yes, i'm not allowed to buy groceries and we have 7k in the bank! ridiculous? YES!!!

[REDACTED] 14:25:16 15Sep08

Susan! How are you doing? How's the dandy marriage counseling going? Any hope? I remember how much "garbage" came out by going to counseling. And by the way, I would be totally disgusted too if my spouse said counseling could affect our credit score. HELLO?! Is that all that's important to him? Is he in the great black hole called denial or what? I wonder how long it would take him to wake up if you did go to a lawyer, made some papers, changed the locks, and had a police officer with you when he came home....HA HA HA! I am sorry, but I find that amusing because apparently there is some truth that I've heard that guys are just dumb. What did your counselor say when you told her what you hope to accomplish by seeing her? I had a woman counselor too, but I didn't trust her, so it was never good to begin with. In fact she probably helped me make my decision without even knowing it!

Well I think you are a very brave and strong woman! I am cheering for you no matter what decision you make! 0

[REDACTED] @ 10:21:24 21Aug08

my goodness, do you have a crystal ball or something? [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] then out of the blue this morning he interrupts his very important work to call me and tell me he found an article that says if you go to marriage counseling it can affect your credit score. (no matter how lame this argument is and everything i said, i fear he won't listen) and i told him he agreed to counseling and that is the only way this marriage will get fixed and he eventually hung up on me! i am so tempted to just find a lawyer, write up some papers and change the locks and have a police officer with me when he comes home from work. probably can't get all that done today but maybe by my next wed/thurs days off. i am so disgusted in him. either he is that scared of counseling and i need to deliver the unspoken, "counseling or divorce" or he thinks he can weasel his way out and i'll stupidly endure this miserable marriage. well he is wrong. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

yeah, i've disagreed with some bishop's counseling in life, take it with a grain of salt

as they say. i only wish it would be easier if i didn't have kids, daycare, a house and job to worry about. just packing up and leaving would have been nice. well i got to see if i can find out the laws and then cover my tracks so he doesn't see caller id or internet history etc. thanks for the info, i'll keep you updated 0

[REDACTED] @ 12:57:33 20Aug08

Sorry it took me so long to write back! I don't have a computer at home, so when I'm on Facebook, I'm at work. Man oh man. All I can say is wow. Well wow in a oh.my.gosh way! Hey you are a smart woman, look at you- all prepared and knowledgeable! good for you! I really admire you for sticking it out and trying to work on things! I am so sorry your husband turned out to be a freak. What is it with men changing?

And when is your husband going to wake up? He doesn't even know or appreciate what he has! He's lucky you have a glimmer of hope.

I had none. Absolutely none. Yeah, when I packed my things and left, he knew exactly where to find me (my parents house). We talked in his car in my parents driveway when he came over. He seemed dazed and confused. He asked me if I still loved him, I said I don't know (but I really wanted to scream NO I DON'T LOVE YOU!) Asked me if I was going to divorce him, and I said yes. He asked me to give him 1 month to change, ONE MONTH! I couldn't believe my ears. Then he said give him 3 months to change. But I said no way. It's too late, I made my decision, you had 2 1/2 years to change. Later he told our bishop, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] So weird. I didn't want to talk to him or see him ever, but to be nice I did talk to him and see sometimes. I think he was still having that hope I would change my mind. After the divorce was final, he didn't talk to me for about over 6 months. Then all of sudden, he called out of the blue and told me he was getting married! He said it like I was his friend kind of way, not in a ha-ha I got married before you kind of way. I'm really lucky our divorce wasn't nasty. It turned out better then I ever imagined and it is truly a miracle that I'm still not married to him.

I really hope things will work out for you-in whatever way is best for you and your family! I know it's easier said than done. I have a feeling though that you will know what to do, it will get to that point of no return soon, and sometimes sooner than you realize. 0

i have friends he would never think of if i need to leave in the middle of the night or whatever, a safe deposit box, docs on file etc. no weapons aside from power tools and kitchen knives.

its a toss up that he would either accept the divorce, like he doesn't have the balls to admit it unless i do. or realize i'm calling his bluff/ am serious about divorce and shape up to save the marriage. and i will settle for no less than him going to counseling and/or taking meds regularly and actively working on fixing the marriage, trying to go to church (we were married in the temple, and use to go weekly-he's changed a lot.) no more empty promises.

He is mainly emotionally, verbally, and financially abusive. he's justified that if i'm yelling in his face or hitting him that he thinks no matter what other men of authority say, that its ok to hit me back, so yes, that's always in the back of my mind. but lately i've even picked up the phone and said, "i'm calling 911" and he takes the phone out of my hands, or immediately backs away and then tries to make me look like the crazy, irrational one.

basically, i'm a single mother with this guy that lives with me and dictates to me what i can do in my spare time and takes my paycheck and spends the money. for the most part the bills are paid but i'm not allowed to be a part of that except for actually making money. he just got a job and makes $5/hr more than me so that's good if we have to go that route. (alimony/child support) plus, just last week he left my kids home alone b/c he wanted me to stay home/sick kids, and i was biking to work and my phone was off. my 3 yr old was awake and crying and alone for at least 20 minutes, an eternity to a 3 yr old. and since then he's said numerous times, "mommy, don't leave me in a lonely house all alone, that makes me sad" and he's a lot more clingy, wanting to sleep with us, or coming into our room in the middle of the night etc.

and 2 days after that happened, my husband got mad at me for allowing the kids to get a tiny sunburn, no pain, no flaking/peeling skin. so obviously he's not rational enough to have custody of the kids. his justification was, "i thought you were just down the street" ( i immediately suggested friends he could have called to be with the kids, or at least take the crying, frantic child, even unstrapped, or duh! take both kids anyways! )

i fear apart of me is emotionally divorcing him anyways, like you said, but the other part of me has a tiny glimmer of hope. i've been doing a lot of research, especially [REDACTED] so i'm good on the books. but i really fear that it may be too late by the time he decides to make changes, and i know that's unfair, so i'm 2 people, one hoping counseling will start us on a long but promising improving marriage. the other person, with a quick, painless (as can be expected) divorce.

you just left and packed up your things? i can't really do that. did he try to find you? make promises after the fact, didn't cooperate with the paperwork/splittin assets, what happened next? do you still keep in touch? sorry so long 0

@ 13:13:32 13Aug08

You poor thing! I can't even imagine. Is your husband abusive? Mine wasn't physically, but he sure was abusive emotionally, mentally and verbally! I think that hurts just as much if not more than physical. Not to down play physical abuse, because ANY abuse is not acceptable. I was afraid my ex-husband was going to go psycho too if I told him! He kept a gun in the house and I was afraid of him, so I was definitely worried. That's why I packed my things and left one day. Without even a note. I read a lot books in the library about abuse and where I could go, what to bring with me, what to do if I decided to leave. I can try to find the name of the books if you would like to read them or if you are close to a library. Let me know! 0

i can't even look at him without disgust written all over my face. i've got a counseling session for myself set up Aug 20, i guess to reassure me that i'm not crazy and then give him the expectation to go himself or its over. he has total control of the finances so that's the only question if we do divorce but you are right, the emotional welfare outweighs staying in such a crappy situation. my only hope is he'll see counseling fixes me, and he'll go and fix himself. but yes, house, car, life insurance policies, custody of kids...the list goes on so i dread how angry he'd be if i did finally blurt out "i want a divorce" (i've been biting my tongue) the times we talk about it, it sounds like he's in denial that i'm that serious/miserable. and i could see him kidnapping kids or going pyscho so that's not good either. myabe you could move to utah and live with me if we divorce! [REDACTED] will be in provo! ugh my life! 0

Oh no! Well, I'm sure you are working it out between your husband and the Lord. But you gotta do what you gotta do, especially if that means the welfare for yourself and your kids. A lot can happen in a few months once the word "divorce" gets spoken. Hopefully things will turn around and turn out better. My ex-husband didn't even want to consider it. Divorce was not an option to him, but that just goes to show how much he was in denial of the whole situation and my feelings. He wanted to change AFTER I left him but I already made my decision emotionally and by then it was too late. I'm sorry you are unhappy. I can't imagine what that would be like to consider that decision when children are involved. But I know whatever you decide you are doing the best that you can. I will keep you and your family in my prayers! 0

Well, I'm sorry that you feel that way, and I really hope that one way or the other, things get better for you. I really like what I'm doing now, and I like how I do help people with what I'm doing. I will be the husband that [REDACTED] deserves and needs, because I promised her that I would be, and I don't go back on my promises. I just can't do it.

As for my job, I don't feel like I'm taking any risk. The company really sets you up for success, if you do the work and what they ask of you. I have been doing that, and I am doing well. I just need to keep it up.

I'm not going to say that everything looks simple for you on the outside, I know how complicated things can get, but I know sooner or later, something has to give. Just take care of your kids and make them happy. If they are happy, you probably will be happy. 0

yeah, i have absolutely NO desire to give financial advice, i've seen too many people get burned w/ someone they paid to trust and most financial advisors only get to offer a basket of choices, kind of like, this basket of vanilla, chocolate, or swirl except most investors need [REDACTED] 31 flavors that are constantly changing.

i'm against the whole concept, either invest in some mutual funds (still the basket concept) b/c you don't know, or do your own research, i don't want to be left holding the bag when the market does what it did and not be able to help all my customers as they run to me in panic.

if you can't play with the big boys and accept the losses to get the great gains, then get out! plus then i'd be out of the call center, unable to make faces/roll my eyes and yawn and stuff. i absolutely hate the idea of commission and that risk too so that whole world is not for me.

i would have loved to be a 50's mom, cook, clean and take care of the kids and look good for a husband that actually appreciates me. sorry i'm a little cynical but happily ever celestially after seems like never to me, or at least not with the guy i planned on. so irritated about that. i know from the outside it looks so simple, tie him down and talk but its not. i have to speak his language and his native tongue is move the money aka control and then i'm hoping he'll finally be willing to talk. still if you guys are ever in UT, or if my parents ever move out of WA we (at least me and kids) may come crash at your place so you better make the money so you can fit us in. my house is always available. be the awesome husband that my sister deserves and don't ever let things spoil like i have. it was like the frog in the water and someone slowly turns the heat up and it never knew to jump out. i'm just letting him decide if he's going to deal with me or not. money is control and i'm his asset to be controlled and abused and i'm not allowing that any longer. 0

yeah, I'm kinda glad I don't have my securities lisencing yet, that would mean that I would have to answer questions for people, instead of saying "You know, I really couldn't answer that question, let me give you the phone number for my manager, he can answer all of your questions." Even when I have it, I think that I might still do that :-) Well, how is life otherwise, still having problems at home? Well, hopefully everything gets better, one way or the other....have fun at work tomorrow. p.s. You know, if you ever come back to Washington, you could make a killing with the company I work for, you would just need to be life/disability lisenced...the door is always open 0 and that's 62 hrs this week counting my 7am-9pm shift tomorrow 0

they are desperate for people to work overtime and i handle self directed accnts and ones with a financial consultant that the cust either can't get a hold of or doesn't want to follow their advice to sit tight, or only they have the license for annuities etc. people are even paranoid over money markets b/c they are sipc not fdic. its like we are purposely trying to reincarnate 1929 crash. ugh! so anyways, they need people on the phones, i've got the skills to handle all the issues allowed and these are very long days!!! (as much as i hate to say it, i get to avoid being ignored and emotionally and financially abused at home if i work all the ot b/c then it can be my excuse for everything!) 0

[REDACTED] @ 19:15:41 19Sep08

So, why are you working 62 hours next week? Actually, this is kinda making me a little more busy, because people don't want to be in the stock market, and I do fixed annuities, and we guarantee at least 3%, so people want to do that right now. So, have fun, and don't go crazy. 0

[REDACTED] @ 21:33:38 17Sep08

Well, I've been working about that since I started working. And no, don't worry, I won't give my clients stupid advice. That makes it so you don't have clients in the long run. And I don't deal in the stock market, I don't have my 6 or 7 yet. Have fun at work! 0

[REDACTED] @ 20:24:51 16Sep08

It's a work in progress for sure. Suggestions are welcome.

Don't become a fan unless you WANT to. If you do, the chance of someone seeing it on your facebook may help me gain business. Either way, if you know someone who needs portraits done this fall please feel free to refer them at any time.

no need to worry about compensation/rent-oh i get it! the movies, ha ha..

i don't want the clothes to go to waste. and i don't plan on needing them unless i'm really lucky and marriage is saved, and then i'm hoping for a girl. if the clothes survive your twins, you can give them back or donate or pass them on. (i'm not storing boxes forever on the off chance that i'm pregnant again and its a boy,) i'd rather they get some use. besides, i can buy new or rely on other people's hand me downs or whatever.

i'm talking the big plastic boxes with the folding in/out blue lids, at least 4 or 6. so bring the truck. i'm not working tomorrow but doing a bicycle class thing instead with josh so call first, or sundays, wed/thurs are good. are you doing the temple thing on the 18th? i am if you want to lend me a ride?

yes, girls night i haven't had the chance to mention it to [REDACTED] but lets plan on Oct. i'd prefer a wed night, although that means young women can't watch and ugh, we'd have to rely on husbands...i don't know, still in the works...or thurs but then i'm working on fri, but then so are you-whatever, let me know and thanks for the "strong lady" and "messy but love is all around" comments, its encouraging when you feel helpless and in the dark, i know adam is always good for a raunchy laugh and you can be a true friend. so thanks! 0

Geese! These dumb computers. I had an entire message for you and my slippery fingers deleted it! Now it is late and [REDACTED] is off the phone. Well, here we go... I would love to take some clothes from you. I feel kind of guilty though because I don't have much to offer. I guess you can keep renting from us. Yes, lets get together in October. September is too crazy for me. My class is lower than low. And there are a few I could kill already. I hope your days are getting better. You are a strong lady to put up with all this. Keep working at it. If you ever need to escape, come on over. It's messy but love is all around.

i've got a whole lot of clothes you guys could have, some is brand new from my mom and some is a collection of hand me downs from my sister and her one boy, or various stages of the 3 boys josh's sister had. won't be offended if you don't want them but i've tried to organize them in 0-6 mos, 6-9 mos, 9-12, 18 mos, and i've just moved [REDACTED] into the 24mos -2t and [REDACTED] is in the 3T.

i do a lot of layering with onesies, and then a shirt for the winter etc so i always like to have lots of clothes when i don't keep up on laundry. (plus diaper explodes/learning to feed themselves) if you guys are spending the big bucks or your family is then that's fine. (i remember something about the rich bro who adopted twins outfitting the room) but i hate to just keep storing these in hopes that the marriage works and i have another boy instead of girl.

Also, we should plan to do a girl's day without any children, for our birthdays! kind of reunite our old visiting teacher thing. 0

Hey lady! You weren't at church today. I understand. It stinks getting 2 little boys ready and everything; especially if they only have one parent like yours do. So, as far as your problems... I don't mind you letting us in on it. Frankly, I think both of you have some issues to work on but his (Josh's) list seems longer. Just start having more sex, and things should get better. (But please, use protection... I don't think another child would help.) I wish I could help you out in that department, but well, you know... that wouldn't work.

you got me in trouble the other day, josh claims that you don't want to hear anything about our marriage and bothered when i'm telling you [REDACTED] the gory details. this just feeds his lame arguments. the bishop appointment last 2 hrs before i walked out b/c he refused to do mediation/counseling and the bishop said he'd probably mess us up more than help us. josh stayed, assumed talking to him for another hour and he hasn't told me anything. anyways, i don't blame you but thought you might be interested. if it is true, let me know and i'll only speak to [REDACTED] in private, or if she doesn't want to know either, let me know. i guess we're still trying to save our marriage. working on our trust issues with the finances for starters... 0

[REDACTED]. the other night dad asked me what more i was going to do, and it kind of threw me through a loop, i think i've done pretty well so far with my life and i am enjoying where i am at right now but whatever. you know there are ways to have things better again... but i understand that it takes two to make a marriage and two to make it to eternity. so i think one thing that would be the best is to start on the little things are work your way up, make sure you are becoming the best person you can be. and work on loving each other and putting each other first. also church, reading together, etc. i'm sure you've heard it all before but sometimes when i would get angry with someone else, i had to get over that for a little to make sure i was being the best i could be. its hard i know...but you can do it. if you both want to. and as for a divorce. just face it it will not be pretty, you have two children a home, well a life together and divorce just rips that apart and is something that won't just effect you, it will effect the children, home, etc..... but now i'm sounding like i know everything, and i don't so yes i'm here, sorry i'm not able to chat a ton, but yes i'm here. 0

argh!!! if only i had listened more, i only remember vaguely [REDACTED] saying she could see us having some control issues but that we could work it out. but now i think she just said the work it out b/c she didn't want to bear the bad news just like i did with [REDACTED]

i really believe love is blind and i just don't know if this marriage can recover and be happy and yes i know i need to pray, its like i don't want to ask b/c what can i do about the answer? not go back in time, suffer in the current marriage, or suffer in the divorce and never trust my instincts again?

yeah, dad told the counselor (he came to my second session) that he didn't think we should have gotten married, that josh wasn't worthy of a recommend and never loved me. ouch, dad is on a pedistal in my book and to hear that...

i guess i'm hoping that all the financial changes will wake him up to change (for our marriage, for the better) or divorce me and some how miraculously it will be a painless divorce-dreaming i'm sure. yes, i can be a little obsessed with the lack of hindsight, how did i change? what do you remember? elaborate!!!! and i'm off wed/thurs so the phone works just as good or i'll check back Fri-

susan i told you not to marry josh because you changed so much. remember how close we were in high school and everything. well then you went to college and that was great you still said hi or whatever and you were fun, sometimes ditzy (like me, like us all) but fun. then you started dating josh, and you weren't fun any more and it wasn't just because you were always busy with him or anything, it was because you seemed to change for him, it bugged me and when you finally said "oh yeah we are engaged" when mom and dad asked, i said don't marry him, but you did, and in the temple so i thought "okay she can do it" but you know that doesn't change anything what we said, cause you are married to him now, and you have two very sweet crazy boys together...you know we will all support you though with whatever you do. 0

b/c of josh's excuse that if you use your credit card to pay for marriage counseling, the card co. can look at the payee name and it can affect your credit b/c of your

"lifestyle", so he was finding another lame-o excuse to weasel out of counseling.

it was really by accident, i was googling and found a number for a marriage mediator, (figured it was like you said) and called to ask if its ok to change the locks and greet him with his stuff packed, a police officer, and paperwork. the guy laughed, said i could but he would never recommend that and proceeded to explain that what he does is tries to mediate between the two, the problems to be fixed and then worst case, divorce. he usually charges $120/hr but said he would discount it to $80 for us, and he said he sees "significant progress" in 1 or 2 sessions. so he's not trying to milk us for everything. and josh is all paranoid about it showing up on our credit and he explained he KNOWS he has illegal customers and if they prefer, he'll go by first names, no ssn, cash only.

josh is either in denial or thinks its still negotiable whether or not we use this guy. the conversation we didn't have last night was for me to clarify, this is his last and only choice and if i don't see dramatic improvements in our marriage that are sustained/constant, then we WILL divorce.

how about that. that word wasn't truly in my vocabulary until about 2 months ago. i'm not scared anymore. apprehensive of if we have to go through an ugly divorce and splitting things and such but not afraid of the D word anymore. obviously, if this is the kick in the pants that he needs and we can move forward to have a happy, loving, functional marriage that would be best. if not, then ugly or not, i'm not taking the abuse and subjecting my boys to the environment/affects any longer.

love ya, and good job on getting mom/dad to join as it were...doubt mom would ever visit her own page anyways...homework for you, find a fellow parent to swap kids or teenager, pathetic really. its not like you live miles from another human! 0

Awww! I feel your pain sweetie! I really do. Truly, things happen for a reason. I never would have imagined that I could have gone on with my life after my divorce, but here I am, 4 years later, and couldn't imagine my life with him anymore.....

Don't think I'm anti-marriage at all. In fact, I would say that you should fight till the death. Granted, I don't know what your personal marriage is like. Just know that it's really not that scary being divorced.....hard at times yes, but who says marriage isn't hard either?? ;) I'm sure [REDACTED] could attest to a lot of this....if she hasn't already. It's not in your hands and the best you can do is rely upon the Man upstairs and realize that you will be taken care of no matter what happens!!!! After all, that's all ya can do!

i'm holding out that once i get myself into counseling, he will get himself into counseling and either fix himself and he'll work on the marriage or divorce and he won't play dirty kidnapping the boys etc. He's controlling and possibly bi polar and totally irrational. what finally hit me was my dad saying i was abused wife without the bruises.

Right now i'm trying to stay sane so that if it comes down to it, i never lose custody of my boys. but life after divorce isn't looking so scary, its just whether or not my husband would allow it. i've got a job and a home and i think i could support me and my boys without him and MAYBE in the far future, trust someone else after i've had my entire family/friends grill him and some type of emotional prenup wouldn't hurt. wow, that's the first time i've been able to sum up my life so quickly.

I feel like I have to tell Josh 5:30 every day so he will be on time. If I am trying to get to a class at 6:30 I need to be out the door at 6:00 so when he calls me at 6:02 to tell me he is running late that doesn't fly with me. In my eyes he should have already been almost there rather than across town stuck behind an accident. The girls are here only 4 days at most if that and their mom is here by 6:00 even if she is trying to get the girl in their gear to go. As for [REDACTED] I can leave him with another family member but my girls would rather not deal with my clients much less Josh. My best suggestion is that Josh might want to work on his time management and be accountable for his actions.

You are a good wife, you are always trying to arrange things to meet his demands. That's great! My intention is not to make you have to jump through more hoops. I just need him to be aware that when I say 6:00 I mean 6:00, and that is not a call telling me whatever his excuse is for the day. I will be holding him to the late policy. I know how money talks with him and if that is what it takes then I'm ok with it even if I treat you to lunch on it. It just so happened that I had people waiting on me last night and I was 25 minutes late. We missed getting what we needed to pick up because it closed before we got there. If I have kids arriving at 6:30 and not being picked up until after 6:00 then I can't get my business taken care of.

I think you can just give Josh the just of how I feel but I'm not sure it will sink in...

You are just the unlucky brunt of all my frustration. It would be nice if he could see that the world doesn't always accommodate him. He just might have to do two days worth of running instead of one as I often have to do.

Thanks for letting me vent. I have never been one for not telling other how I really feel. Sorry.

Oh ya the Policy book says it's $5.00 for the first min. and a second $5.00 for the 15 minute mark and then another $5.00 at the next 15 min mark. so if he is 16 min late that would cost him $10.00 per child at the hour I start calling emergency contacts and if I can't get them it's DCFS.

Josh is the one who tells me that I should stick to my policies so I am sticking to my policies. 0

oh boy, do you want me to let him read this word for word? that may not be a good thing. i still choose you over him. you are more reliable and obviously more accommodating. i think he meant you were "changing the rules" as far as suddenly, to him, without warning, you wanted the boys picked up at 5:30 instead of 6 like usual. obviously you are not a taxi and he's trying to abuse your constant kindness and bending the rules (like getting up earlier etc) he's still trying to make things work with one car as far as, in his world, if he picks up the kids, he loses 45 minutes of time in order to "run errands" and then he claims the places start closing at 5 and 6. i'm glad you've charged us a late fee. was it $10 only or per kid? did you tell him that yet? i've asked him a couple of times over the last year, like what would we do if you actually said no more-get another car? drop them off at 7:30am and pick them up at 5 something like normal people??? i keep offering to change my schedule, or even aim for a 6am until 2:30 shift. (i don't think i have seniority for that shift yet) obviously i'd have my own vehicle at that point. we have that motorcycle/lawn ornament. i keep saying he needs to fix that up or get us another vehicle or something. i hate to seem him taking you for granted just because i'm used to him taking me for granted...he's sooo stuck on the idea that we are only paying 3 days of daycare and saving money b/c of not a second car payment but something has to give and it sounds like he's broken the last straw a couple of times. i'm disgusted with him for last night. i thought you had left the boys with someone in the fam (b/c i thought you also had the girls staying their usual and [REDACTED]) and he called me 5 min after 6 to say he was stuck behind an accident. well how convenient, get yourself clear across town (i'm guessing) and then 10 minutes before you need to be on your doorstep, decide to head back and then blame it on an accident-(still guessing, no clue if the accident thing was true or not) it took me that long to get a hold of someone to pick me up and then waiting for them...i think our counseling session next Tues needs to focus on not sabotaging the only good thing right now (daycare/you) because of his issues. that plus his snotty attitude whenever he's been talking to his dad or brother. whatever, let me know, have a good thanksgiving! we'll see you Monday. 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] 20:56:12 24Nov09

Sorry,

I get heated when I am being disrespected. Josh may be able to treat you like that, but I will not put up with him sabotaging me and my time like that. If he wants to talk about changing the rules, you can remind him that I first agreed to keep the boys until he got off from work and he was going to be riding his bike or carpooling and he changed the game plan. I have been bending over backward to accommodate him. I also get up early to open the door to him in the morning. My hours don't start until 7:00 am, check the policy book. For future reference he will need to contact me before 6:00 to tell me he is going to be late, and he will be charged the late fee if he calls at 6:00. I deserve to be compensated for my unconvince. This has become a daily habit for him and it needs to change. My family deserves to have their home and mom back at 6:00pm. If he had contacted me earlier I may have been able to get some one to take them up for a service fee. I am running a child care not a taxi service. I have 7 other clients and they don't ever treat me like this. Please let him know and if he is unhappy with this he has my blessing to make arrangements for the boys. I doubt if anyone would be as accommodating or put up with his lack of respect. The boy could have gone with him to do his running. You take them with you all the time, It's called being a parent.

josh says he wasn't aware ahead of time and will be picking up at the usual for today-he'll be prepared for next week for your training right? he says you are changing the rules in the middle of the game, and i pointed out-if i had my own vehicle, i could get them and it wouldn't be a problem. that you can't pack all the kids to bring them to me b/c you are past your school run and could miss other parents. sometimes i seriously hate him. [REDACTED] I wonder who is having twin girls? Is it a girl that works there, or is it the wife of someone that works there?

As for my g-pa, he had just turned 89, so he had a pretty full life. It seems like the entire family is going down for the funeral, so it's going to be a pretty full house. There's 4 of his kids, and I think about 21 grandkids and who knows how many great-grand kids. He was my last grandparent. My wife still has 2 grandparents still alive. Remember when we were writing about pack rats? Well he was definitely one of them. It is going to take a LONG LONG time to go through all of his stuff. I'm sure there will be many fun treasures to find.

I'll be looking forward to a BBQ. I really miss seeing all of my friends at work. Especially the people that became really good friends, like you. 0

sorry about your grandfather, that sucks. josh and i used to live in a retirement facility as live in managers and we were always checking on our residents for that reason...i hope he's a better man than your silly father in law, and that he lived a good life and was ready. my gparents are somewhere in their 70's (i think late) and i don't even want to think about that happening. i had to tell my mom her father had died when i was about 10 or 11-she was adopted and had already lost what she knew as her mother. kept crying and saying, "I'm an orphan" i'm not much of a look in the casket person but i wonder if it'll be different with my close family. i'll be praying for you. good to hear you haven't shut conference out of your lives. we had it on while we were building the deck. i PROMISE a bbq, (it may be in the freezing cold) but we CAN do it. my husband actually really likes to have people over and conversation but lately we've been busy and/or everyone else seems to flake out.

Hey thank a million, Susan! Sorry it took me so long to respond to you. It was a crazy weekend. My grandpa died sometime on friday or saturday (they found him saturday night) and now we have to prepare to go down to southern California for the funeral this weekend.

And as for the guy upstairs, I've been praying to him quite a bit. I've been praying a lot for the past few months trying to get through a lot of stuff, and it definitely has helped a lot. I still haven't gotten around to continue reading that book, though. Maybe once a few things start settling down.

I'm glad you were able to work on the deck this weekend. We had conference on a little bit over the weekend, too. You have to let me know when your deck is completed so we can come over for a BBQ [REDACTED]

i'm here for you, and i hope you guys win the 1k especially for that reason. sounds like they were shopping for a reason if they suddenly were calling them "not legit" understood though that you don't want to talk much and still in shock etc. call me when you need some hair done, and i still owe your wife too. *now is the time to do that thing on your knees with that guy UPstairs, it's his will, you just don't know why yet. 0

[REDACTED] @ 06:59:20 02Oct09

Well, I did get fired for the referral thing. I was so caught up with not hitting the referrals that I put a few referrals in that they said was not 'legit'. (even though I had been putting in those same type of refferals for the past year without any problems)

I have no idea what I'm going to do next. Just apply for anything and everything I guess. I'm still in shock. I don't think we'll be ordering any MK, though. Gotta keep a hold of every dollar we have. Sorry.

I haven't read any more of the book. I've just been spending my time visiting websites looking for jobs. Sorry I haven't called. I've found it's been pretty hard to talk to my friends without getting choked up. I might have to get a hair service done, maybe a trim or something so I look good for any interviews I might have. Take care. 0

you aren't getting off that easy! why the heck did that happen? you said you made your quota just the day before! and you were chatting like it wasn't a problem about an hour before i saw you being escorted away. are they trying to make an example out of you or something? and dare i ask, what are you going to do next? they are building a [REDACTED] if that is of interest for either of you.

and i'm sure everything is up in the air right now but i was still planning on doing a mk order this month, if you still want stuff, i thought i would just take 40% off of the bill so i can make my $200 wholesale easier-(b/c there is still shipping and delivery and costs to have it on my credit/debit-so i figure that can be the 10%) so let me know

you don't have to loose your friends b/c of a job.

oh and i might need 2 separate phone #s to enter you and your wife into the $1000 drawing so make sure i have that by tomorrow, i think it's due by monday and you have to mail paper things in.

i'm home, call me. and i still owe some hair services to you two! [REDACTED]

cheap is good, i feel like my money bag ways are gonna catch up with me one of these days. i say chat and games if we feel up to it. card games or board games always seems to do the trick. we can all pitch in money for pizza or something? [REDACTED] is good-you can order each additional topping for 1.25. what i did was half pepperoni and sausage and half canadian and pineapple and they basically charged me for only one extra topping. takes about 10 minutes for them to bake it and at the time, i didn't even call ahead. i can bring salad and stuff? i think i have some root beer... 0

As far as adding a new team member, once you log on to [REDACTED] you put the mouse over the Business Tools part, go to online agreements, create a new agreement, then send an E-mail Link. Let me know if you have more questions about that. 0

[REDACTED]

Hey Susan, good job getting 4 people to P&P! That's awesome! Even cooler that you want to do a party! hehehe. I would be happy to help out. If you want I can show you what I do when I set up and I can teach the class, just not at my house. :) It stresses me out too much. Pretty sure next Friday will work. You will need your box of stuff to get it set up. In fact I'll send you a list of things needed for a class just so you can refer to it in the future.

Glad to hear you want to come clean with Josh. But technically you ARE helping me. Your success is my success. :) You'll have to let me know how that goes. 0 with YOU helping me, not on the regular days that the center offers. i got 4 women to show up, one actually took the white paper home, i still have to call her today. my daycare lady says i should do a faces evening with her 4 daughters and friends (one of them is just starting up [REDACTED], so we figure we can get her to try our product, and get her to a [REDACTED] by the 24th-just to compare [REDACTED] and i will have met my goal of 5 for the frost ring. my daycare lady, [REDACTED], can't do Saturday nights and i don't think her daughters can do a Tues night-can we do it with your guidance and at her house, or your house or maybe even mine if i can kick josh out? (i was thinking Friday the 18th???) [REDACTED] and i had a good talk and on top of listening to [REDACTED] again, i've decided i'll come clean with josh-not necessarily volunteering the info-but i will tell him the truth. i don't think he even believed me this last time-i said, girl's night-help [REDACTED] and he said, "again???" and i just said yup! 0

hey how are things going? we never seemed to really follow up on the girl's night thing. i gather (from your status') that you are NOT exactly loving living with inlaws and something about a cat? i hope you are ok-i'd love to chat/hang out (thank goodness for FB) but i don't think our schedules really overlap unless we actually did do another girl's night-which wouldn't be for a while b/c i'm using that as my cover story for my husband-i don't know if [REDACTED] told you but i signed up for [REDACTED] with her, for the sole purpose of buying stuff wholesale, and this month i'm trying to get 5 people to just be a butt in a chair for listening to the pitch so i can get a cute ring (i'm vain, i know) so i've pretty much maxed out that excuse for a while until he wises up-although i'm not sure that i really want the other stuff i'd have to work for...but my schedule hasn't changed, wed/thurs off (i know, you are working...) and i remember your hubby still has the late night shift...oh well, i'm still a friend for ya! my cell [REDACTED]

no its entertainment purposes to see how long i can hide it from him. and it could backfire, he could expect me to actually start selling the product instead of treating it like wholesale (you KNOW i don't want to do that) i don't want to attend all the meetings (pay for the room rental-babysitter/vehicle/travel/time etc) i don't want to have to try to get clients, etc and i'd be really pissed if he tried to NOT allow me to do anything-how easy is it to get a free ring for the minor hassel of roping up 5 people in a month?

you treat it like a business which makes sense b/c this would be your income. to me it'd be a third/fourth/fifth job-(not in any order) my [REDACTED] my church callings, my family, hair stuff and also MK? (plus all the yard/house/personal pleasure time like reading/watching a movie etc) way too many obligations. you already experience all these things/headaches and i'd rather not have to justify to him again and again (because i know that's how it would play out) -on all my whys of doing it as wholesaler, the costs and the whys on why i don't want to actively sell. not sure that i'm really being the bigger person right now if i were to tell him.

[REDACTED]

So I was reading your blog about [REDACTED] on Saturday and wow!!! 20 lbs makes a huge difference already! You are a great inspiration.

I'm taking the less extreme version, (I just started a couple weeks ago) of drinking at least a gallon of water a day...and to cut down on my portions and to drink water instead of eat (I'm like you-snack off the kids, eat when bored-even though you aren't bored b/c you still have a million things to do...) allowing only once a week treat...(no binge-ing on my diet though) being totally more aware of calories on the packaged food I eat and trying to eat balanced at every meal. I try to get on my treadmill about 2-4 nights a week. And if not, I'm walking to/from the park, doing yard work, helping with the deck...(geez this summer went fast. I want it done in time to park in the garage and our calendar is quickly filling up with other things...-plus all that rainy weather means no deck work)

We are trying to go camping this weekend to the dinosaur museum so you won't see me on Sunday, and geez, the following there is no church but the temple dedication which I'm happy to say, I've got a ticket/recommend for...

Ps, what exactly is [REDACTED] I know you got it from your mom and I know she's a major health freak but I'm a little worried.

And here is where I'm going to play the VT card-- I'm still serious, if I can exchange my services of house cleaning for your husband helping mine-that would be awesome!!! The hardest part is he can't do much by himself and especially with the kids (they tend not to nap-as if they sense that you have to get something done and can't or don't want to police them into falling asleep) and I always work Saturdays...(unless we are camping of course, this will be our second time this entire summer) I know you are trying to put a yard in and I know [REDACTED] has a weird schedule and stuff, but even a couple hours would be awesome!

Oh and pps, I've signed up as MK consultant, just so I can buy my own products wholesale (way excited about saving money) but I'm keeping it quiet from josh-mainly just curious to see how long it takes for him to find out, he still hasn't found out that I've been paying my parents back since December (giggle) 0 awesome! yes i remember you telling me that [REDACTED] lost her job and needed something outdoors-b/c i remember wondering what she could do as a female, in UT/during the winter-that would allow her outdoor time-i worry about some things already coming out flaky with her but oh well. good to know if she has a job right now.

i have to say, it's really frustrating that the general motto of people i keep coming in contact with is "provide for me" even if there is no spouse, no job etc. everyone can't assume that their perfect job will fall in their lap-or rely solely on self employed income-like selling something [REDACTED] [REDACTED]) and then just sit on their thumbs when they have no income. we have definitely moved away from the one working parent lifestyle (still a few blessed, like you i realize) but it's like people are in utter denial that they might actually have to work the non perfect-non dream job...this particular rant isn't directed at you or anyone you know...just what i've been experiencing lately.

as far as [REDACTED] awesome, i admit i've kind of given up so it's great you got a hold of her. what time was it???day of the week?? i can't for the life of me remember which hospital she said. [REDACTED]

Hey. Left a message on your cell phone last night. We're heading out of town today to camp in Idaho all weekend so I needed to let you know about this before I left.

I was visit-taught last night and that reminded me to finally contact our two ladies. I texted [REDACTED] and she called me back because she was on her way to...her new job! Yes, she is now working at [REDACTED] ([REDACTED]) She isn't getting a huge salary but it's better than no job at all. She did some training and started Wednesday of this week working.

Didn't she tell us that she wanted something outdoors because of migraines or something? I asked her about that she said "you must have me mixed up with someone else. I never said that." So I am way confused about that. I'm absolutely positive she told me she gets sick and headachey indoors and needed something outside.

Anyway, I asked her when we could visit and she said she'd have to let us know because she is working part-time and never knows what her schedule will be. She might have 8 hours a week or it could be as much as 40. They are being flexible about her needing to be there for her kids.

Then I called [REDACTED]. Her husband answered and I actually got to talk to her. She said she's being induced on Tuesday. I had forgotten that she'd planned an inducement all along. She said she has babysitting all worked out and doesn't need anything. I begged her to call us if we could help in any way. I guess the RS will need to bring in meals starting Wednesday, possibly? I forgot to ask which hospital but we should probably know that, too. She said she is comfortable and feels good and is fine. Obviously we can't really visit her right now so we just need to keep checking up on the situation, I guess.

That's it! Have a good weekend,

I'm sorry to hear that Josh got rear-ended! Is he ok? well that's great that you are getting people to pizza! Let them know they will be entered in a $1000 drawing just for showing up. I am sure going to try to get some people there on Thursday. [REDACTED] will need the names and phone numbers of the guests that are coming on Thursday morning before noon. I usually e-mail them to her. Thursday the 10th is at [REDACTED] house and the 17th it's at another directors house. If I end up going I can give you a ride. 0

I like the fact that you are owning your feelings. Your so right we can only control ourself so it's better to talk about the fact that you may feel cheeted when it comes to thing rather than blaming.

Much better results coming your way. 0

i confirmed with my teenager to be at my house at 8:30 (appointment at 9 and i've already got the paperwork filled out)

i talked to a member in our ward last saturday (rocked josh's world, i didn't get home until almost 9pm, he had to make dinner-and not use a vehicle...) and this guy literally had divorced his wife, remarried her and got sealed to his fam in the temple. he sees a lot of himself in josh as far as religion, so he was helping me with that male perspective and coaching me.

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] " i figure if this counselor has even a day of practice/schooling under their belt, they can easily draw out the problems as soon as josh opens his mouth. then he's not being defensive, and i'm not attacking and maybe this time we can get to the root of the problem.

this guy wants to chat with josh and i said to use the vague disguise of service-then josh can't complain that he's wasting time talking...so we'll see how that goes. he too, told me to read [REDACTED]..were you telling me to read that book about a year ago? i swear someone told me to read that book a year ago but i thought it was my mother in law and she said she'd never heard of the book before (after i bought it new at [REDACTED]-ouch) 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 11:12:59 01Sep09

Let me know if you will need me for tonight. It's good to keep you mouth shut sometimes but if thing really bother you yon need to let the couelor know so she can give you some tools and excecise for you and Josh to do together. [REDACTED] has a book out on relationships that is really good as well. In spit of it all Josh will have to be more committed to listening and you are going to have to be willing to give him more time to process his thoughts. 0

[REDACTED]

i forgot to mention, josh annointed and gave [REDACTED] a "combo" blessing last night. i asked if he felt up to it or if not, that i would call someone-so he did it. fumbled a bit but did it. yeah i guess! he's never stopped wearing his garments. and i'm only on chapter 2 of [REDACTED] and i'm already realizing that i view him as the "enemy" often. counseling should be interesting, i've got to keep my mouth shut and let his side come out. it's a female-so i don't know how he'll handle that. 0

Hey Susan, Yeah, we'd be happy to help out, and I know my kids would love to play with some little kids..they are pretty cute with the little ones. (probably becuase they feel like big brother or sister) :) I was chatting to ██████ about when we could hook up, ██████ could actually work around Josh's schedule and hed be happy to give him a hand :) ██████ is so so SO good with that kind of stuff. He's finished quite alot of basements. So just let us know what will work for Josh and then ██████ and I and the kids can come over and hang with ya! Let me know what you think okay? 0

oh! i didn't even know that ██████ had a companion! funny. yeah, you should come over, see ██████ in his natural habitat. and i've seen your beautiful home, you should see mine. i'm off wed/thurs but you work now so i'm not sure when we could connect. ██████ was wearing the yellow polo shirt to church and the yellow long sleeve shirt last night. he suddenly came down with the fever-weird. and he loves the light blue jacket and wanted to wear it immediately but i told him it was too hot (b/c it was) i can always take your hand me downs.

i guess your husband is interested in chatting with josh and i suggested if he did it through service then my husband would be more willing to listen/spend the time. the hardest challenge is i work Saturdays so josh can't really multi task any work with the kids. i was thinking it'd be awesome if you played with the kids (and your kids) at either house, and let the men do their work.

we have a deck to be built so we can get the wood out of our garage and park inside again.-kind of vital-we put the kids in the car at 6:30 in the morning and it's getting colder each day, plus there is often lag time and i hate having them out in the driveway all exposed.

and we have an unfinished basement, about half of it has dry wall hung already. for all of josh's projects he basically needs a second set of hands to help hold things, hand him tools etc...(it's usually me helping him) anyways, your husband and i kind of got cut short last night. but i wanted to tell you/him. josh gave [REDACTED] a blessing last night. and he's never stopped wearing his garments. that's encouraging, i think the general feeling is [REDACTED] and everyone else at church has no clue how to interact with josh and assume he hates the church and i guess it's not that really, it's just that it's not convenient for him to attend it or be encouraging to me and the boys etc...and obviously, very weak faith at the moment...so i get off at 5:30 and my home computer is broken, so i wouldn't see fb or email until Friday-but my cell is [REDACTED]

Hey Susan, I hope those clothes fit!!! Your kids will look cute in them, just because they are cute boys anyway!!! I have a few jackets that are 5/6 that [REDACTED] could wear if he needs some....they are really cute. I need to come and see you more often. [REDACTED] @ 08:24:04 21Aug09

i'm sorry i totally spaced! crazy busy week. i'm sure you hate having a stash of clothes lying around waiting to give to the needy. my home computer doesn't work (it's old-it won't even turn on) so i didn't have a chance until now. i can come by this evening or after work tomorrow (i work Saturdays) i think i remember which house you live in, but i think i'm mixing you up with the [REDACTED]. just call my cell [REDACTED] and leave a msg 0

we would be home around 6:30 or so. we just got back from camping so the house is trashed and i'm not sure if we will grab food on the way home, if i'm not there, put it on the door step or behind the garbage cans if you like. you are awesome! i just bought some plain white tshirts for [REDACTED] b/c he doesn't really have light colored shirts for the rest of summer but i didn't want to spend big bucks. if that doesn't work, i could probably walk over later wed (i have dr appointment) or thurs- let me know [REDACTED]

I understand both the finances and the marriage part. One thing I have learned and you can try, is, because you are obviously unhappy, try talking about one thing at a time with him. Try not to bring all the baggage in to every conversation. and the other thing is make sure you both aren't bringing something up. Only one person, one item at a time. Alternate every other day and see if that makes any head way. It has for [REDACTED] 0

yeah we did our trip to WA back in feb, broke, poor, no more vacation left. haven't even done our taxes yet, 0% credit card due in nov...josh just always says the classic, "we need to catch up on our finances" and mean while, we keep living life and not catching up.

i'm nervous, i think we have a female counselor and aside from agreeing to finally doing it, he hasn't said a word. my bottom line is this or divorce but i don't want to sound that harsh and i'm pretty sure he is just in a defensive mode...i gotta go talk to you tomorrow 0

Good luck with counselling. I will pray for you guys. If you ever need to talk, please, please give me call. A supportive sounding board has been really helpful for me when I am going through stuff and so I offer that to you too.

My guess is you aren't coming into town for the fair?? We will always miss that when you guys aren't here. :-( 0

o.k. so we'll just stick to the 9-11 class. And I'll get him a ride back to the babysitter's home. His class starts in 4 days:-) Tues, Sept. 1st. 0

i think i'd rather keep him in the morning class, or else my weekdays (wed/thurs) which i cherish, would both involve preschool and we wouldn't be able to do anything fun-which really sucks when i work Saturdays all day and i just discovered i can take my kids to the zoo during the week...plus trying to schedule dentist/dr etc appointments ( [REDACTED] has scoliosis). unless you wanted to make your 3 yr olds meet

mon/wed like [REDACTED] but i'm sure that's a ridiculous question. ps. which week are you starting school??? 0

[REDACTED] @ 12:38:02 28Aug09

Hey, here is another option. I (or someone you know and approve) will pick him up for the 11:30 class and I will take him back to the babysitters after 1:30. I am needing more kids in the 11:30 class, it is a hard one to fill.

Let me know.

Thanks,

ok, let me know if you need a spare booster seat. i believe he is heavy enough that we could leave a booster seat with that person. and good news, he's a lot closer to potty trained! but i won't guarantee accident free yet...and does he start Tues the 1st or 8th??? 0

[REDACTED] @ 07:14:08 26Aug09

I wouldn't have a stranger drop him off. I'll ask someone we both know. I would but my next class starts at 11:30 and parents will not always be on time picking kids up at 11:00 and the 11:30 class might drop their kids off a little early. 0

[REDACTED] @ 14:40:06 24Aug09

but should i be worried about some stranger dropping off my kid with or without a car seat? would it be a regular person or anything consistent for [REDACTED] and my daycare lady? 0

[REDACTED] 12:30:31 24Aug09

9:15 is fine. I can't drop him off, but we can find him a ride. I have a lot of kids that live close by. 0

[REDACTED] @ 08:21:10 21Aug09

i couldn't remember the exact time but i thought you said a 9:30 vs noon start times? My daycare says that she's already taking kids to school at [REDACTED] at 9 so she is willing to drop [REDACTED] off at about 9:15 if you could just take him back to daycare afterwards, this would normally be on Tuesday. i'm off on Thursdays so i can take him both ways on those days.

i hope that makes sense, and thanks again!

bleach your half 8.40

you'd be happy to know i had a real conversation with my husband. i whined about my 2 very negative last phone calls and the other 2 positive things today (one being i FINALLY got one of those blasted $15 cards!!!) and you know who asked me via email again about how i never mentioned the specifics on my crazy dreams. i forgot to mention to you that before that incident, a couple months back, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] so this time, when he asked about the dreams thing (?maybe to invite me for another stroll?) [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]. i think he still took it the wrong way and then asked if renee did really get married b/c he saw dave with a ring. i haven't had a chance to answer him, but i remember telling him via email as a little fyi (pretending i didn't know) that they were engaged etc b/c i thought he should hear it from me instead of the grapevine. (when i didn't know about them, and she had just barely left, we had some in depth emails about how shocked we were with her not running back to TX for her kids and such...)and i thought i told him that they ended up getting married (so if i did, is he in denial or what?) i'm half tempted to talk to renee about our little incident but i won't. (i'm still shocked i told you-but i'm not his judge of israel and neither are you and now you can help me with how not to think about that and help me to change my interactions so i'm not encouraging more of that with him.) but now that i think about it, i think she was mentioning how clingy he was when she had already moved on from him...geez i'm so naive on some things i guess! and i haven't forgotten i owe for amber's gift, she owes me for a bunch of hair stuff so i was thinking it would come from that-and now i've spent so much more money. i actually gave my gift card to my husband with an apology sentence via email.

So here is her e-mail: [REDACTED]
Tuesday the 11th would be great. Unit meeting is at 6:30 and your New Consultant Orientation is at 7:45pm - 9:00. So really you don't have to be there until 7:45, but if you want a ride I am going at 6:30. so ya.
I like the tinted lip balms. Not TOO much color but not clear. Haven't really heard back from the people who have tried it yet. Only had 2 ppl buy them so far. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] being one of them. 0

she called me yesterday and i don't want her to think i'm avoiding her, just making phone calls on any day besides wed/thurs is not really convenient right now (i don't want to run out of minutes and i share with my parents-did last month) so if i can email her? if she's on fB? next tues she was saying the meeting is at 5-no good, is tues aug 11 at 7??? ps, josh just noticed the $ to [REDACTED]-i didn't tell him it won't happen again b/c i'm a consultant now. lol! any feedback yet on the tinted chapstick colors yet? 0

11:15, so i figure they can play at the cooler temp, less children 10 am, and be done by the time they pass out lunch. (this way there should hopefully be more swings available and less children b/c i find it hard to let them run and play when i'm constantly unsure of where they are b/c too many kids to tell apart to keep track of your own. ps, bring food for yourself, they don't want to catch you snacking off of the kids meal or bring $3 and buy your own-if you stay until about 12:45, they usually let the kids have seconds... (not that i plan to be there that long tomorrow-but for future reference...)

so by the "oh" i'm assuming you meant the 15th? i could possibly try, i don't know if your director even wants someone wishy washy like me. possibly play wednesday by ear as far as josh/the deck is concerned...do you have your 5 people yet? 0

i'm at work, i'm not even supposed to access fb, email etc...but they just don't have the technology to catch you unless someone you don't like is over your shoulder...and i'm ashamed to say, the crappy computer i have access to at home is soooo old and slow that i literally log into fb, walk away, click profile, walk away...b/c it takes so long to load. josh is still the usual as far as high tech computer whatever that i don't have a log in for. (even if i did, the computer is downstairs in the only finished room that i don't frequent except at night for my treadmill/House or NCIS viewings...)

we are building a new deck, he's full time salary at his job, spent big bucks on a lifetime vacations wholesale deal (NOT a timeshare) so we've been busy and he always has an excuse or something with a higher priority whenever i mention the crappy computer, unfinished basement, unfinished yard etc...but at least i'm a good lookin' now brainwashed to have low expectations-nagging wife...

anyways, how are you? it seems like as soon as [REDACTED] heard i was considering divorce that she was my friend again but since my divine and constant answer seems to be-stay it will work out eventually, i think i've lost her friendship for good. i wish we could get our spouses to get over themselves so we could all hang out. if i can tolerate josh's evil dad, surely our spouses could let us all be friends. i know josh misses you. you were one of the few people he could relax and actually have fun with. it seems like he's purposely so busy to try to fill the void of nobody really being his friend.

anyways, sorry so long and not exactly an im/how are you guys? still working? what's rachel up to? i know she's working again but what? i assume you guys are still trying for another- (i think we will be too-and i'm hoping it won't take long, i'm feeling my age.)

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 07:18:32 14Jul09

yeah, he immediately said, "don't cut your hours" i'm not sure that i can get another week day in for work-i could try. you are charging 140 a week for 2 kids, 3 days a week so would it be 180 for 2 kids 4 days??? that might be worth it if i can keep my 40 hr week and get saturdays off... 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 16:54:43 13Jul09

Your so funny and Yes I am flaming red. Maybe you can pick up another day during the week and have saturdays off, That way I make more money and you get a day of family time and project hand holding. ;) 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 16:32:15 13Jul09

ps, you are soo red!!!! i'd never lose you! you better not have cancer or suddenly decide to move or something! seriously, if i had to pick my job and your daycare to keep vs josh...i just might go with the first... 0

████████████████████ @ 16:29:30 13Jul09

that's the problem, i wonder if i can just eliminate my saturdays so i can have family time/project time but keep the daycare position...i'm sure nothing will change, and i'm sure josh's bottom line is to not cut my paycheck. i'm also fairly confident that they wouldn't let me tweak my schedule significant enough to matter either. are your other people current or even trying yet? i also don't want to cut you out of your regular paying clientel and i'd only do it if i could know i could keep the spots...so i don't think anything will change, maybe just daydreaming, wishing i could be home sat and sun for the fam fun and the house project hand holding 0

and my work is offering wierd part time shifts temporarily for the summer. and more rare, graveyard shifts. i'm wondering if i could change my hours/days or not take them to daycare at all, but i don't want to hurt your paycheck and i want to obviously keep the spot. i haven't had a chance to talk with josh about this... 0

wow . . . thank you so much for the update. I've been trying to text denise on her old cell phone with no success obviously. How in the heck did you get ahold of her?? Glad you did. Sounds about right of when I last spoke with her and mom filling in the last tid bits of actually divorcing [REDACTED]. That's too bad [REDACTED] got ahold of her debit/card. I must say not at all surprised. I sure hope she gets all her kids back. What a difficult time this must be for her. I'm keeping busy with ms. Good things [REDACTED] has the sugar free vanilla lattes to keep me going:) So I tried calling you the other night. It was 8 or 9 p.m. my time. I'll be home or my cell is [REDACTED]. Thank you again for the info on denise. I've been thinking about her a lot lately. Texting is grand. Not sure if you have it on your phone, but you should get it. i let her tell me on her own, she truly sounded happy. she said she is divorcing [REDACTED] living with girlfriend's and her guy friend [REDACTED] (she specified that [REDACTED] thinks she's with him but he's just a friend)-helped her get a cell phone. she says he bought the phone and she pays the monthly bil. she says obviously don't tell/give [REDACTED] she said she didn't think she had your # anymore so to call her so she'll have it again.

she says she hasn't seen [REDACTED] for 1 wk b/c she has a restraining order on [REDACTED] and he won't get out of the house/mobile home. and hasn't lived at her home for 2 wks. she goes to court this monday. that mom and dad said to "let the judge kick chad out" and she/her lawyer think the judge will at least take temporary custody away from [REDACTED] and she hopes they arrest [REDACTED] over his warrants. that if the judge doesn't kick him out, he'll have to be out in another 2 wks anyways.

she did the usual, "[REDACTED] got her a dog and then told dad that [REDACTED] got it" chad used her bank card and since then, she's changed the pin...she wants to get her hair highlighted (asking if i'd be in [REDACTED] anytime soon) and that she hasn't "retained/worked out a payment schedule" for her lawyer yet, but he'll also help her get [REDACTED] back.

anyways, she didn't mention [REDACTED] specifically. and when i was trying to think of people that could highlight her hair (mentioned can't be [REDACTED] and i think [REDACTED] that she "doesn't want to have anything to do with people in the church. i guess we immediate family aren't included in that? so i don't know if she is at all keeping in contact with [REDACTED] or not but she wanted you to have her # and i told her i'd get it to you-have a good night. hug/kiss [REDACTED] for me! 0

[REDACTED]
you should have seen her strutting around, getting hugs from [REDACTED] and like, chatting with everyone all day, it was weird and awkward (to me) to see her there. she had a tank top on and jeans and sitting on people's desks...there was a lot of confusion on if she was really let go b/c she was here so long.

i have mixed emotions about her, i've talked personal/spiritually with her and as a loving observer, (sort of how a bishop or what you might imagine Jesus would look at us as...) and i get so frustrated with the choices she seems to make so i'm kind of glad she's gone, but hope she'll be alright (but who can't be if you can still live with mom and dad?) anyways, i'm trying to be Christlike but i'm frustrated b/c i don't think she's figured out which side she wants to be on and sitting on the fence is not an option. (like you and me got off the fence and trying to do the right thing...) this is why i don't think i could ever be a bishop, or in my case, a RS president-good thing i'm only the secretary. anyways, since i never have time to talk to you (wink at your daughter for me) and since i know i could never write this in work email....anyways, have a nice day, see you soon! 0 since we should all be at work Friday and wanting to hang out with the boys afterwards, i was thinking a date on Thursday night or Saturday night might be better.

And I didn't remember that I had heard my cell phone go off until about 10pm at night, so I figured you didn't want me waking you up

I had a dream about you. I was in your new house, waiting for you and the former owner came and was basically waiting for you also. You didn't know I was coming. I was just walking around the house. It was really weird b/c there were 2 bathrooms that directly connected to [REDACTED] room and numerous pocket doors that you had to stoop down to get through that connected her room to yours and you had about 3 living rooms, tvs and stuff were already set up but it was pretty bare. I remember the master bedroom had 3 bathrooms connected, the first 2 only had stand up steam showers and big garden bath/Jacuzzi like tubs with not even a sink or a toilet. And the third bathroom did have a toilet. I think at some point, [REDACTED] was running around. Purple shirt, shoulder length hair, and clueless to the fact that I was there and her parents weren't. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Today is our 8 yr anniversary. In my soul/heart I know that josh and I will stay married. He's putting forth efforts to change when I push him and even, when I don't. he's even read a tiny bit of "the color code" but is already claiming the guy who wrote it is [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]. But I'm frustrated b/c I feel like I'm being selfish to put off another just b/c I don't have the perfect marriage yet, but I know overall, it's good, it'll work, and may take another 10 yrs to get josh closer to where we were when we were married. [REDACTED]

well then i might as well throw in the indulge eye mask i'm running low on as well..i'm liking the lipsticks, sweet nectar, whipped berries for evening time, and i tried frosted rose that night but its too boring and grandma-y i wonder if i could try toffee or raisinberry or garnet frost-what do you think 0

[REDACTED] @ 11:05:00 20Mar09

The total would be $30.99 for the gel and moisturizer. You would wash your face like normal, then apply the gel, then the moisturizer. It says to apply 1 to 3 times daily, starting with once a day since it dries your skin a bit. Obviously you put it JUST on the pimple not your whole face.

Since it IS a new quarter, there are new gifts with purchase. Spend at least $40 and you get a mini microderm abrasion. I don't think the new look books are out yet but there are a few other limited edition offers. 0

i can put the gel on underneath the mineral foundation? (i assume) that plus the timewise moisturizer will get me through short term.what's that total?
(unless there is some min purchase deal going on)

and i just figure [REDACTED] will have the cavities and [REDACTED] will need the braces, unless he tries to blame me for that too. but i know both he and i had braces, and my teeth stayed straighter than his and i have had way less cavities so neener josh! you are right husband's are funny. 0

[REDACTED] @ 10:40:27 20Mar09

The gel is for applying on the actual zits themselves and the toner is more of a preventative measure. Does that make sense?

Yes you ARE just that cool! :)

Josh is silly. I brush so much better than [REDACTED] but my family just seems to have weak teeth and [REDACTED] is the opposite. I'm hoping [REDACTED] gets the [REDACTED] genes as far as teeth go. 0

which one is meant to zap actual zits? b/c i need the timewise moisturizer too.

and yes, i'm just that cool of a person, if only the rest of the world realized that! j/k.

yeah josh tried to say it was my brushing skills that brought on the cavaties and the only reason [REDACTED] doesn't have them too is b/c he's too young. i very quickly pointed out all of his cavaties at age 16 and it could be more about hereditary....and suggested he be the sole toothbrusher.... 0

[REDACTED]

The toner is only $13 and the acne gel is $7.00. If you wanted both the total after tax is $35.26. So since you already paid $10 then it is obviously 25.26. So it's up to you what you want to get.

Dang kids and their cavities! ;) Those orthodics have to be frustrating, but I'm glad you plan to take care of yourself. Oh and my other sister- she still hasn't told me why she was so upset that day. Totally unrelated to anything or anyone at the MK thing. I just thought it was funny how my OTHER sister and my mom both brought you up when we weren't even really talking about the event or anything. 0

thanks for the compliments, i'm beautiful inside and out? every girl needs to hear that. (its my friendly hairdresser personality) i had fun hangin out with them and felt bad that the one sister left. like it was my fault if i sounded too friendly or something for her but oh well.

i've got to put down at least $200 towards 2 of the 4 cavities [REDACTED] has, plus upto $500 for my orthodics in this next month and still a descent list of stuff i'd like to get but hoping i could put off for a month if possible or at least once i see how much the orthodics end up costing. do you want me to just put $35 worth of order in? ($10 cash you have and $25 from my gift card as far as josh is concerned?) 0

[REDACTED]

Hey Susan how are ya? My order came with the blemish control toner 3 and the acne treatment gel. So later when I was talking to my mom she's like, so how do you know that girl...Susan? I like her.

Then later I was talking to my sister and she said practically the same thing. haha I just thought it was funny. They thought you were really friendly. and pretty.

Well thanks for coming along to the girls night thing and being patient with me finding your work. I really though I-80 and 201 were on that same overpass. I'm retarded.

Hope work is going ok for ya!

Talk to ya later.

its been on my mind since we last talked, and i don't want to rain on your parade and be the constant downer-but so and so doesn't really count as the rebound. david is the emotional rebound-and like i said earlier, rebounds, CAN work out, (like my sis and her 2nd hubby) but i would still give it time. and ps, i can actually hear [REDACTED] every once in a while on a quiet Saturday. let me know if you want me to send over my cosmo license with him, then you can buy those products at your convenience. and maybe send back the dvds via him? i still need to work out at home apparently. and when would you like to hang out? (busy schedule now with school, work and if david's moving to tues-fri...) let me know [REDACTED] (if that's still allowed) 0

i was physically exhausted (and emotionally) after last night. so did [REDACTED] change his schedule to fit you and school in better? what's your school schedule like?, we need to get together one of these nights, it doesn't seem like they will ever offer ot here again, kind of depressing. and don't worry, my lips are sealed 0

yeah we need to talk, and i know its not easy to get out-when you love him, and i'm not saying to run, just create distance so he will persue you, it's that whole, you have the milk so why buy the cow? he really needs to commit and blow off mom/dad. my husband hasn't even done that with his pervert father. and we will be married 8 yrs next month. you have enough to worry about in life, not to add on a roller coaster relationship. i know its hard if you love him, that's the point. its even harder to walk away if you love him, harder to stay single if you do leave. comfortable is what's keeping my sister (the white trash one, not the 2nd marriage one) from leaving her physically, verbally and financially abusive husband...she's comfortable in her crappy job, home and marriage 0

[REDACTED]

Did you read the second one? I know what you're thinking about getting out. It's not that easy...I love him. I think things are different. They felt different last night and this morning. I don't want to be on my own. I am terrified if I do, our relationship will move backwards and I don't want that. I love living over there. I really do want him. You know how I like a challenge. I'm not letting his Momma win. He's a good influence on me getting done with school. He does want to get married eventually, have kids, etc., he's in grad school, Abby loves him. I can't explain it but I am drawn to guys that make me work. I can not stand when it's easy...I get tired and walk away. That was all of my previous relationships (but one) and marriage #1. I know this is going to freak you out but I think I do want to marry him. I know, I know. But I really do love him. 0

[REDACTED]

(jewish by the way) the one thing i got from counseling was an indication of the future would be his past actions. if he's at ALL talking with other girls WHILE you are living with him, doesn't bear well in my book. remember i've put together that my husband had a live in girlfriend that was giving out their phone# which he discovered b/c he'd answer the phone and there are and were HUGE problems with our marriage b/c of his lack of trust b/c he figured i'd do the same thing she did. i don't want you to always wonder or just have another rocky relationship that crashes and burns. call me in an hour 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 10:12:11 01Mar09

Hello my darling. Where do I even begin? I started writing you last night and then [REDACTED] and I got into a huge fight. For pretty much the whole duration of our relationship, about two months, his mother has been trying to get rid of me. She thinks I am a bad person because of the divorce and custody issue. She is a psychologist so she thinks she knows everything about me. So, she has been trying to get her precious [REDACTED] to get rid of me.

Well, I have been fighting off all of her morbid accusations through him for some time now. And it really seems like he is slipping through my fingers. I have been living, with Abby, at his house for about 6 weeks now. And last week we sent in an application for a lease on a condo at the [REDACTED]. We got approved and got the lease back last Monday and things have been spiraling out of control since then.

He consulted his mom about whether or not to move in with me (even though he wanted to)...well, as you can imagine she said that she didn't think that it was a good idea. So, we spent most of the beginning of the week debating about what to do. Well, Wednesday, he comes home and says that he doesn't love me/want to move in with me/wants me to move out/doesn't want to move into the condo.

After much work, I finally got him to tell me the real ulterior motive, his mom. She said not to the whole thing. And now, she is telling him to not be with me.

So, yesterday morning, before he left for work, he told me that he wanted me to live here, and that he wants to be with me and he's in love with me, etc. Well, on the way home from work, he spoke with his dad and yes, you guessed it. He comes home, things are great. We take [REDACTED] to the park, etc. Later on, I went to Whole Foods and when I came back, he's like I don't want you living here, I don't want to be with you, etc. Because he talked to his dad again.

Another interesting thing is on the way to the park, we stopped by [REDACTED] and there were a few college girls standing outside. I swore that he looked at them, but I tried to convince myself that this wasn't the case. Well, after I got back from [REDACTED], another thing he told me was that he was attracted to one of them and he now wants to see other people. Pardon my language but wtf? He has NEVER made any mention to me about dating ANYONE else, but apparently I thinking this is his mom scheming at getting rid of me and she is implanting this new concoction in his head.

So, he gets up to go to work this morning and he says that what he said about seeing other people last night isn't true. But, I was reading his email and he has one from some girl named [REDACTED]. This is interesting, the subject says "Our chat". The message proceeds to say, "Thanks [REDACTED], but I am seldom online and prefer email. How are you?"

[REDACTED]

What the heck is this? So, obviously he is talking/messaging or something someone else now? What am I supposed to do?

I have never felt more sick in my entire life.

I feel like his mom is ruining our relationship and I do want to be with him and I am in love with him. I do honestly believe that before his mom intervened last Monday, things were perfect. How do I fix this? I really do think that he does want to be with me and that I do believe him when he says that he loves me. I think it's the mom that is reeking havoc on our relationship. I don't think that me moving out is the answer. If I do, how am I supposed to trust him? How am I supposed to trust him now? I'm living with him and he is talking to another girl.

My mom says not to bring up the email because then he will get mad that I am reading his email, but what I am supposed to do? Ignore it? I contemplated writing her back from his email. But I decided that wasn't probably in my best interest.

I don't know what to do. Please help me fix this.

as far as the [REDACTED] goes...west coast beauty supply carries them, there is one at [REDACTED] near the on ramp to the free ways, there is a dmV right there too... (reams parking lot) i'm sure [REDACTED] has a clue about where i'm talking about. or we could go together if we can ever coordinate a schedule but you need a cosmo license, i could pass on my "prof" card if you want....

everyone at work has been asking me about you. All worried about you, hoping you retest and can get rehired and asking me to tell you that...you haven't sold me on the "base + commission" concept yet. i'd worry that the base is too low or that your license would expire before you ever get rehired, the rule is your 7 license is good for 2 years without being employed by a broker (that's why I had about a year and a half off with [REDACTED] before I rehired at [REDACTED]) personally, I'd push for the call center atmosphere, hrs, and guaranteed pay in this crappy economy...and then if you can come back, you could even carpool and get [REDACTED] shift!

by the way, i'm a total heifer now, at LEAST 4 lbs gained if you take out the 3 lbs water weight that i seem to usually fluctuate...i'd love to get those dvds back and start them up again. pretty depressed with myself depending on what i'm wearing. But you KNOW it's that time of month again...

my new fav movie is [REDACTED] and apparently there are books and everything, its about saving a marriage and josh actually watched it with me and things are getting lots better with us. I'm serious when I say honeymoon qualities on our vacation. i'm excited to work all the ot that they aren't really offering here and pick up a book and have him read/listen as our form of "couples therapy" I'm learning that we need an outside source to tell us simple things to do/say and how to react to each other, its not looking hopeless, I'm seeing his perspective and seeing his little efforts...

([REDACTED] misses you too) and [REDACTED] said he was totally going to razz you about the secret dating [REDACTED] thing, I guess it got real air time according to him... unfortunately I'm still branded the loud one and these silly boys think I'm going to tell all about their lives expect I don't, I only talk about mine and I even pointed out to him that I kept my mouth shut about you two and then when I got back, [REDACTED] was saying "everyone knows...." (except she didn't think [REDACTED]s/leads know) so its still semi secret I guess? don't worry, i'm not advertising.

But again, everyone wants you to come back ( [REDACTED] the mgr sitting next to me [REDACTED] exact words were, "i'd hire her back in a heartbeat") all telling me specifically to let you know to re test and re apply, again I think you have a 2 yr window to take advantage of, I personally NEVER want to take that test again! give me child birth, no drugs first!

And we need to see "he's not that into you" and "confessions of a shopaholic" (if you haven't seen them yet)

Oh yeah, if you are interested, I know a car guy, he goes to auction, looks for what you tell him and then you only pay an extra $500 or something from what he paid at auction, I don't know how cheap you want to go or if you already have your eye on something else... he goes for blue book and usually new or like new/barely used....we got a 2 yr old [REDACTED] like new for only 10k a couple years back from him and he's willing to check under the hood of any other dealer's car before you buy etc

tell [REDACTED] hi, and that he speaks too softly.. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

give [REDACTED] a pat for me and if you ever feel like NOT missing your boys, come to my house, about 7pm, when they are screaming, crying b/c they are hungry and don't want to eat what i made, i almost called you last night so you could hear the chaos...

and still, be cautious!!!! i'd worry about signing lease and such, you have to be suspicious and not so quick to believe everything (for example, he apologizes and then talks to his parent...) (or claims its his cousin-good but what proof?) my sister's 1st told his girlfriends that the pics of him and my sister/his wife was really his little sister....don't get burned on this, help him to understand your perspective that he keeps changing his mind based on a parent he spoke with or if he's been with you. that's what my husband is like when he's with his dad. and trust me, if i had known before i married him, would have changed things!

anywhere!

Hey girl,

So here is the update. [REDACTED] is telling me how truly sorry he is for saying the whole dating other people thing last night and only wants to be with me. He wants me to live here. And I sort of hinted around with the girl email and didn't tell him that I knew about it. It was his cousin. Oops.

So, that's good...that it wasn't really someone.

I'm studying my [REDACTED] so that I can retest. I would LOVE to come back to Wells asap.

Talk to you soon.

It depends what night everyone has available. I think we have this Friday available, Saturday is Valentine's which is probably off-limits. But I think next weekend should be available as well if Josh and Susan are still around. Chime in and we'll settle on a date/time. You can call me as well. [REDACTED] the basement mainly needs dry wall.

a little bit of framing around the central air duct on part of the ceiling. the wires are strung into the bathroom (compliments of me) but this 3rd bathroom is totally not ready.
we have one exterior wall that's not framed b/c he wants to cut out the cement eventually and do a recessed patio/outside door.
but i'd love to get the air duct at least framed so we can finish the huge family room we'd have, one room is complete aside from the carpet is not tacked down and no moldings from carpet to wall. and the other room (either a bedroom or the front room to either the mother in law apartment or lobby if we made it an office) just needs dry wall and the one wall framed if we never cut out an entrance.

his problem is he needs someone to fetch tools and help him think out loud to complete any project.(plus no kids under foot which is what i'm always doing) this is where you come in...or if i could ever sucker in our missionaries to come but i feel guilty trying to ask them when there are real people that they could find instead of my slacker husband that would push them away...

he did come to church last week, only stayed for sacrament and then did grocery shopping and hid out in an empty room the rest of the time.. ghetto i know. this is why i'm holding you to such high expectations. i don't want [REDACTED] to have to deal with this. i'm not entirely sure if he came to church b/c we moved to 11 am and he was already up and fed, or the fact that i told him about a half hr before i was planning on leaving that later "we need to talk...about us" and then he chose to come and we never really got around to the talk. i think, he thinks, he got out of it. he did take the sacrament like it was no big deal and he's always worn his garments even though he let his recommend expire last year so i don't know where he is, we'll see if he comes to church tomorrow.

i'm WAY excited to have you guys over for Conference, usually i have all the tvs blaring it for the conference, but i work Saturdays so you'd have to be in charge of that anyways, you asked, aren't you sorry about how long your answer is... 0

you don't have to plan anything.

we decide when enough people get there. we've only done it twice before, the first time, [REDACTED] and shopping at [REDACTED] just before the mall closed. the second time, @ [REDACTED] we ate $5 pizza and pop and talked and had a spontaneous run to [REDACTED] to eat pie (we were in a cornfield previously) and back to her house, talked and home by 11 ish midnight...

unless you actually want to do some type of potluck, i was thinking it'd be fun to hit [REDACTED] OR something,OR maybe rent a movie, dollar theatre or in someone's inventory (i have "get smart" and i'd love to watch it again and again) or mani/pedis and talking and i'll bring my stuff...(remember, licensed cosmetologist...)

I'm glad you have a check. :) I wasn't really sure how I was going to order all that product otherwise. Yes, you definitely get a free gift. It will be here sooner than the product since I already ordered it through another consultant.

hey, retrieving a free washer and dryer is no problem! Our dryer is so old it's probably ready to go anytime. You have no idea how great this would be for us! Well, you probably do. But anyway, Thank you so much for thinking of us. Ya, I'll give her any MK stuff she wants if she'd rather have that than cash. I think I kept a little leather jacket out of her pile of clothes. heh heh. distracted. ANyway, let her know we would love to get them from her if she hasn't changed her mind yet. maybe we can put the money we have been trying to save for a washer towards a new bed so we aren't both aching every day. that would be so exciting! I'm also looking forward to this weekend. :) 0

I could mail it I guess on Wednesday. Today and tomorrow I won't have time...I am CRAZY busy today getting tons of things ready for 1) Cub Scouts 2) [REDACTED] b-day tomorrow and 3) our homeschool co-op, which is starting up again tomorrow after a nice long holiday break. I'm teaching two classes this time, one with [REDACTED] and one with [REDACTED]

Anyway, I have a thousand things to do today to get ready for all that. Tomorrow morning we'll only have till 12 to finish everything, then leave for the co-op after a quick lunch. I've arranged to have [REDACTED] take my kids home from the co-op and spend the night so [REDACTED] and I can have a surprise birthday date. I'm taking him to dinner and a movie. Don't spill the beans ! :)

I just barely thought of this plan late last night, and luckily [REDACTED] is fine with it and has time this week. I didn't think she would when it was so last minute.

So I have to pack all their overnight stuff and food contributions to take to the co-op tomorrow as well. And I've got several presents to finish for [REDACTED], have to go shopping as soon as the mail gets here (I'm waiting for a package from [REDACTED] with a couple of birthday things...I hope it gets here today!!), make a cake, etc. 0

He was in Primary for a while, not sure how long...we were in there during opening exercises for [REDACTED] talk, and he was sitting in the back with us to keep an eye on [REDACTED], the new Sunbeam. Not sure when he left. We invited him to go to Sunday School with us but he said no.

and i told josh about 1/2 hr before church started that we "need to have a talk" and he got all defensive wanting to know what about and why can't we talk right now and i told him it's about us but i want to do it when the kids are napping and he's not glued to a computer or computer book. (which he was at the moment) then i got the kids in the car and had noticed he had gone back to the bedroom so something told me to go back in. so i asked him, "are you coming with us?" and he said, "yeah i guess" so i don't know if he did just b/c he was scared of what i wanted to talk about. i guess he hit the grocery store after sacrament and i'm guessing holed himself up in an empty room the rest of the time. but yes, at least he went, i fasted/prayed for him to give me some hope by coming to church. then i took a nap with c [REDACTED] and didn't end up talking with him. then i did dinner, the kids etc while he was on the phone with his sister and on the computer so we didn't talk after the kids were in bed b/c it was sooo late. then late at night i was trying to fall asleep to the [REDACTED] channel and he came in, changed it and woke me up and got me all angry and then i didn't want to talk b/c we were fighting. 0

Microderm should only be used once a week. Some people use it twice a week but it's pretty hard on your skin. Just make sure you use the second step to bring your skins ph balance back to normal. You should get 36 uses out of the scrub. I have two classes so far this month. One is [REDACTED] :) So I will be putting an order in around the 12th probably. If customers need things pronto I just buy them from other consultants though. Hope that's helpful. I'm looking forward to the girls night thing. plus, how often do they recommend using the micro derm abrasion kit? 0

i'll drop of the clothes before saturday, i think others would enjoy them especially before i would be able to get there. if you think everyone will be gone by 6:30, i was trying to coordinate josh's sis/fam coming over on Saturday as bday party apparently only wed or sat would work for them which is the only reason why i wouldn't come sat-but i don't know for sure on that

i've got my magazine, but is there any complimentary if you spend x you get free...i don't really want to do make up, just the skin care 0

I put it at 6:30 originally, but the whole reason I am having it this Saturday is so my sister in ██████████ can come but she can't if it's later. I was thinking people can come over anytime and see what's available but it starts at 3:00PM. I always forget you work Saturdays. Sorry about that. And who has fat clothes smaller than a size 10?!

As for ██████████ I want to get rid of some of the older makeup even though it's perfectly good. They just have new packaging now and the eyeshadow changed to mineral. So I can give you 20% off if I have anything your interested in that's in my inventory.

oh ya and I'm glad you told ██████████ about it. Anyone is welcome. 0

i think ██████████ hansen could be interested in the clothes exchange, i'll talk to her about it if you don't mind. a girl from my work gave me her "fat clothes" they are size small, 6-8 etc and some very cute shoes that i could never wear but i'll be contributing those to the pile. do you want me to drop them off before saturday? i guess i read the time wrong. it starts at 6:30pm? plus i need to order ██████████ any good deals? 0

As for whether you guys come over or not, that's up to you--if you want to, fine. If you'd rather have a date alone, fine. "[REDACTED]" is a really good movie at the dollar theatre...or, at least, it was a couple of weeks ago. Not sure if it's still there. I loved the book and thought the movie was excellent.

Hi my friend,
[REDACTED] was up till midnight last night, trying to get his computer working. He decided that [REDACTED] was messing up everything so he was trying to re-install his old operating system and couldn't get it to work yet.

So he told me last night as he was enumerating in frustration all the problems it was having (and I was so tired, and trying to stay awake enough to mumble "uh-huh" at the appropriate times) that there's no way we can watch 24 on it tonight, because it isn't even working yet. And 24 is stored on that computer.

I'm really sorry. Will you be able to contact [REDACTED] and let her know? I would say for sure that we could do it next week, since he has the whole week off and will have plenty of time to get his computer working.

He's pretty mad about it not working, and griping and complaining about how he needs a new computer. At any rate, it isn't working right now but hopefully it will be fine in a few days.

I'm sorry! I know you were looking forward to it.

I hope you have a good day in spite of us and our computer issues. :)

Love,

If you want to spend the time and hand stitch that would be great, but it's not necessary.

The closest [REDACTED]. You can send me whatever pics you want . . . I 'm just happy to be getting some. Don't worry about Mom she's just sore because she likes having current family pics of all of us kids so she can show them off when people come over:) You'll have to tell me how it works at [REDACTED]. Do I just go to the photo area and it will be under your name, my name and they will be paid for? Thank you. Merry Christmas!!! 0 wasn't sure if morris still wanted the time spent on sewing that thing before mailing. i could real easy like hand stitch together but i don't really want to bug my friend to use her valuable time doing it nicely and my efforts will definiately show that i'm an amatuer. so let me know on that.

and let me know the probably address or zip code for the closest [REDACTED] to you and i'll have the pictures ready for you to pick up already paid for at that walmart. there will most likely be a pic of the boys together and maybe one with me and the boys but josh wasn't there for the photo op so i'm not sure how offended you'd be that he may not be in it. mom totally went off on me that it wasn't a "family" photo. but don't you remember the time that we took ones without dad? we still had 'em framed and stuff. or i could send 4 individuals... 0

well, i think this marriage will be celestial. i'm paying tithing, buying groceries, actually spent money on Christmas presents, for me, him and the boys, sent my mom bday flowers, did a gift for someone anonymously in the ward...having girl's nights...some are more expensive than others...starting my own plan to pay back my parents...basically forcing myself to start spending money that was NEVER allowed before and just waiting for him to protest or challenge me on each purchase.

i'm not nagging him to go to church but expect him to support me in encouraging the kids to go etc. he said he'd "make an effort to TRY" going back to church, (like it's physically painful or something...) and i'm waiting to see if he comes to church on Christmas sunday or what..

he is doing little things like trying to keep the house clean, spend time with the boys or even just me, in front of a movie...so that's about it. he still acts like i have the plague so none of that aspect has changed...are you [REDACTED] any better? i miss our friends!!!! can i kiss [REDACTED] and make up??? 0

yeah, take your pick, hide it from extended family or have a husband like mine. i like the 3 answers God gives, yes, not yet, and i have something better...i can only imagine what its like to hide the going to church thing. but when she was talking to me, she gave me the impression that she would call you right back and nail down a time for thurs. don't give up on her! ergh though. remember how lucky/blessed you are especially in this area. Hmm, strange. I called her today and left a message saying you couldn't do it this week. I invited her daughter to come play with Nia sometime, also.

I think they need to just tell them that they are members. She always says to me "they don't know that we go to church." I always think, why hide it? 0

i tried it with my very expert friend and she thinks we are missing part of the concept on the pattern and says it would be a lot of sewing/work as far as production for profit and has the same concerns that you can carry a wipe/sanitizer etc b/c it doesn't cover everything and kids will get into germs anyways, better off wiping down etc. sorry i don't want to burst your bubble and especially don't want to hurt [REDACTED]

so far we cut out the pattern and used needles to temp stitch it together and it seems like it's missing 2 pieces so that it could be a sleeve/cover. i used very old material from a friend so there isn't any cost yet in it. but have you tried making it with paper to see how it'll lay out??? 0

sorry i had a whole msg and hit one wrong key and it's gone.
shorter version. doing good, i decided i need to live my religion to its fullest including tithing and a priesthood holder that i married and josh has to work on that. i paid tithe and he hasn't noticed/said anything yet. he said he'd start trying to go to church. (although i know he didn't last week b/c i was working and i'm sure he had a lame excuse for that. but i work this sunday starting at noon so i figure i'll have the kids ready and expect him to come. )

i called [REDACTED] my hometeacher, to coordinate a couple guys to help him hang dry wall this saturday and meg wade to watch the kids, so he's feeling the need to work on the basement again which is good. i spent $150 on groceries and i'm sure he at least blinked and i didn't watch to care...very empowering to start spending money you earn on things you deserve/need. i also enjoy that in my eyes, it's straighten up or move out and he gets to choose.

Remember, we are always here if you need us, even in the middle of the night. 0

i'm glad i'm doing the overtime, gives him time to see what its like as a single parent, (and me time to think) during the ugliest part of the argument where i was saying, he's changed, not trying, maybe it should be over, he told me HE would guarantee that I wouldn't get the house and kids and when my shocked response was, "oh really?" he said, "well yeah, it'd be 50/50 and you are right, obviously he didn't do anything the first time he agreed and then changed his mind on me paying tithing. what would he do this time? take all the money? then i do just move my paycheck and it's in my favor during a divorce hearing if i have records showing he closed out a joint acct. i can't live my life in fear that he'll take the kids and run b/c he can always do that. kind of ironic, he sort of implies that church is for weak minds that need to be ruled by fear and yet what is he doing to me now? trying to rule me with fear! but i'm not a weak mind! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 19:06:56 14Nov08

Time will tell if he's really serious or not. But he's a master manipulator at this point and seems to be capable of "promising" things that he knows will make you stop and consider and possibly not do it.

Stay strong!!!! I keep thinking of a conference talk a couple of years ago called "Stand in holy places" or something. I think it was the April conference after the tsunamis. It's really good. Really, what's the worst he can do if you say "I'm paying my tithing, never stopping again, and that's final"?

I wish you didn't have to work so much. I hope the overtime hours/ days go by quickly! 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 18:38:15 14Nov08

now THAT's a response! thanks, you are right about paying full tithing. i still even after leaving the temple, feel confused about moving my paycheck to my acct, i can pay it in the joint acct and you are right, he can choose me/family/what used to be his beliefs- over money. it really does worry me that its another of his false promises jsut to manipulate me. i'm expecting him to go to church but i don't want to tell him or have john or anyone encourage him b/c i'm sure he'll assume i was behind it all. i want to see if he's sincere, i'll be missing the next 2 sundays, and if he can't go on his own, i guess that's my answer and strengthens my argument that he'll never change and doesn't realize my priorities. i'm taking everyone's advice into consideration these days...thanks 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] @ 18:24:15 14Nov08

Hi my dear friend,
Thanks for the update. I was wondering. I'm praying for you!!!

Please understand that as I say this, I am NOT telling you what to do. This is just my opinion, but it's my very strong opinion, and I hope you won't take offense.

I think compromising on tithing is a terrible mistake. When we receive revelation we have a choice--act on it, or don't act on it. If we do act on it, we receive more and more inspiration and Heavenly Father gives us his Spirit more and more abundantly to help and direct and comfort us. If we choose not to follow it, even if it's for a little while, then he doesn't give us as much.

I think that Josh has ruined any trust you used to have for him, and that he has absolutely NO say, whatsoever, in what you do with YOUR OWN money. I was really sorry to hear that you'd put your paycheck back in the joint account and given some of that control back to him. If it were me, I would transfer it back to my account IMMEDIATELY and not let any bribes, pleas, false promises, or threats move me to ever, EVER put it back until huge, many-months-or-years changes have occurred and he has truly changed his life and attitude.

I know I am not in your situation and don't live your life, so I can't possibly know how terribly hard and sad and scary it is, but please, PLEASE trust in that revelation you received and follow it. Don't let doubts creep in. You told me you got your answer and it was to NOT compromise on tithing or any aspect of living your religion.

That money is yours, 100%. In a normal family relationship the money is shared but in this case, you have every right to take control of your own finances. As much as he kicks and screams and threatens and tries to manipulate and convince you (with potentially false promises), don't give in. Put your foot down and refuse to be moved from your stand.

Trust in that inspiration and follow it, no matter the cost. Heavenly Father will support you and not leave you alone as you follow his counsel. I would say to Josh, if it were me, "the money is separate. We'll divide up the bills and each pay half, and beyond that, neither of us gets a say in the other's earnings." If he hates that, then too bad. He hasn't earned anything more in a really long time. If he wants your trust and respect back, he'll have to work really hard for a long time to earn it. He needs to realize that YOU are more important than money. Until he starts really, really putting you first, and thinking unselfishly about your needs and desires and feelings and forgetting about the money, then he should have ZERO say on what goes on with your paycheck. After all, he makes even more than you do!!

I love you and am praying for you. 0

sorry for the cut and paste, this is the response i sent to what would have been my father in law if i ever married that jerk ex boyfriend, he's a very old family friend that really seems to be on the same page as me as far as marriage/divorce/regrets etc....

i wrote him a 3 page letter that was definitely written with divine inspiration. outlining how the gosple was central to our dating/proposal/engagement and marriage and how he gradually turned away and how he treats me like a roommate, dictating how i spend my money i earn and non job working time. and how he's alienated us from all family,friends,neighbors since he is too involved with polictics, and worrying and ignores any cues that his audience is not interested in his topic.

and how he belittles me for believing in a higher being, having faith, and wanting to pay tithing and live my religion to its fullest (that was the answer in the temple)

and then i left everything up to him saying i wouldn't compromise anymore and i don't expect him to have overnight changes but i want religion to be a positive topic in my family without him trying to take away our children's free agency to choose (he is always trying to force his opinions on everyone else and the only way to get through to him is relate it to money or his boys...)

so we had a 2 hr screaming fight last night. i got him to see some of my perspectives and he said he might be willing to start going to church. (i gave him your example of faith/tithing/real estate) along with other good examples but it really seems like he's digging in his heels on not paying tithing. his words are, "if i'm saving money by not having a cell phone, we carpool everywhere or do without so we are saving on a second car and you (me/susan) make bread from scratch and we are very tight on our groceries...then you can't just waste all that savings on paying tithing" and yes i've tried the argument that your hand has to be open on holding your money to allow you to receive anymore of it" and you have to put one foot in the dark sometimes to start seeing the light...

in the very heated part of the argument, i would say, "then maybe you should move out, maybe this is over, you don't seem to want to change and always blame me for our problems" (like i complained about the cheap/lame bday present he gave me and he felt like he had gone out of his way for me...and that's why he's not affectionate to me, and i said i'd give him some credit for that since i didn't know he came back late from lunch to buy my present and since it wasn't on a list he felt like it was an extra-but this excuse still doesn't explain the last 4 years...)

i'ts fine what you tell my dad, i just find it funny that i've NEVER seem him use facebook and yet he tells you what he thinks, i've kind of left my parents in the dark since about a week or so before i went to the temple so i'm surprised he seemed pretty accurate w/o getting the feedback from me.

i agree, everyone says they see how happy i was (like [REDACTED] says, i was fun before i got married) and how happy i was after my girls' night (my whole attitude was- screw josh, i deserve it! i am worth it!) and then to fall back into the stress of not knowing etc and worrying about how he'll react and the fact that everyone else seems to know this marriage is possibly doomed (because of his decision to change from what i married) or at least in severe trouble and yet my husband thinks we just need to spend more family time together..(SERIOUSLY are guys THAT clueless?? ?).he does little things like try to keep the house clean so i feel like he's trying on little things but not major, life altering decisions like the gospel. he has the nerve to call me a "religious freak" for wanting to pay tithing and go to church (you know, stuff he used to do with me) interesting that you say you married on the rebound. i had met him after having my "heart broke by a non lds guy" (total jerk, i don't think my parents/sisters even to this day know about him-it i know he wasn't even close to being the one but i figured, 'innocent mormon boys' can't break my heart) and in walts this church going, temple endowed guy...saying all the right things. especially with your son, i think i get into more trouble with the lds type vs when i date more casual with non members. if he can't handle the tithing i pay. i'm sure we'll be divorcing. and he holds on to his money too much. and i want a righteous priesthood example in my home for my boys so i can be happy like how others say they see lacking.

i remember [REDACTED] me how she one time had to pull over while driving and say, "Lord, i can't take this, i leave it up to you" and that advice has stuck with me so i guess i saw one of her rare shinning moments. and maybe married my husband during one of his, if i can't get him back to that. and i can accept that now.

and you may not remember saying as much to me, but i remember your influence, you had [REDACTED] scared um crapless a lot of the time. i wish i could flip a switch and influence him for the positive and not have done the back and forth relationship, i still feel partly to blame about that. i still dream about him and think/worry about him but i'm sure he just sees me as "judgemental like my mother" as he and now my husband, put it. oh well, maybe your experience and me dating those results, and then making the same mistakes in my own marriage and then all the help from everyone that i'm getting will help me to pull out sooner.

Hi. So here are my thoughts. I know that I don't have all the answers but I have lots of age and sagely advice due to my own screw up. First of all my family, including my cousin who is more like a sister to me, never liked [REDACTED]. They tolerated her because they thought I was in love and they wanted me to be happy. I was in love at first but I married her on the rebound. Yep, the rebound. I was still very much in love with my high school sweetheart even though she dumped me after I went on my mission. I had it coming because I wasn't a very good boyfriend. I had things to deal with but with that said I married someone who everyone said was a bad match. Yep you're right, you did what you did for your reasons and that happens. I'll get to the point. [REDACTED] was flakey years before we moved up here and she was very hot and cold about church. She used fortune tellers, numerology, and really believes that God is an alien and we are part of His experiment. That's just the beginning. So [REDACTED] told me once, "As Bishop and [REDACTED] President we do not advocate divorce. With that said, [REDACTED] you need to protect your children's spiritual welfare before it's too late." I didn't listen because it was too painful. I just went inactive and tried to keep peace. It didn't work. Satan wasn't happy until he made sure that we as adults shredded each other and affected the kids in the process. So daughter-in-law, this husband needs to "fish or cut bait." As a mother, God has given you the biggest responsibility any human can ever have. Your son's spiritual, physical, and emotional well being. As a father, and priesthood holder, if he doesn't get his act together he is going to have to answer to God why he chose to be a bad example of what a Priesthood holder should be, and it won't be pretty. I know, I am still begging for forgiveness for not being better with [REDACTED]. You CANNOT and SHOULD NOT think he will change unless he wants to change. The thought of losing his family because he refuses to put you and God first over all the other petty bull sh*# isn't enough for him to change and I mean in the next few months then he has lost the privilege to be a priesthood leader in his family. It took [REDACTED] former husband losing her and fighting for ½ custody of [REDACTED] to get him to pull his head out. He's still very worldly but thank goodness [REDACTED] has his mothers love of the Lord to get him past that. When the actions of one spouse chase away the Spirit of God from the home, and not just now and then, you know that those things will affect your future priesthood holder's view of how they should treat the responsibility of the priesthood and their future wife. Having one car, no cell phones, and other nice things is just the way things go now and then. I am driving my dad's 1990 truck and that is our only car. We have cell phones for work. We pay our tithing because we know if we didn't we would have any of that. God has promised He will repay us if we give Him just 10% of what is His anyway, back to Him. He cannot lie. If he did He would cease to be God. So tell what the hell his name is to test God. He cannot lie! Wealth won't always come after the first tithing payment and he'll need to show God he is sincere. Susan, you are a good woman, mother, and daughter of our Father in Heaven. Those sons have been entrusted to you for a reason. Follow what the Lord has told you and will continue to tell you. If the marriage works, good. If the marriage doesn't, then it's sad but let those boys have a positive, spiritual, influence. Okay, I am done preaching. I think that's more words I have said to you since I've known you. [REDACTED] and I love you so take care. P.S. I haven't said a word to your dad about my thoughts on this, and I won't because it's between us. [REDACTED] 0

wow, i totally agree, the big question is whether or not me putting my foot down will make him change. i agree, i want the priesthood in my home and since the 2 most perfect guys are taken already [REDACTED] then i'll have to assume the Lord will send me someone else. (and if i could have any luck, that the divorce won't be disasterous but amicable) but seriously though, i did get a weird and peaceful feeling about the 2 single men i interacted with in the temple, one especially on the escalator. i think the Lord was telling me there are other righteous men out there for me if my husband chooses to not be. we'll see, i'm waiting his reactions 0

Many years ago, I found myself stuck with a husband who seemed sooooo different than the one I married. We had a small son together, and because my husband's parents had been divorced and remarried 3 times (seriously - not to each other, tho) and because my own parents divorced after 23 years of the seemingly "perfect" marriage, I was hellbent that I wasn't getting divorced no matter what. I had lots of friends try to tell me to leave and of course, I wasn't willing to hear it.

I decided that when it hurt my son more for me to STAY than to GO, I was outta there. I reached that threshold and other than not having my son with me all of the time, have never regretted it for a minute.

Remember that you've chosen to be with this person eternally. The success of that marriage is dependent on both of you. You can't change somebody else, only what you're willing to do and settle for. If you want your kids to grow up in the gospel, they have to have a role model. If you want them to grow up knowing the right way to treat a wife, they have to have somebody who shows them how.

You've gone to the temple. Listen to the answers you receive there and give yourself 100% to fulfilling what the Lord asks of you. If it still isn't working, and you know you've done all you can, then it's in the Lord's hands.

I am so thankful that my son has had [REDACTED] as an example of what a Priesthood holder should be. Getting a divorce isn't easy but in the end, your most important job here was raising healthy children. Do what helps you best get that done.

yeah i decided i'm not compromising anymore on tithing. it'll be scary to see what he does, or if he just argues when he finds out but i'm finding out more and more that family/friends were seeing the red flags long before i did and of course i wish they would have said something! of course i realize i would never take back having my boys and the trials i've experienced so far have made me so much stronger and i should really thank the jerk i married for putting me through them

i can just hope for the best outcome and move forward with or without him and pray for my kids to not be misdirected by him and i'll be a good example for them and try to be happy for myself. ( i wonder if your kids will ever realize the hell you were going through...i'd hate to have my kids look down on me for staying in the marriage to continue his parents' divorce issues-and i realize hindsight is 20/20 so i wouldn't judge but this major decision that every troubled marriage has to make is becoming more understandable...)

you two are lucky you have each other, i'm sure i'll be so much happier looking back on these days...i agree [REDACTED] sounds like your true perfect other half...keep up the efforts and maybe she won't realize that she married beneath herself??? hee, hee, i can still joke through all this right? 0

Boys are icky??? What the ...hey I'm a boy!!! I was going to launch into how your husband is sounding like my kids mother years ago, but I will do that later after I have put it together in my head so it makes some sort of sense. Working over time? ? so is [REDACTED] both at work and at church. We have a "harvest fair" tomorrow at church and she is the Emergency Preparedness Coordinator so she has to put together a presentation for the ward on how to get ready for disasters like Wednesday s flood and future events. She is so awesome. I wish I was half as good as her. Talk to you tomorrow. [REDACTED] 0

that's it?!? come on! i need more advice than that! i'm thinking see if he goes to church by himself without me nagging him and maybe pay $50 a paycheck (bi-monthly) towards tithing and see if he truly DOES anything. (since he's sooo against tithing and think it negates all our hard saving techniques) i'm worried that he's just still manipulating me and planning on riding the gravy train that i am...and remember, i have 2 sons, i don't want them screwed up like him, boys ARE icky but that's what i'm stuck with. its not the same with a girl...pesky conscience and religious belief's that keep getting in the way! :- ) 0

i wrote him a 3 page letter that was definitely written with divine inspiration. outlining how the gosple was central to our dating/proposal/engagement and marriage and how he gradually turned away and how he treats me like a roommate, dictating how i spend my money i earn and non job working time. and how he's alienated us from all family,friends,neighbors since he is too involved with polictics, and worrying and ignores any cues that his audience is not interested in his topic. and how he belittles me for believing in a higher being, having faith, and wanting to pay tithing and live my religion to its fullest (that was the answer in the temple)

and then i left everything up to him saying i wouldn't comromise anymore and i don't expect him to have overnight changes but i want religion to be a positive topic in my family without him trying to take away our children's free agency to choose (he is always trying to force his opinions on everyone else and the only way to get through to him is relate it to money or his boys...)

i agree on everything!!! yes he's coming to the christmas party, yes we should hang out and yes i am paying tithing (he hasn't discovered yet) and his very convincing argument is "if we are saving money from no second car/ cell phone/ groceries etc that i don't have the right to take all those savings and 'throw it away' on tithing" and yes, he's been basically ruling me with fear, intimidation, control and always manages to convince me in the moment to the point that i second guess EVERYTHING that i thought i knew about myself/beliefs/traditions etc. it's like i'm finally realizing i'm being brainwashed and just starting to pull the little cords off (you know, like frankenstein-how funny that i'm comparing myself to a scary huge green guy) 0

So what can I say [REDACTED] told me a little about your going ons with your Husband. My heart breaks for you. Ok that made me sound like I have a rainbow shirt on. But ya I feel you should hold your hand up to your Husband and say "this is my Pimp hand dont make me use it." Im glad Amber can be there to talk to you about problems because SHE HAS SOME BIG ONES. I will give you some pointers as for what to do granted we have never hung out but im better than most im SMART. Here is a list of what i would say if i were in your shoes.

1- on Tithing. Say to him I wish to Tithe for the fact its what I believe in and if you loved me you would understand, that, thats what makes me happy. If he says he does not believe in it tell him your not going to look down on him for his beliefs, so he should not look down on you for yours.

So are you both going to the Christmas party? you guys should it would be fun.

ok dad, so you DO USE facebook. yeah i've been bending my adoptive father in law's (and his spouse since my real mother in law is good) ear for my troubles. to let all ya'll know, he hasn't discovered that i paid tithing on my income yet and he's been actually trying to keep the house clean and actually do fun stuff with the kids while i worked overtime, this weekend. i figure, money is his language, and he'll either divorce me over tithing or keep to his word and start going back to church and become the guy i orginally married. don't pull out the check book to pay the divorce attorney just yet, but i'm realizing there will be other worthy men out there and i'm already feeling a lot happier (even co workers noticing)without him or with him as long as i live how i want/know i should. 0

Hey there!

After the comment you left about epidurals I found myself very curious about your birthing experience. As you may know my mother died because of hospital procedures done while she was in labor. So, since I have that to come to terms with and my stepmothers fears of natural births she has instilled in me. My husband and I have been doing objective research on hospital and home births for the last 2 years. My husband comes from a mother who has had 7 completely healthy home births, so we originally had many different feelings about what we were going to do for our own children while we were dating and engaged.

Here are my questions:

What hospital did you give birth at?

Where you induced, if so, what drugs were used to induce you pitocin and (cervidil or cytotec )?

How long were your labors before the doctor insisted you have a epiduril or you wanted it?

Did the doctor use fetal monitoring the whole time? Did any conclusions come from the info. From the monitor (like a c- section or induction or scare that the heart rate was dipping).

Did they let you eat little snacks to keep your energy up and your emotional state stable?

Were you able to move around during the labor or did you have restrictions like an IV that immobilized your position and activity?

Did the doctors allow you to take as much time as you wanted during the labor?

Sorry its a lot, but I am very curious

Lots of love,

Hi Susan,

You can be Mike's adopted daughter in law all you want. :) I see the change in your marital status... sounds like you may have made a decision, then? 0

Well...you are too good for my son but I would be happy to be you father-in-law proxy...besides, your dad is still one of my closet friends. Sounds like your father-in-law needs a good smack up side the head, but enough of negativity.....We actually have sun breaks for the day then the rain will start by tonight. Did I tell you that I might be moving to Utah next year to attend school? If I get accepted I will be in [REDACTED] going to the [REDACTED]. You know how much i love to cook and love food...look at me and you can tell I have push away from the table disease. Talk to you in awhile. [REDACTED] says for you to hang in there and she'll let you know what was in her mind when she decided she needed to start a new life with a guy she likes. Lucky she picked me. Is she good looking or what??? Talk to you soon. [REDACTED]

yeah, i get others confused when i explain you are my ex's dad, almost father in law-like family, but as far as i'm concerned, my REAL father in law has hit on me and is anti anything good so that position can be filled whether or not i stay married to that guy's son...and yes, i'm going to the temple this Wednesday, i feel like family/friends are holding their breath for me-thanks 0

[REDACTED] @ 11:26:08 10Nov08

I like your profile photo....hang in there and know that you are in our prayers. I have a busy few days but I will get back to you. Put the religious welfare of your children first in all things and the Lord will help. I wish I would have had the courage to move on when needed or been stronger and not given in. Keep your head up and have a prayer in your heart. It's not easy, but it is worth it. Love ya..."Uncle [REDACTED]" (wish it was father-in-law [REDACTED] cause you are a good person.) 0

thanks i've read your response about 10 times so far today, i'm going to the temple next week on the 12th. i really appreciate you sharing your experiences and advise, i remember observing as a teenager mainly through [REDACTED]'s eyes obviously and to this day, still wondering. it's good to know that even our Heavenly Father lost 1/3 of his children, i dread losing my 2 sweet boys like how you feel, but at least we are sealed and we have the promise that a righteous spouse/children will be with us. that's why i'm at least grateful that this is occurring earlier in the marriage so maybe it won't affect my kids as much whether or not their dad falls away and hopefully comes back. or mom remarries a true example and then i'd just pray that their good experiences with mom would outweigh the negative influence of their dad. my husband's dad was rm, temple marriage and now totally anti-mormon, as in he's even traveled to ut (before we lived here) to attend an "anti mormon general conference" so i've always feared that aspect. i'm always ok with the LONG response. my parents are just gung-ho ready to help pay for a divorce attorney etc and everyone thinks its so easy to leave and magically start from scratch. so far my inspiration in affect has been to stay and specific words to say to him, but i'm not satisfied until i get my concrete answer next week. I've already specified that i want HIS timeframe to match mine at least this time. i fear everyone will be disappointed in me if i stay. thanks you're family to me and i appreciate your thoughts and feel free to give me [REDACTED] input...Susan 0

To be honest....that is the path my kids mother started to go down and I let it go because I didn't want to break up the family. I started to change my values and make exceptions so we would get along but in the end I wound up inactive and the kids followed their mother's teaching of "you don't have to go to a church to love the Lord." Now none of them go and have taken the "easy road." I have a friend who did the same thing you are talking about then one day he made a big mistake and wound up in jail (DUI). His wife gave him an ultimatum go to church with me and the kids or find a new place to live. He now works with [REDACTED] and me in the temple. There is no easy solution to the situation you are in. The one thing you MUST do is never give up your values and stop going to church! It is that important. Pray that the Lord will soften his heart. Pray for strength to do every thing you need to do to keep your temple recommend. [REDACTED] can testify, and me too, about paying tithing. We are in Real Estate and went 7 months without a pay check. We have always paid our tithing and somehow some way we had money for food, gas, bills, and not much else. Now we are staying busy and the bills are getting paid. At some point you may have to issue the straighten up and fly right or else speech if you want you and your children to have the Gospel in your life. Trust me when I say I ache everyday knowing that all 4 kids are totally inactive. I blew it. You are right, go to the temple and ask the Lord and don't leave until you get an answer. Take thought out solutions and questions and I testify He will answer. Take care. Sorry for the LONG response. [REDACTED] 0

define "if its not celestial..." right now he's stating we/i can't pay tithing until we are "Millionaires" and when i asked if he wants to baptize our oldest [REDACTED] (he'll be 4 in [REDACTED]) and if he wants to be with us in the celestial kingdom he said, "yeah but i don't think you have to go to church or pay tithing for that..." i know, i know, i'm locking myself in the temple for a day and fasting and praying but still, what do you DO with that??? 0

Nope, they are not too high at all. You've lived with years of misery and it's time to end the misery, either by him changing his tune and really trying to discover love and all that again, or by leaving. Remember, "men are that they might have joy." Heavenly Father wants you to be happy!! 0

my words...just this once. i just bought $75 worth of iodine (it has a years + shelf life) and i think i might [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] very empowering, if he doesn't want me involved, i'll just spend what i need/want to and he can deal with it. an old family friend is getting married this weekend and i was looking at their engagement pics, how depressing, i know it's not meant to be like that forever, but it has to be better than this, you still love [REDACTED]..this just isn't fair and i'm a whiner with apparently too high of expectations 0

[REDACTED] @ 07:51:58 10Nov08
I'll ask him tonight.

I still don't think he has any right to have one single bit of say over what you do with your own earned money, as long as you contribute to the bills.

Praying for you, and [REDACTED] fasted for you as well last week! 0

can [REDACTED] take josh to work this wednesday only??? i have my dentist appointment at 7am in WJ which means josh would be to work early by at least a 1/2 hr or so, and the rude and selfish husband that i have expects me to cancel/reschedule which i WON'T do b/c i know its too late and i was planning on spending all day in the temple after the dentist. so if [REDACTED] could take him to work, i can still pick josh up.

i've read this book ([REDACTED] about drawing boundaries and not being an enabler or passive/agreeable or even creating a crisis (applicable to me would be writing a letter stating, "we are roommates, not married, why don't you move out for 6 months and see if you want to work on a happy marriage after that...") and i am going to do some deep searching at the temple. i'm envisioning a session, an hour in the celestial room jotting down impressions etc until i feel confident about a game plan. i am becoming more free with the money i earn, spend $100 on my girl's night (not that i'll do that every time) and i'm going to buy vitamins/iodine online (the iodine seems to make him more rational/normal and we have ran out...) and i'm moving $25/paycheck back into my own acct and outright lying if he asks me. i'm still very torn about whether or not to pay tithing and push that argument...so anyways, yeah, sorry about that but let me know about wednesday/[REDACTED]/ride thanks my long lost friend! 0

ok well I decided not to mention it to [REDACTED] so it can just be the 3 of us. That will probably be the easiest. I don't mind driving. I wouldn't have to move the carseat since it would just be the 3 of us. Even if I did, it's easy to move now that it's forward facing. If we wanted to go to [REDACTED], there's [REDACTED] and Doesn't matter to me. We should figure out where we're going though so we can figure out transportation. I wouldn't mind driving but the middle seat belt in the back is broken. If I took out the babyseat I would have 3 seatbelts total for passengers. Or we can just stick to the 3 of us. 0

no, he was procrastinating and we wanted to eat cake so there were some left over peanut butter sandwiches that the boys had, he ate some bean/chili i had made from the night before and i had cake and later, after the boys were in bed, a salad. although after church i put the kids down for a nap and left for a mtg at 1 (it got over in 45 min) and then went straight to a friend's house to give her a pink blanket i crocheted and ended up talking until 5pm so i enjoyed some me time and he was dealing with the kids wondering where i was, (ha ha-sucks don't it?) and then we loaded up and went to his sisters for dinner (his mom bought me a robe-this makes 4 total and i hardly use them) and he bought 2 dvds from the church distribution magazine/catalog, that's it! cheap white board and the dvds probably cost a buck each! i actually asked him why he likes to torment me by acting like it's not important and dragging things out-HUGE let down. so when i have my girl's night and shopping and stuff i'm going to tell him it's b/c he never did anything for me/bday and he's always spending money on his bike or more tools etc and i'm the one working overtime! 0

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] @ 09:43:52 19Oct08

wow girl, that was quite a response. So did you end up going out for dinner last night?? I don't know what it is with your facebook page, but my computer always freezes so I can't look at anything or comment on your page, kind of sad. oh well. I sure hope you enjoyed some cake:) 0

my daycare lady informed josh to bake a cake, have the kids in bed, draw me a bath with candles etc. so what i came home to (i had to shift swap, work thurs noon-10:30pm and fri off) a disaster of kitchen/floors/counters etc dirty clothes and toys strewn about the house and at LEAST, the kids in bed. he was watching bits of SNL (the political funnies) and he suggested i frost the cake he had made (hence the disaster zone) i ended up cleaning the kitchen/house and going to bed at midnight and the next morning he had frosted the cake. we had a church carnival thing and when we came home, i demanded my presents.

He gave me a white out board to write in a calendar with pretty purple background but the lining was white discolored to yellow in parts, plastic. which he immediately noticed and said he would fix (yeah right-another project he'll never get to) and as he was handing it to [REDACTED] to give to me and was using the disclaimer, "you better not complain b/c i spent money on this!" i ended up giving him a $25 gift card to [REDACTED] that i earned from work and said he can use it for the house and stuff, saying "Happy Birthday, from mommy to daddy and the house" give a gift on your birthday... so i'm wondering if i should do tit for tat and give him a white board "to do" list or something lame like that for Christmas.

he's given me chocolate, stuffed animals, a glass vase with fake flowers arrangement, a peridot necklace for Christmas 2006, (i know it must have been on clearance/cheap-who buys that unless you have an august birthstone) and my birthday last year, chandeliers for the kitchen/dining room and now the whiteboard. he's spending $40 here, $100 something there to pimp out his bike so he can ride in the dark and then had me bike to work on my bday b/c i didn't start til noon and then he wouldn't have to bike in the dark and i'd pick up the van from him and drop off the bike. make sense? i think the cake mix/frosting cost the same as my actual present. lame, it doesn't look like he considered the price range, thought that counts or anything, like it was a bin of clearance next to the check out stand. wow, i'm bitter. i didn't end up buying the icecream cake b/c i came home to the one he made (and the huge mess from it, hello? does he know me at all???) but this is definately not over. i'm doing a girls night and i just might start demanding i do multiple girl's night/month to spend some money that he doesn't seem capable of. maybe a shopping trip, dinner etc. it seems like he only penny pinches on groceries and presents for me! ugh!

anyways, thanks for letting me complain. so i'm trying really hard not to be enticed by overtime and coming home to spend time with my boys. i also just got a new calling, Relief Society Secretary, which means possibly weekly meetings and stuff on sundays and me trying to find time to straighten out the lists/paperwork and its been busy at work b/c everyone is stupid, paranoid, and making the phone lines busy and the market to go crazy.

curious, still a [REDACTED] fan? anyways, love you! miss you all! hope you can relax and get pregnant. maybe you two should try the candles/bath tub thing... oh well. when josh bought the cake/frosting there was pink and i asked, "oh! is this for when i have a baby girl?" still feel like i'm dreaming in that aspect but i am starting to play my cards and get my way so i'm not so celebrate anymore at least.

my daycare lady informed josh to bake a cake, have the kids in bed, draw me a bath with candles etc. so what i came home to (i had to shift swap, work thurs noon-10:30pm and fri off) a disaster of kitchen/floors/counters etc dirty clothes and toys strewn about the house and at LEAST, the kids in bed. he was watching bits of SNL (the political funnies) and he suggested i frost the cake he had made (hence the disaster zone) i ended up cleaning the kitchen/house and going to bed at midnight and the next morning he had frosted the cake. we had a church carnival thing and when we came home, i demanded my presents.

He gave me a white out board to write in a calendar with pretty purple background but the lining was white discolored to yellow in parts, plastic. which he immediately noticed and said he would fix (yeah right-another project he'll never get to) and as he was handing it to [REDACTED] to give to me and was using the disclaimer, "you better not complain b/c i spent money on this!" i ended up giving him a $25 gift card to Home Depot that i earned from work and said he can use it for the house and stuff, saying "Happy Birthday, from mommy to daddy and the house" give a gift on your birthday... so i'm wondering if i should do tit for tat and give him a white board "to do" list or something lame like that for Christmas.

yeah... so i think i'll get a white board "to do" list for him for Christmas (his bday is Jan 20)

but i'll do girls night and shopping and buy my own presents, treat myself, thanks for the acknowledgement 0

sorry again for my spastic husband, this dvd borrowing is an argument that needs to be fought. (and i WILL win!) you guys are too nice and he's too irrational for him to treat you guys this way. like adam said, look at the track record... i never watched an entire episode of kind of the hill but i believe you. anyways, after i got off the phone with you i was talking to my mom and she said that my dad was very proud i was doing a girl's night to make josh take care of the kids, so lets still do it, but not sure when, i guess maybe later in the month, on a thurs night so we can accomodate [REDACTED] young womens and the fact that i work fri/sat until 5:30 if that works for you? Thurs Oct 23rd or 30th??? lets do a dinner where we don't have to worry about accomodating husbands and fussy children while waiting on a menu. does that sound good? like [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED] something like that? again, sorry that i've so tormented over accomodating someone so selfish (josh) it

yeah its not marriage counseling, just me going, only gone twice so far, the second time my dad happened to be in town so i had him talk to her too. i'm kind of wondering if she's helping me or just a sounding board that i pay instead of asking family/friends/relatives without the joy of a dedicated hour but with the hassel of paying/worrying about a babysitter and transportation. (one car, not biking to work anymore too cold)

so i've moved my paycheck to my indv bank acct a wk ago fri and he hasn't noticed yet, i also moved 1k of 7k which i fear he might be finally discovering today. i'm working until 9pm MT tonight. yes, i'm not allowed to buy groceries and we have 7k in the bank! ridiculous? YES!!!

so we've talked to the bishop almost a month ago and bish was saying [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

exciting, scary but justified and i just have to keep reminding myself that. and the obvious, that he won't pack up the kids and leave or worse 0

Susan! How are you doing? How's the dandy marriage counseling going? Any hope? I remember how much "garbage" came out by going to counseling. And by the way, I would be totally disgusted too if my spouse said counseling could affect our credit score. HELLO?! Is that all that's important to him? Is he in the great black hole called denial or what? I wonder how long it would take him to wake up if you did go to a lawyer, made some papers, changed the locks, and had a police officer with you when he came home....HA HA HA! I am sorry, but I find that amusing because apparently there is some truth that I've heard that guys are just dumb. What did your counselor say when you told her what you hope to accomplish by seeing her? I had a woman counselor too, but I didn't trust her, so it was never good to begin with. In fact she probably helped me make my decision without even knowing it!

Well I think you are a very brave and strong woman! I am cheering for you no matter what decision you make! 0

my goodness, do you have a crystal ball or something? i went to my first counseling session yesterday and he said nothing. then out of the blue this morning he interrupts his very important work to call me and tell me he found an article that says if you go to marriage counseling it can affect your credit score. (no matter how lame this argument is and everything i said, i fear he won't listen) and i told him he agreed to counseling and that is the only way this marriage will get fixed and he eventually hung up on me! i am so tempted to just find a lawyer, write up some papers and change the locks and have a police officer with me when he comes home from work. probably can't get all that done today but maybe by my next wed/thurs days off. i am so disgusted in him. either he is that scared of counseling and i need to deliver the unspoken, "counseling or divorce" or he thinks he can weasel his way out and i'll stupidly endure this miserable marriage. well he is wrong. i told my counselor when she asked me what i hoped to accomplish by seeing her that, "you'll make me strong enough to leave him or strong enough that he'll realize and he'll finally change and i won't have to leave him." but it definitely seems like you, just about all my friends/family are for the divorce argument.

yeah, i've disagreed with some bishop's counseling in life, take it with a grain of salt as they say. i only wish it would be easier if i didn't have kids, daycare, a house and job to worry about. just packing up and leaving would have been nice. well i got to see if i can find out the laws and then cover my tracks so he doesn't see caller id or internet history etc. thanks for the info, i'll keep you updated 0

Sorry it took me so long to write back! I don't have a computer at home, so when I'm on Facebook, I'm at work. Man oh man. All I can say is wow. Well wow in a oh.my.gosh way! Hey you are a smart woman, look at you- all prepared and knowledgeable! good for you! I really admire you for sticking it out and trying to work on things! I am so sorry your husband turned out to be a freak. What is it with men changing?

I had none. Absolutely none. Yeah, when I packed my things and left, he knew exactly where to find me (my parents house). We talked in his car in my parents driveway when he came over. He seemed dazed and confused. He asked me if I still loved him, I said I don't know (but I really wanted to scream NO I DON'T LOVE YOU!) Asked me if I was going to divorce him, and I said yes. He asked me to give him 1 month to change, ONE MONTH! I couldn't believe my ears. Then he said give him 3 months to change. But I said no way. It's too late, I made my decision, you had 2 1/2 years to change. Later he told our bishop, and the bishop wanted to see us both. But the bishop could tell I was pretty firm in my decision. Then he basically gave my ex-husband some hope by saying that he has seen this happen where a couple gets divorced then 6 months to a year later they realize what a mistake they made, get married again, and are stronger then ever! I seriously wanted to vomit right there and then. I said to myself, my bishop has no idea who I am or cares how I feel. When I arrived with the divorce papers, my ex-husband wanted to keep them for awhile, take them to someone to make sure everything was legitimate and such. I could tell he was crying, and it was hard, but I still did not have any desire to change my mind. He actually signed the papers a week later. I thought he was going to contest it for sure. During the 3 month wait for the divorce to be finalized, my ex-husband would call me periodically and see how I was doing. He would be all laid back and easy going. So weird. I didn't want to talk to him or see him ever, but to be nice I did talk to him and see sometimes. I think he was still having that hope I would change my mind. After the divorce was final, he didn't talk to me for about over 6 months. Then all of sudden, he called out of the blue and told me he was getting married! He said it like I was his friend kind of way, not in a ha-ha I got married before you kind of way. I'm really lucky our divorce wasn't nasty. It turned out better then I ever imagined and it is truly a miracle that I'm still not married to him.

I really hope things will work out for you-in whatever way is best for you and your family! I know it's easier said than done. I have a feeling though that you will know what to do, it will get to that point of no return soon, and sometimes sooner than you realize. 0

i have friends he would never think of if i need to leave in the middle of the night or whatever, a safe deposit box, docs on file etc. no weapons aside from power tools and kitchen knives.

its a toss up that he would either accept the divorce, like he doesn't have the balls to admit it unless i do. or realize i'm calling his bluff/ am serious about divorce and shape up to save the marriage. and i will settle for no less than him going to counseling and/or taking meds regularly and actively working on fixing the marriage, trying to go to church (we were married in the temple, and use to go weekly-he's changed a lot.) no more empty promises.

He is mainly emotionally, verbally, and financially abusive. he's justified that if i'm yelling in his face or hitting him that he thinks no matter what other men of authority say, that its ok to hit me back, so yes, that's always in the back of my mind. but lately i've even picked up the phone and said, "i'm calling 911" and he takes the phone out of my hands, or immediately backs away and then tries to make me look like the crazy, irrational one.

basically, i'm a single mother with this guy that lives with me and dictates to me what i can do in my spare time and takes my paycheck and spends the money. for the most part the bills are paid but i'm not allowed to be a part of that except for actually making money. he just got a job and makes $5/hr more than me so that's good if we have to go that route. (alimony/child support)

plus, just last week he left my kids home alone b/c he wanted me to stay home/sick kids, and i was biking to work and my phone was off. my 3 yr old was awake and crying and alone for at least 20 minutes, an eternity to a 3 yr old. and since then he's said numerous times, "mommy, don't leave me in a lonely house all alone, that makes me sad" and he's a lot more clingy, wanting to sleep with us, or coming into our room in the middle of the night etc.

and 2 days after that happened, my husband got mad at me for allowing the kids to get a tiny sunburn, no pain, no flaking/peeling skin. so obviously he's not rational enough to have custody of the kids. his justification was, "i thought you were just down the street" ( i immediately suggested friends he could have called to be with the kids, or at least take the crying, frantic child, even unstrapped, or duh! take both kids anyways! )

i fear apart of me is emotionally divorcing him anyways, like you said, but the other part of me has a tiny glimmer of hope. i've been doing a lot of research, especially [REDACTED] so i'm good on the books. but i really fear that it may be too late by the time he decides to make changes, and i know that's unfair, so i'm 2 people, one hoping counseling will start us on a long but promising improving marriage. the other person, with a quick, painless (as can be expected) divorce.

you just left and packed up your things? i can't really do that. did he try to find you? make promises after the fact, didn't cooperate with the paperwork/splittin assets, what happened next? do you still keep in touch? sorry so long 0

You poor thing! I can't even imagine. Is your husband abusive? Mine wasn't physically, but he sure was abusive emotionally, mentally and verbally! I think that hurts just as much if not more than physical. Not to down play physical abuse, because ANY abuse is not acceptable. I was afraid my ex-husband was going to go psycho too if I told him! He kept a gun in the house and I was afraid of him, so I was definitely worried. That's why I packed my things and left one day. Without even a note. I read a lot books in the library about abuse and where I could go, what to bring with me, what to do if I decided to leave. I can try to find the name of the books if you would like to read them or if you are close to a library. Let me know! 0

i can't even look at him without disgust written all over my face. i've got a counseling session for myself set up Aug 20, i guess to reassure me that i'm not crazy and then give him the expectation to go himself or its over. he has total control of the finances so that's the only question if we do divorce but you are right, the emotional welfare outweighs staying in such a crappy situation. my only hope is he'll see counseling fixes me, and he'll go and fix himself. but yes, house, car, life insurance policies, custody of kids...the list goes on so i dread how angry he'd be if i did finally blurt out "i want a divorce" (i've been biting my tongue) the times we talk about it, it sounds like he's in denial that i'm that serious/miserable. and i could see him kidnapping kids or going pyscho so that's not good either. myabe you could move to utah and live with me if we divorce! emily will be in provo! ugh my life! 0

Oh no! Well, I'm sure you are working it out between your husband and the Lord. But you gotta do what you gotta do, especially if that means the welfare for yourself and your kids. A lot can happen in a few months once the word "divorce" gets spoken. Hopefully things will turn around and turn out better. My ex-husband didn't even want to consider it. Divorce was not an option to him, but that just goes to show how much he was in denial of the whole situation and my feelings. He wanted to change AFTER I left him but I already made my decision emotionally and by then it was too late. I'm sorry you are unhappy. I can't imagine what that would be like to consider that decision when children are involved. But I know whatever you decide you are doing the best that you can. I will keep you and your family in my prayers! 0

Well, I'm sorry that you feel that way, and I really hope that one way or the other, things get better for you. I really like what I'm doing now, and I like how I do help people with what I'm doing. I will be the husband that [REDACTED] deserves and needs, because I promised her that I would be, and I don't go back on my promises. I just can't do it.

As for my job, I don't feel like I'm taking any risk. The company really sets you up for success, if you do the work and what they ask of you. I have been doing that, and I am doing well. I just need to keep it up.

I'm not going to say that everything looks simple for you on the outside, I know how complicated things can get, but I know sooner or later, something has to give. Just take care of your kids and make them happy. If they are happy, you probably will be happy. 0

yeah, i have absolutely NO desire to give financial advice, i've seen too many people get burned w/ someone they paid to trust and most financial advisors only get to offer a basket of choices, kind of like, this basket of vanilla, chocolate, or swirl except most investors need baskin robbin's 31 flavors that are constantly changing.

i'm against the whole concept, either invest in some mutual funds (still the basket concept) b/c you don't know, or do your own research, i don't want to be left holding the bag when the market does what it did and not be able to help all my customers as they run to me in panic.

i would have loved to be a 50's mom, cook, clean and take care of the kids and look good for a husband that actually appreciates me. sorry i'm a little cynical but happily ever celestially after seems like never to me, or at least not with the guy i planned on. so irritated about that. i know from the outside it looks so simple, tie him down and talk but its not. i have to speak his language and his native tongue is move the money aka control and then i'm hoping he'll finally be willing to talk. still if you guys are ever in UT, or if my parents ever move out of WA we (at least me and kids) may come crash at your place so you better make the money so you can fit us in. my house is always available. be the awesome husband that my sister deserves and don't ever let things spoil like i have. it was like the frog in the water and someone slowly turns the heat up and it never knew to jump out. i'm just letting him decide if he's going to deal with me or not. money is control and i'm his asset to be controlled and abused and i'm not allowing that any longer. 0

yeah, I'm kinda glad I don't have my securities lisencing yet, that would mean that I would have to answer questions for people, instead of saying "You know, I really couldn't answer that question, let me give you the phone number for my manager, he can answer all of your questions." Even when I have it, I think that I might still do that :-) Well, how is life otherwise, still having problems at home? Well, hopefully everything gets better, one way or the other....have fun at work tomorrow. p.s. they are desperate for people to work overtime and i handle self directed acccnts and ones with a financial consultant that the cust either can't get a hold of or doesn't want to follow their advice to sit tight, or only they have the license for annuities etc. people are even paranoid over money markets b/c they are sipc not fdic. its like we are purposely trying to reincarnate 1929 crash. ugh! so anyways, they need people on the phones, i've got the skills to handle all the issues allowed and these are very long days!!! no need to worry about compensation/rent-oh i get it! the movies, ha ha..

i don't want the clothes to go to waste. and i don't plan on needing them unless i'm really lucky and marriage is saved, and then i'm hoping for a girl. if the clothes survive your twins, you can give them back or donate or pass them on. [REDACTED]

i'm talking the big plastic boxes with the folding in/out blue lids, at least 4 or 6. so bring the truck. i'm not working tomorrow but doing a bicycle class thing instead with josh so call first, or sundays, wed/thurs are good. are you doing the temple thing on the 18th? i am if you want to lend me a ride?

yes, girls night i haven't had the chance to mention it to [REDACTED] but lets plan on Oct. i'd prefer a wed night, although that means young women can't watch and ugh, we'd have to rely on husbands...i don't know, still in the works...or thurs but then i'm working on fri, but then so are you-whatever, let me know

and thanks for the "strong lady" and "messy but love is all around" comments, its encouraging when you feel helpless and in the dark, i know [REDACTED] is always good for a raunchy laugh and you can be a true friend. so thanks! 0

Geese! These dumb computers. I had an entire message for you and my slippery fingers deleted it! Now it is late and [REDACTED] is off the phone. Well, here we go... I would love to take some clothes from you. I feel kind of guilty though because I don't have much to offer. I guess you can keep renting from us. Yes, lets get together in October. September is too crazy for me. My class is lower than low. And there are a few I could kill already. I hope your days are getting better. You are a strong lady to put up with all this. Keep working at it. If you ever need to escape, come on over. It's messy but love is all around.

i've got a whole lot of clothes you guys could have, some is brand new from my mom and some is a collection of hand me downs from my sister and her one boy, or various stages of the 3 boys josh's sister had. won't be offended if you don't want them but i've tried to organize them in 0-6 mos, 6-9 mos, 9-12, 18 mos, and i've just moved [REDACTED] into the 24mos -2t and [REDACTED] is in the 3T.

i do a lot of layering with onesies, and then a shirt for the winter etc so i always like to have lots of clothes when i don't keep up on laundry. (plus diaper explodes/learning to feed themselves) if you guys are spending the big bucks or your family is then that's fine. (i remember something about the rich bro who adopted twins outfitting the room) but i hate to just keep storing these in hopes that the marriage works and i have another boy instead of girl.

Also, we should plan to do a girl's day without any children, for our birthdays! kind of reunite our old visiting teacher thing. 0

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] the other night dad asked me what more i was going to do, and it kind of threw me through a loop, i think i've done pretty well so far with my life and i am enjoying where i am at right now but whatever. you know there are ways to have things better again... but i understand that it takes two to make a marriage and two to make it to eternity. so i think one thing that would be the best is to start on the little things are work your way up, make sure you are becoming the best person you can be. and work on loving each other and putting each other first. also church, reading together, etc. i'm sure you've heard it all before but sometimes when i would get angry with someone else, i had to get over that for a little to make sure i was being the best i could be. its hard i know...but you can do it. if you both want to. and as for a divorce. just face it it will not be pretty, you have two children a home, well a life together and divorce just rips that apart and is something that won't just effect you, it will effect the children, home, etc..... but now i'm sounding like i know everything, and i don't so yes i'm here, sorry i'm not able to chat a ton, but yes i'm here. 0

[REDACTED]

argh!!! if only i had listened more, i only remember vaguely [REDACTED] saying she could see us having some control issues but that we could work it out. but now i think she just said the work it out b/c she didn't want to bear the bad news just like i did with [REDACTED].

i really believe love is blind and i just don't know if this marriage can recover and be happy and yes i know i need to pray, its like i don't want to ask b/c what can i do about the answer? not go back in time, suffer in the current marriage, or suffer in the divorce and never trust my instincts again?

yeah, dad told the counselor (he came to my second session) that he didn't think we should have gotten married, that josh wasn't worthy of a recommend and never loved me. ouch, dad is on a pedistal in my book and to hear that...

i guess i'm hoping that all the financial changes will wake him up to change (for our marriage, for the better) or divorce me and some how miraculously it will be a painless divorce-dreaming i'm sure. yes, i can be a little obsessed with the lack of hindsight, how did i change? what do you remember? elaborate!!!! and i'm off wed/thurs so the phone works just as good or i'll check back Fri-

i love you no matter what you tell me, and i mean it that i hope you don't have any of these problems with Patrick, i don't know what he thought of my little threat in the temple, moments after you were married to him. i don't want to be a femi-nazi man hater.... 0

[REDACTED]

susan i told you not to marry josh because you changed so much. remember how close we were in high school and everything. well then you went to college and that was great you still said hi or whatever and you were fun, sometimes ditzy (like me, like us all) but fun. then you started dating josh, and you weren't fun any more and it wasn't just because you were always busy with him or anything, it was because you seemed to change for him, it bugged me and when you finally said "oh yeah we are engaged" when mom and dad asked, i said don't marry him, but you did, and in the temple so i thought "okay she can do it" but you know that doesn't change anything what we said, cause you are married to him now, and you have two very sweet crazy boys together...you know we will all support you though with whatever you do. 0

[REDACTED]

so did you think i shouldn't have married josh? apparently dad did, and i saw warning signs for mary/eugene that we both agree she would probably ignored if i had mentioned 0

trust each other. and yeah, unless they bring back polygamy, i don't think you can help me, but you know i'd be the hardworking wife as evidenced by josh. just waiting for him to realize the financial changes i've made and then he can choose to accept them, learn to trust me, or he'll call it quits and we'll divorce. but i agree, i know i have problems, question is, do i need to see a shrink for them? 0

Hey lady! You weren't at church today. I understand. It stinks getting 2 little boys ready and everything; especially if they only have one parent like yours do. So, as far as your problems... I don't mind you letting us in on it. Frankly, I think both of you have some issues to work on but his (Josh's) list seems longer [REDACTED] and things should get better. (But please, use protection... I don't think another child would help.) I wish I could help you out in that department, but well, you know... that wouldn't work.

you got me in trouble the other day, josh claims that you don't want to hear anything about our marriage and bothered when i'm telling you [REDACTED] the gory details. this just feeds his lame arguments. the bishop appointment last 2 hrs before i walked out b/c he refused to do mediation/counseling and the bishop said he'd probably mess us up more than help us. josh stayed, assumed talking to him for another hour and he hasn't told me anything. anyways, i don't blame you but thought you might be interested. if it is true, let me know and i'll only speak to [REDACTED] in private, or if she doesn't want to know either, let me know. i guess we're still trying to save our marriage. working on our trust issues with the finances for starters... 0 agreed, i always morn the loss of summer, still plan on being at our house at 6:30pm tomorrow Wednesday. that should be plenty of time to do homework if you're diligent.

i'm home during the day on wed, so i'll probably be finishing up feeding the boys and you can do baths (stay by both of them the entire time) and stories and in bed by 8 or 8:30pm. or at least [REDACTED], if you want to let [REDACTED] stay up but do stories and no movie/tv with him and we are trying to be more diligent with sticking to our guns of no snack before bedtime if you didn't eat enough dinner...

b/c of josh's excuse that if you use your credit card to pay for marriage counseling, the card co. can look at the payee name and it can affect your credit b/c of your "lifestyle", so he was finding another lame-o excuse to weasel out of counseling.

it was really by accident, i was googling and found a number for a marriage mediator, (figured it was like you said) and called to ask if its ok to change the locks and greet him with his stuff packed, a police officer, and paperwork. the guy laughed, said i could but he would never recommend that and proceeded to explain that what he does is tries to mediate between the two, the problems to be fixed and then worst case, divorce. he usually charges $120/hr but said he would discount it to $80 for us, and he said he sees "significant progress" in 1 or 2 sessions. so he's not trying to milk us for everything. and josh is all paranoid about it showing up on our credit and he explained he KNOWS he has illegal customers and if they prefer, he'll go by first names, no ssn, cash only.

josh is either in denial or thinks its still negotiable whether or not we use this guy. the conversation we didn't have last night was for me to clarify, this is his last and only choice and if i don't see dramatic improvements in our marriage that are sustained/constant, then we WILL divorce.

how about that. that word wasn't truly in my vocabulary until about 2 months ago. i'm not scared anymore. apprehensive of if we have to go through an ugly divorce and splitting things and such but not afraid of the D word anymore. obviously, if this is the kick in the pants that he needs and we can move forward to have a happy, loving, functional marriage that would be best. if not, then ugly or not, i'm not taking the abuse and subjecting my boys to the environment/affects any longer.

love ya, and good job on getting mom/dad to join as it were...doubt mom would ever visit her own page anyways...homework for you, find a fellow parent to swap kids or teenager, pathetic really. its not like you live miles from another human! 0

found a marriage mediator, they help you talk out the problems and write up a game plan/solution to fix the marriage in just a couple of sessions, and if its not working out, then they can help mediate a divorce also. got josh to talk to the mediator but haven't had the conversation of, "you are doing nothing else to help/heal/fix so its this (mediator) or its over" i think i'll have that conversation tonight. or Sunday. wish me luck and more. more turmoil on carpooling/biking/driving/public transportation for the both of us, not looking forward to...just make something easy for me please!!!! 0

I just wrote you a really long letter and I hit a button and the computer changed pages and deleted it. sad face!

Okay that sucked. I am so excited to hear from you! I keep this picture of you and I with me. (I've moved a lot all my old photos things are in [REDACTED]) You are in your sexy Papa Johns outfit the really big green polo and we are standing in your old kitchen!

Ha ha. I have missed you over the years. I always asked [REDACTED] Shaw about you. She said you did her hair for her wedding way back in the day. I am glad we are in touch now. How is everything. Wow you are a mommy! - of 2 boys!! handful? That is crazy - you gave birth and everything. Its just crazy to think you are a mommy. Remember when we use to walk around the track and talk about [REDACTED] having [REDACTED] Wow - time flies! So much has changed. What are their names/ages? Yes send me pictures lots of them!! When did you have them? When did you move to [REDACTED]? And you are working at [REDACTED]? Did you go back to school? How is the family. The baby [REDACTED] is married? What about the other 2? How are your parents? The pony?

So much has changed for me. I moved to [REDACTED] when I was 18. I graduated from [REDACTED] and I dated until I was about 22. Our break up got to me - I went through crazy stage. goodness. Then I moved to Phoenix 4 years ago to be with my sister [REDACTED]. I am majoring in [REDACTED] studies with minor in [REDACTED] I love it. I graduate in Spring 09. I cannot wait. I will be the only graduate crying I swear. It has been a long and expensive road! ugh.

My family is crazy! no - seriously. My sister and I started talking when I moved to Bellevue [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Its just my sister and my grandmother Mimi. My mom is well "out there" I love her and she is a good person with a unconditional heart. I am not sure if I ever told you but she suffers from manic-depression and untreated it has become worse over the years. She lives in [REDACTED] with the Mexican guy she married when I was 18/19. I am not a fan of him. He crossed personally boundaries with me and when I told my mother she married him... interesting. After that we never were as close.

One of these days I will fill you in on all the crazy details of what was going on with me back then. You probably knew some stuff but it was pretty messed up. But that was a long time ago.

Thank goodness!

So moving on to better things... I am engaged not married. I am practically married! [REDACTED] (korean name) or [REDACTED] put that on the computer. When people ask him he says "its complicated!" what a nerd! We have been together for over 3 years. He is my other half and all that mushy stuff!!! I finally found my [REDACTED] Hot Guy!! You have to remember I subjected you to watching that movie many times! Speaking of movies every time I watch Sliding Doors I think of you!!!

We are getting married after we graduate - most likely summer or fall of 09. I am not having a traditional wedding - I would be run-away bride! I would freak out all that planning and stuff. Not me. We plan on having a small ceremony just his parents and my sister and mimi on a beach some where. Thats it.

After we'll have a big party - you will be invited to that!!

But no "here comes the bride" I would freak! ha ha.

We have discussed kids - I can't believe I just wrote that! Once I am 28 we will think about planning them. I dream of having a family some day, but first I want to finish school, work on our clothing/toy business (its korean toys I'll send you some things for your boys), and learn korean first! Speaking of Korean, once I graduate we are going to Korea for 6 months or longer to teach English as well so I can become fluent. I understand a little to get by but I want to be able to have conversations and not sound like a child. ha ha. Then once we leave there we will be moving to Cali. My sister is moving to San Diego to attend med school next year and [REDACTED]

So we will be back and forth from Korea and La. crazy huh!?!

Well, that is my little summary. I would love to see you. I have an aunt and grandfather in Utah (not sure which city) who I have put off seeing. But now I have a really good reason to visit!!

You. I can't believe it! You have to tell me everything what has been going on.

You can also email me at [REDACTED] - if its easier.

i've been wondering about you! if you ever come up north, i've got a house, 2 boys, and for the moment, a husband, not so sure about that last one, things are pretty not good.

Would love to see you. only have access to computers at work mainly (stock broker/phon rep for [REDACTED] Investments) and not allowed to add pictures of my adorable boys without breaching security, but i've got them in pdfs, if you want me to email them. i miss you!!!!

Wow, married and all! tell me more! how long, where'd you meet, where do you work, you look so happy!!! i bike to work, down to pre pregnancy weight after 2 kids, proud of that, but that doesn't do anything for the stretchmarks. i miss you, whenever i see black pearls or clinique or go back to [REDACTED] sticks shifts, ha ha 0

Awww! I feel your pain sweetie! I really do. Truly, things happen for a reason. I never would have imagined that I could have gone on with my life after my divorce, but here I am, 4 years later, and couldn't imagine my life with him anymore.....

Don't think I'm anti-marriage at all. In fact, I would say that you should fight till the death. Granted, I don't know what your personal marriage is like. Just know that it's really not that scary being divorced....hard at times yes, but who says marriage isn't hard either?? ;) I'm sure [REDACTED] could attest to a lot of this....if she hasn't already. It's not in your hands and the best you can do is rely upon the Man upstairs and realize that you will be taken care of no matter what happens!!!! After all, that's all ya can do!

i'm holding out that once i get myself into counseling, he will get himself into counseling and either fix himself and he'll work on the marriage or divorce and he won't play dirty kidnapping the boys etc. He's controlling and possibly bi polar and totally irrational. what finally hit me was my dad saying i was abused wife without the bruises.

Right now i'm trying to stay sane so that if it comes down to it, i never lose custody of my boys. but life after divorce isn't looking so scary, its just whether or not my husband would allow it. i've got a job and a home and i think i could support me and my boys without him and MAYBE in the far future, trust someone else after i've had my entire family/friends grill him and some type of emotional prenup wouldn't hurt. wow, that's the first time i've been able to sum up my life so quickly. 0

That's very sweet, thank you. Acutally, [REDACTED] paid for an hour massage and mani/pedi and waxing at the [REDACTED]. I did it yesterday, Sunday, since it was the only day he had off before my b-day. Then Mom sent a little package, oh I need to call and thank her, of a big hersey bar that [REDACTED] and I polished off:) Anyway, I hope you're doing okay. Thinking of you. 0

Married names always throw me off . . . Hey, I'm going to be moving down to [REDACTED] in a couple weeks and I'll need someone to do my hair. I always get it done at [REDACTED] (I'm addicted) and [REDACTED] was saying that you got your training there!
Think you could help me out?? 0
